TWO SHOT TO DEATH BY GANGS

ANTI-JAPANESE RIOTERS FIGHT POLICE; 10 SLAIN

Chinese Student Mob Stones Station.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, China, Oct. 12.—(Monday)—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek, president of China, in an address today asserted that if the council of the league of nations, convening in urgent session at Geneva tomorrow failed to obtain a "just settlement" of the Sino-Japanese controversy "China will resort to war."

CANTON, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Ten persons were killed and 90 wounded in a clash here last night between police and a large mob of Chinese following a student meeting at which speakers demanded a complete boycott of Japanese made goods.

After the meeting the students tried to enter a foreign goods store on the Wuchow road. Police arrested their leaders and started for the police station. The mob followed and stoned the station.

Police, unable to halt the rioters, fired several rounds of ammunition. Among those killed by police fire was a merchant sitting in a restaurant opposite the station. Of the wounded 11 were in a serious condition.

Army Man Fires at Police.

Later bands of students wrecked a car, which they alleged was owned by a police captain, and burned its mixed stock in the streets. Another group of rioters cut the mooring cables of lighters discharging Japanese coal because the coolies refused to scab work of unloading.

The Japanese consul protested strongly to officials, and the unloading was resumed. Police finally were successful in restoring order.

It was reported that Chief of Police Chen Ring-Wan had resigned his position.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 11.—Dangerous rioting developed here early this evening when more than 2,000 Japanese residents, after attending a massmeeting to pass resolutions against China's severance of trade relations, marched down the North Szechuan road tearing down all anti-Japanese posters.

The Japanese rioters raided many Chinese shops where anti-Japanese posters were displayed inside and windows were smashed and counters overturned.

China Issues New Ultimatum.

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—(AP)—China served another ultimatum on the Japanese government today, demanding the withdrawal of Japanese troops from points of the Japanese railroad zone in Manchuria within a week.

The Chinese minister and Foreign Minister Baron Shidehara of Japan have been negotiating for several days, it is understood, attempting to agree upon a plan for the Manchurian commander to take over the maintenance of peace and order after the withdrawal of the Japanese troops.

The Chinese ultimatum, it was believed, was issued in the hope of speeding up the negotiations.

Tokio Defies China.

Commenting upon China's recent demand for the immediate withdrawal of troops from Chinese territory, a spokesman for the foreign office said today that such action "was impossible until the Chinese make arrangements to govern and police various districts where Japanese subjects make their homes."

The spokesman, in this connection, referred to reports received from Mukden today by the military saying that 800 Koreans had been killed by Chinese soldiers and bandits in the districts near Mukden, Changtu, and Changchun, between Sept. 23 and Oct. 8.

Special dispatches from Mukden printed in Tokio papers reported bombs dropped Thursday from Japanese airplanes on the Chinese barracks at Chinchow were of Chinese manufacture. The bombs came into Japanese hands when troops seized the Mukden arsenal on Sept. 19, it was alleged.

China to Reply to Japan.

NANKING, Oct. 11.—(AP)—An emergency meeting of government leaders was held today to consider Japan's latest note, a protest against anti-Japanese activities in China.

The note, carrying a formal warning that anti-Japanese agitation must be suppressed or "the Chinese gov-

U. S. TO TRACE CAPONE'S RISE IN TRIAL TODAY

Bodyguard's Gun Case Up to Court.

Al Capone's life of luxury in Chicago will be shown when the government resumes the account of his spending habits today. But before the gangster's trial proceeds in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court a contempt case against Philip D'Andrea, his bodyguard, is to be disposed of.

D'Andrea, who has accompanied Capone into the courtroom daily since the trial began last Tuesday, was seized on Saturday with a gun, and he was taken to the county jail for the week-end.

Picture of Rising Power.

Federal prosecutors declared they were not through with the expenditures phase of their case. They attach much importance to this evidence, contending that a man cannot live in the style of an Indian prince without money coming in as well as going out. This, taken in connection with other evidence definitely putting Capone in the gambling business as a source of income is the body of the prosecution.

More High Life Revelations.

Capone's expenses at the Lexington hotel, where he installed himself and his retainers in 1928, after leaving the Metropole, are yet to be shown. The government has already introduced the Metropole evidence, showing how Capone's bills averaged more than $1,200 a week and were sometimes jumped to $3,000 by two night banquets. The Lexington testimony is expected to detail an even more lavish scale of living, for the gang chief was becoming more powerful and more prosperous then.

Sales people from the large State street stores will take the stand to tell about Capone's purchases of silk pajamas by the dozen and other expensive if not always tasteful haberdashery. These witnesses probably will tell how much Capone paid for the suit he is wearing and the bilious sulphur colored suit he wore when he pleaded guilty to tax evasion and booze conspiracy, later to take back the plea.

Other witnesses will testify about the purchase of several $5,000 automobiles by Capone.

Gamblers to Be Heard.

Another phase of the prosecution yet to come is the Cicero gambling business, through the testimony of Fred Ries, Pete Penovich, and Frankie Pope, all gamblers who worked for Capone. The defendant has already been linked with the ownership of a circulating gambling house that netted more than half a million dollars during 1924, 1925, and 1926, through the testimony of a minister and gambling house cashiers.

But the prosecutors have been laying a foundation, introducing the names and pictures of Jack Guzik, Bobby Barton, and Ries, for further evidence of gambling income.

In the trial of Jack Guzik, Capone's financial secretary, it was shown that Ries purchased cashier's checks in huge amounts and sent them to Guzik by Bobby Barton, "the little man," Guzik's chauffeur. It was disclosed that at least one of these checks will be traced to Capone.

Hold Johnny Torrio Ready.

Johnny Torrio, predecessor of Capone, for whom the defendant worked for $75 a week before forming his "organization" in 1925, is on hand, but the prosecutors said they were not certain of using him as a witness. However, it is believed that they will use Torrio, for much effort was put forth to bring him here from Long Island. The prosecutors would not even intimate what they seek to prove by him.

It is reported, however, that Torrio transmitted money to Capone from New York and that he will be confronted by documents which will force him to give evidence against his former "employé" or go to jail himself for perjury.

Twenty U. S. Witnesses Left.

Altogether, about twenty witnesses remain to testify against Capone, and the government's case is expected to require about three more days. Defense Attorneys Albert Fink and Michael Ahern have not disclosed their plans, but objections they have made indicate that the defense will be brief and based largely on proposi-

HE NEVER BECAME DISCOURAGED

For several years after 1479 Columbus tried to "sell" his idea, but without success. People remembered sudden engagements elsewhere whenever he and his map appeared.

In 1484 King John of Portugal gave him a hearing and referred the plan to a commission. Columbus knew what that meant, but he did not give way to despair.

THREE MILE LIMIT

The next day, or at least a few months later, the commission reported adversely upon the plan.

King John, however, thought there might be something in the idea and, unbeknownst to Columbus, sent a caravel to test it out. The captain of the caravel got discouraged after passing the three mile limit and returned from the voyage.

Throughout all of 1490 Columbus was unable to obtain a hearing from King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella. However, he did not become discouraged.

In April, 1492, the royal pair at last financed his expedition and in a few months Columbus returned, smooth-shaven (make of razor not specified), after discovering a new world, was met by the city greeter and was lionized to immortal fame.

Edison Doctor Says Death Is Not Far Away

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison gradually grew weaker today, and his personal physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, indicated that his death was not far distant, although his amazing vitality still is standing him in good stead. This afternoon's bulletin indicated a slight improvement in his condition from the morning, when he woke in a drowsy state from seventeen hours of unnatural sleep. The bulletin read:

"Mr. Edison was sitting in a chair for about two hours. He is again in bed and asleep. He was able to take a little nourishment, but is, of course, very weak."

Takes a Little Food.

The first bulletin of the day said:

"Mr. Edison slept almost continuously from 3:30 p. m. yesterday afternoon until 8:30 this morning. He roused sufficiently this morning to take a few spoonfuls of food, but he was very weak."

Mr. Edison's three oldest grandsons and a niece of Mrs. Edison's visited the Edison home today. They lunched with Mrs. Edison and were permitted to see Mr. Edison briefly. Another visitor was Mrs. H. K. Hitchcock, a sister of Mrs. Edison and the widow of Holbert Kellogg Hitchcock, whose sudden death a year ago terminated a series of experiments to improve Mr. Edison's hearing.

Inquiries Still Pour In.

Inquiries by telephone and telegraph, many of them from distant points, continued to pour in today, giving striking evidence of the widespread sympathy with which the illness of the great inventor is being followed. Among those who telephoned were Henry Ford and William S. Barstow.

Williams, Ex-Navy Flyer, Wrecks Plane Doing Stunt

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Al Williams, former U. S. navy flyer, cracked up his plane against a high bank at the Charlotte airport today, but was not seriously injured. He had been entertaining the crowd at the Southern Air pageant here with an exhibition of stunt flying and was preparing to land when his controls locked.

'SCARECROW MAN' RECOVERS FROM 'SPLIT MIND'

Denver, Colo., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Charles Mays, "scarecrow man" in the Colorado Psychopathic hospital here, has relaxed and no longer stands for hours with his arms oustretched, tense and unmoved.

A victim of what physicians diagnosed as schizophrenia, or "split mind," Mays has eaten and slept regularly and normally for two days. He was said by hospital attendants tonight to be able to talk, but as yet has not given any coherent account of himself.

Mays, a former resident of Beardsley, Kas., was found in a cornfield in eastern Colorado by a sheriff who believed at first the figure was a scarecrow. The officer had to lift Mays' rigid form into his automobile.

Physicians said schizophrenia is a condition where the victim lives equally in reality and in fantasy, and that Mays' posture might have resulted from his belief he was being crucified or he was representing a cross.

Machine Gun Bullets Kill One in Street

One, riddled with machine gun bullets, was dying in Lincoln street near 14th street when a police squad picked him up. He was identified as George Wilson, 33 years old, 1511 West 19th street, a former policeman who had been arrested several years ago for extortion and more recently for participation in a robbery. Wilson died at the county hospital.

The second victim was James L. Quigley, leader in the wars of the south side beer barons, whose body was found floating in the drainage canal at Lockport. There was a bullet wound in the head, another in the body, and the police theorized that the McErlane gang, the Saltis mob, or the O'Donnell group might have been his slayers.

Found by Girls.

Wilson was found in the street by three girls walking along the dark sidewalk of Lincoln street near a Baltimore and Ohio railroad viaduct. They informed the Marquette police, and Lieut. Patrick Carmody went to the scene.

He found that Wilson had been struck eight times, once in the head, once in the neck, and six times in the body. The regularity of the spacing between the wounds indicated the use of a machine gun, according to the lieutenant.

Although no witnesses were found who saw the shooting, it was regarded as certain that it occurred not far from the spot where the body was found. The nature and number of the wounds precluded the possibility that the victim could have been transported far before his death.

Discharged from Force.

Wilson, whose police service was at the Lawndale station, was dismissed from the force in 1922, after several wine dealers declared he had been extorting money from them. He is later believed to have been a member of the west side Druggan-Lake gang. Only a week ago he was arrested with his brother-in-law, Emil Kozeluh. The latter was held to the grand jury in $75,000 bonds on eight robbery charges, and Wilson, charged with being his accessory, was held in $5,000 bonds. Kozeluh is still in jail, but Wilson furnished his bonds and was released.

Late last night Chief of Detectives Schoemaker ordered the arrest for questioning of George Druggan, brother of Terry Druggan, ex-beer boss. Squads went to Druggan's home at 4912 Washington boulevard, but failed to find him. Reports were that Druggan's arrest was ordered on the basis of a remark Wilson once made to the effect that "if anything happened to me George Druggan would be responsible for it."

Wilson was married and the father of four children.

Quigley Head of Gang.

Quigley was 45 years old. Formerly a railway switchman, he became a saloonkeeper at 5700 South Racine avenue. Once reputed to be a member of the O'Donnell beer outfit on the south side, he recently formed his own gang and was said to be claiming trade territory of the O'Donnells and the McErlans forces.

Last spring, when Edward Fitzgerald, a beer hustler and chauffeur for Frank McErlane, was killed at 74th and Peoria streets, gangland attributed the slaying to Quigley. The home Quigley occupied at 8004 South Marshfield avenue was fired on and the police, after taking him into custody, were told anonymously that he was the murderer of Fitzgerald. Evidence was insufficient. Quigley was freed.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms theorized yesterday that Frank McErlane may have been the killer of Quigley. McErlane's wife was found slain last week. The police hypothesis is that McErlane slew the woman and his enemy on the same day.

Two Believe They Hear a Bomb; One Gets Shot

Martin Mesener, 1351 Wilson avenue, heard a noise on his back porch early yesterday. It was a hissing noise and Messner suspected a bomb. So he went out to investigate and found that rain had fallen into a can containing carbide, causing the disconcerting sound. As Messner was going back into the house after moving the can to a dry spot Frank Hupfel, the janitor of the building, who also had heard the noise and believed he saw a bomber, fired his pistol and a bullet struck Messner's right hand. Messner was taken to a hospital and Hupfel was locked up at the Town Hall station.

Bandits Hold Up Two Movies; Get Only $18

Bandits held up two south side motion picture theaters last night, but realized a total of only $18 for their work. In the first robbery, a gunman smashed the ticket window of the Hamilton theater, 2150 East 71st street, menaced Miss Bernice Fournier, 7620 Colfax avenue, the cashier, with a gun, and snatched $10. In the second, a man threatened Miss Ione Trainor, 11730 State street, cashier at the Roseland theater, 11331 South Michigan avenue, and stole $8. He escaped in a car driven by a confederate.

EAST MAY WIN ALL BENEFIT IN U.S. CREDIT POOL

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The idea that President Hoover's half billion dollar national credit pool was born with an eye toward Wall street and might result in the renovation of doubtful assets in the big eastern banks rather than in helping banks throughout the country, was growing tonight.

The funds of the corporation, according to Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York clearing house committee and chairman of the group named to organize the "credit bank," will be used where they "are most needed," and funds raised in a particular federal district will not be utilized solely in that district.

May Help Distant Bankers.

Such a regulation leaves the way open for the big eastern institutions to do a nice bit of fall house cleaning and trade some yellowing securities for fresh dollars from the interior. In other words, Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, and a lot of other federal reserve centers may discover they are raising money to aid New York bankers instead of the home folks.

Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve board, passing through New York en route to Washington tonight, refused to discuss "such questions." He termed any such idea "ridiculous," said it was the "other way around," and warned the reporter he would not be quoted on anything.

Mr. Buckner declined to be quoted directly, but told financial writers that New York City would raise about 150 million dollars of the total amount and that not all of the money would be needed here.

Born of Secret Meetings.

The idea persisted, nevertheless. It was recalled that the credit pool sprang full born from secret meetings between Mr. Hoover and a group of eastern bankers. It was a Wall street financial project in the beginning, has been suffering its growing pains there, and has a more than even chance to confine most of its operations to that district, according to the views of those who do not look toward the east for their light.

It has been learned that financial institutions in the east will make heavy demands on the fund when it is put into circulation. In the first place the New York banks have been keeping the brokerage houses going and in turn keeping the stock market from dropping through the bottom.

A lot of them need to clean out "frozen assets" just as badly as any country bank in the cotton, coal or wheat country.

Point to Market Booms.

The manner in which the Hoover credit plan was put over, according to its critics, did not tend to inspire confidence in the man in the street. Secret meetings, denials, leaks, stock market booms a full day ahead of the "birth of the baby" gave a lot of people the idea that the pool was a bit of high financing that would mostly benefit high finance.

In some quarters of the financial district the credit pool was referred to as presenting the possibilities of sectional advantage. Wall street for the most part, however, was highly enthusiastic.

Initial Levy 172 Millions.

The credit bank is going to Delaware to incorporate. Papers will be filed up tomorrow. It will have only $1,200 of capital stock, but its initial levy on the banks of the 400 Clearing House associations throughout the country will start the corporation with about 172 millions. It was intimated that this amount probably would be sufficient for the time being.

Credit facilities, according to the bank's organizers, will be available only to banks, private bankers, corporations, etc., but individuals will be permitted to subscribe as much as they wish to its support.

The credit pool's sponsors for the most part have contented themselves with formal statements. In the beginning they explained to reporters that the "machinery of forming such an organization was highly complex" and its details were not for every day consumption.

Sponsors Not Quoted.

Now that the pool has had its start the sponsors still are remaining outside such revealing things as direct quotation marks, but some of them are talking in understandable terms.

An original backer of the Credit bank tonight insisted the idea of the collection of any inland money for New York use was not to be entertained for a moment. The money, he said, from the big centers will be used wherever needed. New York will not get Chicago money, he was certain, insisting the eastern banks were in the best shape of any in the country. The idea, he said, was to raise money where there was money and shoot it to spots where there was a need for ready cash.

Not Limited by Subscriptions.

In Mr. Buckner's statement, issued late Saturday night, one paragraph read:

"It is not contemplated that the borrowing of any banks will be limited by the amount of the total subscriptions of the banks in the association formed for any locality. Advances will be available in excess of the aggregate subscriptions of the banks of an association if the banks give their consent, as provided in the articles of the association or bylaws, and each bank becomes liable for its pro rata share of the loan."

There is an old adage down Wall street way that "money begets money," and somehow New York's financial district does not seem in character in such an altruistic guise as it is presenting in the credit pool matter.

Explains Idea Behind Plan.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Money raised for the half billion dollar bankers' credit corporation is to constitute a central pool, to be distributed wherever it is needed throughout the country.

This, a high governmental official explained tonight, is the essential idea behind the plan.

As outlined by this official, the plan calls for coöperation by the bankers in the strong banking districts of the country to aid the weaker links of the banking structure. Cities like New York, Boston and Chicago are counted on to carry the major part of the financial burden. In most instances funds raised in one community are to be used in that district. He admitted, however, that in case of need, funds raised by the bankers' credit corporation would be expended where needed regardless of where raised.

Confident of Chicago Aid.

Confidence that Chicago, Boston and all of the other large banking centers would raise their quotas was expressed in high administration quarters. The idea that Chicago bankers would hold back because they feared to see money go out of their district was scouted.

The essence of the plan, he asserted, is that the money is going from the central organization to the banks that need it and give security for it.

Asked whether it would be necessary to draw money from Chicago to help New York banks, the official said there would be no necessity for such a step. He said that the New York banks are in the strongest conceivable position, with six billions of assets, 40 per cent of which are liquid. He denied flatly that any money would be drawn from Chicago to New York.

Silent on Weak Districts.

To a question as to what districts were particularly weak and in need of help, he declined to answer specifically, saying that it would be most inadvisable to center attention on such districts by naming them.

If any banks are holding back, he said, it was because they had not yet realized the need. After New York, which has subscribed its quota, he declared, strong centers such as Chicago and Boston should furnish the money. It was presumed, he explained, that such centers would take care of their own districts, but this, he maintained, would not be enough. And again he reiterated that money chiefly subscribed by the strong centers must be distributed by the central organization to banks which needed it.

BANKS PREPARE FOR CONFERENCE ON POOL BUDGET

Seek to Protect Rights of Middle West.

Chicago's financial leaders yesterday continued preparations for the meeting tomorrow of representative bankers of the entire Chicago federal reserve district to consider joining in the $500,000,000 banking pool sponsored by President Hoover to "unfreeze" banking resources throughout the country.

While the meeting will be held under the auspices of the Chicago Clearing House association, which embraces banks in Chicago and Cook county, it also will be attended by a number of bankers representing clearing house associations in such key cities in the reserve district as Detroit, Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Des Moines. This federal reserve district embraces Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Indiana.

Where Shall Funds Be Used.

It is the consensus of Chicago bankers that the meeting will indorse "in principle" the plan of President Hoover, as the clearing house committee of the Chicago association on Friday voted to recommend the proposal to the member banks and summoned them to vote on it tomorrow.

However, it is conceded there is likely to be considerable discussion as to what pro rata basis of subscriptions to the pool shall prevail. Another vital topic will be whether or to what extent funds subscribed in the Chicago district shall be used to aid banks in other federal reserve districts.

The general plan for the big banking pool, whose corporate name is the National Credit corporation, is that it shall be used wherever required throughout the country, in the judgment of its directorate, which consists of one director from each of the twelve federal reserve districts. It also is the suggestion of President Hoover and the organization committee that the reserve district organizations have the banks in their regions pledge subscriptions to the extent of 2 per cent of their deposits. The member banks of the New York Clearing House association made such pledges.

Middle West Weathers Own Storm.

It has developed, however, that there is some reluctance among Chicago bankers to make such a pledge. There also has been opposition to the provision that funds subscribed in Chicago and this federal reserve district may be used to make loans to banks in other districts.

These bankers point out that the middle west has weathered a wave of bank failures. For example, the big Chicago banks have loaned many millions of dollars in the last year to Chicago neighborhood banks which had good but nonliquid assets and were subjected to heavy withdrawals of deposits. These banks otherwise would have augmented the number of failures.

The big Chicago institutions also have made similar loans running into the millions to their customer banks in this district when they were pressed by depositors. All told, these loans are estimated to exceed $100,000,000.

In view of these facts, there is some criticism of the move to have the banks of Chicago and this reserve district subscribe to the National Credit corporation pool on the same pro rata basis as institutions in other reserve districts which have not borne the burden of taking care of their own banks. Moreover, there is objection to any large dispersal of funds from this district on the same general grounds.

Hint Proposal Is Late.

There has been some comment on the fact that only now, when the wave of bank failures has spread to the eastern states, has the proposal for a great banking pool been launched.

"During the bank troubles that have swept over the south and the west in the last year," one Chicago banker commented yesterday, "we were left pretty much to our own resources. We did our best and we believe we have about weathered the storm, although it has been costly to trade and industry. It has eliminated many banks, shaken the confidence of our people and brought hardships to them.

"Our troubles grew largely out of real estate, both the financing of city developments and agricultural lands. Now the eastern banks are really beginning to have their troubles, which result largely from the decline in bond prices. Bonds are their chief investment, including both foreign and domestic issues. The political and financial troubles of Europe and South America have resulted in a sharp shrinkage in prices and our own depression has affected domestic bonds.

Hugo Total for Chicago.

"Having remedied our own situation, however, it seems hardly fair to expect the banks of Chicago and the middle west to undergo the further burden of helping the east to the same degree as its own big institutions will do, either by the same pro rata subscription or transferring out of this district. However, we are willing to aid in the general plan in the hope that it will restore public confidence."

It was pointed out that if the Chicago banks subscribe amounts equal to 2 per cent of their deposits the total would exceed $46,000,000, as their aggregate deposits are approximately $2,319,000,000. And if banks throughout the Chicago federal reserve district took similar action their total subscription would be around $120,000,000, as their aggregate deposits are around $6,000,000,000. For the whole country total deposits are estimated around $55,000,000,000 and a general 2 per cent subscription would aggregate $1,120,000,000. However, it is expected that many of the country's 22,000 banks will not join in the fund.

FARMERS FINDING IT DIFFICULT TO REPAY SEED LOANS FROM U. S.

Washinton, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Northwestern farmers, stricken for the second successive year by drought, are finding it difficult to repay government money borrowed to plant new crops last spring.

About $4,000,000 in loans was due Sept. 30 but on Oct. 2 only $147,000 had been returned to the agriculture department from farmers in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, and Montana.

Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.] discussed loan collections with Secretary Hyde and President Hoover yesterday and was assured that leniency would be exercised.

Hoover's National Credit Plan Explained.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Oct. 11.—American financial soundness was shown and President Hoover's fiscal policy defended this afternoon by Randolph Burgess, deputy governor of the federal reserve bank of New York, in a 90 minute discussion of the situation in the United States before the governors of the central banking systems of a dozen nations at an informal meeting here. The session was a curtain raiser for the regular session of the Bank for International Settlemets tomorrow.

Mr. Burgess assured the banking leaders of Europe that the new $500,000,000 credit bank which the President has launched in the United States, is not veiled inflation. He also advised his listeners that the United States does not intend to abandon the gold standard as the dollar faces no menace of depreciation.

Explains Hoover's Credit Bank.

He explained that the new credit bank will thaw out huge masses of frozen assets in the form of bonds and other securities held by private banks in America and which the federal reserve system is prevented from rediscounting and aiding. He insisted that the remedy creates no new credit and results in no inflation, but instead merely utilizes the existing credits of banks to bring vast resources into activity.

Many European bankers asked questions concerning the new bank and the United States' fiscal policy. It was clearly evident there was some apprehension that Uncle Sam was considering going off the gold standard. They pointed to the huge exodus of gold from America recently and the fact that the dollar has dropped to a point where it makes the shipping of bullion from New York to Paris profitable.

Mr. Burgess was insistent that the slight fluctuations of the exchange rate which momentarily permit the withdrawal of gold from America to Europe does not constitute a danger to the financial safety of the United States. He reminded them that Uncle Sam has been accused of hoarding gold and of accumulating half of the world's supply of the precious metal to the detriment of requirements of the other nations, and 'then when easement in the markets permits its redistribution abroad, it results in anxiety over the safety of the dollar.

U. S. Has Plenty of Gold.

Mr. Burgess announced that a total of one billion dollars is held abroad, of which more than half is held by France. Within the last fortnight, he stated, Switzerland sold $80,000,000 worth, and Belgium $60,000,000 worth over anxiety over the soundness of the dollar.

The United States has all the gold it needs and plenty to spare, he said, declaring that billions can be exported without threatening the par value of the dollar or imperiling American credit or finance.

He characterized President Hoover's credit bank as practically the same as what is called the Lombard banks which exist throughout Europe and which make advances and extend credit on similar paper.

Outlines British Situation.

Lombard banks were the world's original pawn shops, but they now halt pledges to securities instead of taking dress suits, wedding rings, and household furniture.

Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, outlined the situation in Britain, which forced her off the gold standard but he declared he could make no statement about London's future policy or on what level the pound sterling would eventually be pegged. He explained that no definite policy can be adopted until after the British elections on Oct. 27 and the constitution of the new cabinet.

The superbank's short term credits to Germany, amounting to $100,000,000, maturing Nov. 4, and $26,600,000 to Austria, due Oct. 16, were discussed. Pleas for the renewal of these credits will be considered at tomorrow's meeting of the directors.

The European bankers, after discussing the world situation among themselves, particularly the American news, decided to advise private bankers at their capitals and money markets to try to dam the flood of dollar selling orders on the ground that a heavy flow from the United States, if continued, could only result in curtailment of American credits abroad and a final aggravation of the world economic crisis. It is agreed that the recent lack of confidence in the dollar is entirely unfounded and that a persistence of raids on the New York money market would only tighten the situation for themselves.

Dollar Twice as Strong as Franc.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The French people who may lean toward withdrawing gold from the United States were assured by the financial expert of Le Temps tonight that the dollar is seven times as strong as the pound sterling and twice as strong as the franc.

The causes of banking difficulties in the United States, Le Temps' expert pointed out, differ widely from those which pulled England off the gold standard and from the difficulties in Germany.

The creation of the new American credit institution after President Hoover's plan alarmed many French business men and small bankers feared it meant inflation in the United States.

"America owes less abroad than foreigners owe her," Le Temps said. "She is a creditor even for circulating capital. Without doubt her short term credits placed abroad are frozen for the most part. Foreigners possessing assets in the United States have been withdrawing them, but America's large stock of gold makes it possible to meet the situation without the risk of compromising the stability of the dollar.'"

Twenty-five members of the Associated Hebrew Butchers' union attended a meeting called yesterday by the Kehillah, an organization of prominent orthodox Jews, to protest against the selection of Maxie Eisen, public enemy, as business agent of the butchers' association. The butchers said the Kehillah had no right to tell them whom they could have as officers, and a stormy session was in progress when a telephone caller said he had word that Eisen had agreed to resign.

A committee of five rabbis, five laymen and five butchers was then appointed to work out a plan to organize the butchers on a nonracksteering basis, but the butchers asked that no action be taken until they had a meeting of their executive committee.

WORLD SESSION TO AID BUSINESS MAY BE COMING

Visit of Laval and Grandi Considered Sign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Further reinforcement for the opinion that President Hoover again is heading toward a world-wide effort to find solutions for the world-wide depression, was seen today in the proposed visit to Washington of Dino Grandi, Italian minister for foreign affairs.

DINO GRANDI.

Today's state department announcement of Sig. Grandi's impending visit stated that he would sail from Naples on Nov. 7, reaching the United States about Nov. 17, and would leave for home on Nov. 27.

Coming, as the Italian minister's visit will, so closely following that of Premier Laval of France, the approaching conversations between the heads of this government and these two European statesmen are interpreted in some quarters as indicative of something to come bigger even than a disarmament conference or a meeting over war debts.

Important Session Predicted.

There are many who are confident that the signs are pointing to an international conference which will be the biggest of its kind since that of Versailles.

President Hoover's repeated references to the interdependence of all nations as they are affected by the depression are pointed out as substantiating such a view.

Since the adoption of the international debt moratorium early in the summer, the President has given constant attention to the international economic situation, as was shown last week when it was made known that he stood ready to reëxamine the allied debts on the basis of a lowered capacity to pay.

Link Armaments and Debts.

At the same time it was explained that the administration would insist that a reduction of armaments and of German reparations accompany any downward revision of the debt payments.

If allied debts, reparations, and armaments are thus to be linked together, some observers see it as but a step to a conference still more inclusive, at which a general settlement of world problems would be attempted in what would amount to a rewriting of the treaty of Versailles.

May Seek Consultative Pact.

As the administration's views are interpreted in some quarters, it would not be surprising if an American international program to include a revival of the consultative pact idea as a move toward meeting France's demand for security was outlined.

The consultative pact proposal came to the fore at the London naval conference. It was suggested that the chief powers agree that in the event of a dispute they would confer together with a view to reaching a pacific settlement.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Charlie Zahab, restaurant proprietor, today shot to death J. E. Sandridge, deacon in the University Baptist church, and then shot his wife, Victoria Zahab, before giving himself up to the police.

Zahas drove to town and called the police. He told them what happened and asked them to come for him. He was lodged in the city jail.

Mrs. Zahab was taken to a hospital where it was found that the bullet had passed through the muscles of the chest wall and missing the lung.

TRAIN HITS AUTO RETURNING FROM GAME; 4 KILLED

James Macuilis, 21 years old, 825 Lincoln street, and John Paszeresk, 28 years old, 736 Lincoln street, were instantly killed. Anthony Mikals, 21 years old, 821 Lincoln street, and Bruno Wysocki, 21 years old, 828 8th street, driver of the car, died within a few hours at St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan.

The accident occurred near 8th street and Commonwealth avenue, where the former thoroughfare crosses the main line of the interurban road.

One Killed, Six Hurt in Crash.

Marie Gerling, 24 years old, of 2543 South Keeler avenue, was killed early this morning and six other persons were injured, two seriously, in a crash of two cars at Elmhurst road and route 58, near Des Plaines. All were taken to the Des Plaines emergency hospital by State Highway Policemen Hugh Donnelly and Felix Lewis.

Those hurt are Jack and Frances Novak, 2543 South Keeler avenue; Arthur Gerling, of the same address; Leona Heath, 2556 Palmer street; and Gordon Willis and Frank Traube, both of Des Plaines. Traube and Willis were in one machine and the Novaks, Gerlings, and Miss Heath in the other. Jack Novak and Miss Heath were seriously injured.

Morris Schwartz, 45 years old, 2427 West Division street, a tailor, was fatally injured by an automobile at Potomac and Western avenues last night. Edward Yetter, 2820 North Maplewood avenue, driver of the car, was captured several blocks north of the scene by passing motorists.

The deaths of Miss Gerling, Schwartz and three others increased the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 970. The victims:

William Derr, 54 years old, 4061 Sheridan road. Died in Washington Park hospital early this morning from injuries he received yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by James Rooney, 2743 West 38th street, on Garfield boulevard, between Prairie and Calumet avenues.

Mazy Green, 32 years old, colored, 7532 West 64th street, Argo. Fatally injured when his auto went into the ditch at 63d street and Nashville avenue.

Andrew Roe, 65 years old, colored, Waseca place. Died in the county hospital of injuries received on Saturday night when struck by an auto at Vincennes and Monterey avenues.

Note Identifies Driver.

Police yesterday arrested Alfred Nelson, 6814 North Maplewood avenue, and charged him with driving away Saturday night after his automobile had struck Charles Sachous, 45 years old, 2337 West 21st street, as Sachous alighted from an interurban car at Archer avenue and 107th street, near Willow Springs.

They were led to the arrest by a note found in Sachous' pocket, which stated: "The license number of the automobile which struck you was 157-337." Sachous was found unconscious beside the road. Nelson, police said, admitted hitting a man, but said that he drove on because he thought the victim was only bruised.

PARENTS AND THREE CHILDREN KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AN AUTO

Vinton, Ia., Oct. 11.—(AP)—John Demmel, 29, his wife, 26, and three children, Doris, 3, Marguerite, 2, and Hazel Irene, 3 months, were killed on a railroad crossing north of here this afternoon when their car was struck by a Rock Island freight train.

A son, Frederick, 5, has a crushed skull and is not expected to live.

Robbed of Cash and Watch as She Walks to Station

Three men sidled alongside of Mrs. Julia Christenson of Benicia, Cal., last night as she was walking in Clinton street from the Union station to the Northwestern station to board a train for home. One of them snatched her purse before her husband, who was alongside of her, could interfere. Mrs. Christenson told police that the purse contained $50, $100 in Swiss money, and a $200 watch. The Christensons are on their way home after a tour of Europe.

Drops 1,000 Ft. as Wings Burst Into Flames.

Walden, N. Y., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—A sightseeing plane crashed in a ball of fire here today, bringing instant death to the pilot, Capt. Edgar Egan Pelzeder, former Austrian war ace, and two schoolboy passengers, Carl Simone and Nicholas San Rocco, both 12 and residents of Freeport, L. I.

The crash was witnessed by the father of one of the students, C. C. Simone, who treated the youngsters to the big thrill of a first airplane trip at the request of his son.

Boy's Father Collapses.

As the monoplane, a Kreider-Reisner 34, recently purchased by Capt. Pelzeder, struck the ground at the edge of the Walden airport, the father screamed and collapsed.

Witnesses said when the wings of the plane suddenly burst into flames at an altitude of a thousand feet it immediately went out of control, and plunged straight to earth. The craft was a charred, tangled mass when airport attachés and spectators reached the wreckage with fire fighting apparatus.

Both the boys killed in the crash were students at the Silesian school, Goshen, N. Y. They were permitted to leave the school grounds with the elder Simone for over the Columbus day holiday.

Begs to Make Fight.

Sight of the sightseeing planes circling above the countryside had attracted the attention of most of the pupils at the school, and the Simone boy frequently had begged his father to let him go up.

Capt. Pelzeder, well known in flying circles, recently was obliged to follow the footsteps of even more noted flyers and seek a livelihood during the depression by turning ferry pilot. He was living at Montgomery, not far from the airport where he was killed.

An investigation into the crash was begun by inspectors of the bureau of aeronautics of the department of commerce from Roosevelt field, Long island. Inspector Oscar Wallace and Lieut. T. M. James of the state police, speeding by plane to the airport here, were in charge of the inquiry.

BOMB EXPLODES AT MOVIE; STUNS POLICE GUARD

Bomb No. 11 in the series of motion picture theater blasts exploded Saturday morning in front of the Argmore theater, 1040 Argyle street, and almost at the feet of Policeman Joseph Welter, who was on guard at the theater to prevent a bombing. He prevented a second bombing, however, one which would have been more powerful than No. 11, and which probably would have killed him.

Two packages were thrown from a swiftly moving automobile. There was a detonation and a hole eight inches square was torn in the sidewalk and many nearby windows were broken. Policeman Welter was knocked down and was dazed for a few moments.

Then he noticed the second package. It contained six sticks of dynamite held together with tape. A lighted fuse was attached. Welter smothered out the fuse.

Just Like His War Job.

This was no new experience for Policeman Welter, who is 37 years old, married, and lives at 6302 Wavenland avenue. He served seventeen months in France during the war with the engineering corps and for six months was assigned to hunt and destroy unexploded mines and bombs.

The Argmore theater is owned by Joseph Pastor, 4939 Kenmore avenue, a member of the executive committee of the allied theater owners, the independent group which discharged its union operators and replaced them with operators brought here from other cities. Pastor has been attending the meetings called at the direction of Mayor Cermak at which Corporation Counsel Sexton has been seeking to arbitrate the difference between the owners and the union.

At a recent session Pastor had words with Emmett ["Dee"] Quinn, one of the union officials, it was recalled yesterday. Pastor said the operators' welfare was not uppermost in the minds of the union leaders who, he said, had "fat jobs" and large salaries because the "permit operators" were forced to pay 10 per cent of their weekly earnings into the union without being admitted to membership in the union.

Issue in Controversy.

The major point in the controversy is the theater owners' determination to employ only one operator per theater where formerly Thomas Maloy, official business agent of the union, had compelled them to use two men. The owners said two operators are not needed, but they are willing to pay the union scale of $90 to $175 a week—depending on the number of seats in the theater—to one operator. "We certainly intend to call the attention of Mayor Cermak and Police Commissioner Allman to this latest outrage," said Aaron Saperstein, president of the owners' association. "How can we negotiate with men who continue to resort to terrorism and vandalism?"

GANNA WALSKA DEFENDS WIFE'S RIGHT TO CAREER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Marriage must not interfere with a woman's career, Ganna Walska, Polish beauty and opera singer, emerging from the lobby of her Paris theater, said today regarding the divorce secured from her in Chicago by Harold F. McCormick, yesterday.

"It seems to me," she said, "that a woman after marriage should have the same right as a man to pursue a career. I had hoped Mr. McCormick would take the same view, for he is a splendid man and I admire him very much. Even if we have reached the parting of the ways on this question, we, nevertheless, remain good friends."

Mme. Walska said further that she opposed the divorce action and that the only point of disagreement between her and Mr. McCormick concerned her wish that marriage should not interfere with her career.

KIDNAPED GRAPE MERCHANT FOUND SLAIN IN INDIANA

Slayers Believed to Be Hijackers.

Anthony Ialongo, 40 years old, south side grape merchant, was found murdered late yesterday afternoon in a woods one mile south of Griffith, not far from Crown Point, Ind. He had been shot through the head twice.

Chicago police believe that he was the victim of grape hijackers, a new type of hoodlum which preys on grape dealers, stealing truck loads of their products in much the same manner as booze gangsters hijack caravans of liquor.

Developments of the grape gangster dates back to last summer, when Michigan farmers operating vineyards began shipping grapes to Chicago. Their trucks were hijacked near the southern city limits. Finally it became so unprofitable for the farmers to motor their products to Chicago that they halted shipments.

Hold Dealer's Son Captive.

Ialongo operated a wholesale grape business with Michael Camino at 92d street and Harper avenue. On Friday evening two men ordered a truck of grapes and directed that it be driven to Whiting. Henry Camino, 25 years old, son of Ialongo's partner, drove the truck. In Whiting he met the two customers. They drew revolvers. One drove away with the truck while the other held Henry prisoner.

About the same time Camino was notified that his son had been hurt in a motor accident. He took Ialongo and another man who was introduced as a customer and drove to Whiting. There the man asked Camino to halt his car. A stranger suddenly appeared at the side of the car and ordered Camino out, took his place, and drove off with Ialongo and the other man. As the car started, Ialongo called out: "Goodby, Mike."

Body Found by Boys.

Meanwhile Henry, Camino's son, had been released. Nothing was heard of Ialongo until his body was found yesterday by two boys hunting mushrooms.

Camino was questioned last night by Sergts. Lawrence Vidobich and Nathan Salzman of Whiting and Detectives Stanley Pajkowski and Thomas Edwards of the East Side station. From his story, police believed that Camino had been used as an unwitting tool to help lure his friend into the hands of the killers.

Ialongo lived at 9602 Avenue M. He was married, and the father of three children. East Side police said that they had no record of him having been involved in any illegitimate transaction, and they were inclined to attribute his slaying to the new type gangsters.

Lelong's Greeting to the Women of the United States

(The famous Parisian couturier, M. Lucien Lelong, has just arrived in this country for a study of American requirements and tastes in dress. Marshall Field & Company is pleased to publish, by his special permission, the substance of M. Lelong's greeting, given by radio over the circuits of the National Broadcasting Co.)

"It is as a student of fashion, and not as a dictator of style, that I have come to America. During my voyage here I was asked a number of times what the next development in style would be. On arriving, the same question was put to me.

"Concerning one particular fashion, I can make a definite reply. I have been asked time and again what is to be the outcome of the movement which started some time ago to bring back styles of the past.

"My reply is that any attempt to revive fashions of thirty or fifty or a hundred years ago cannot result in a permanent style trend. The art of costume, like other arts, may take lessons from the past, but it cannot expect to breathe life into fashions of a bygone era. There must always be a harmony between our social and economic and spiritual state and the mode.

"I have always been averse to seeking sartorial inspiration in other epochs than our own. I feel that the real Paris mode—the one that will live and that will be referred to in future times as the mode of 1931, for example—is the direct expression of the social and spiritual trends of the time. I have often voiced this feeling, for it is, to my mind, the fundamental verity underlying all fashion evolution.

"This does not mean, however, that I am averse to variety, to prettiness, and to even a certain degree of frivolity in creating the styles of today. On the contrary, there has never been an epoch that permitted the realization of as much variety and fantaisie as our own, when the wildest dreams of the few are made concrete for the many.

"Every epoch has its own 'picturesque,' which may be indulged in by those women who have the taste and wit to reconcile certain seemingly irreconcilable elements of dress into a harmonious whole. In fact, being well dressed, as everyone knows today, is a much more complicated affair than merely wearing a good frock made in a good house. Perfume, hat, coiffure, shoes, gloves, stockings, lingerie, umbrella, sac, automobile, all must be conceived in the same spirit if they are to work together in achieving an elegant ensemble.

"As all the details of attire follow the mode as it is expressed in the gown, it is not surprising to find the trend of the times reflected in the matter of perfume. The present impulse has brought into being a new form of perfume, a concentrated powder, which will not mar delicate fabrics and eliminates waste. In both the new powder perfume, and in liquid scents, we find a preference for natural flower odors rather than heavy synthetic odors in vogue in recent years. The leaning toward the natural in perfumes only follows the trend toward nature in styles.

"The costumes that copied epochs of the past, though sometimes pretty in themselves and charmingly worn, were incongruous in the midst of our modern crowd. Seen with the men's clear-cut costumes, or against the definitely 1931 outlines of the cars they rode in, they gave one the uncomfortable feeling of a Mardi Gras, where a few masked people are regarded with ironical indifference by the majority of their concitoyens.

"For this reason, when costumes and hats based on Victorian designs appeared I opposed them. As a result, Paris this summer was the scene of a battle of styles such as it has seldom witnessed in its hundreds of years as a fashion center. Two trends fought for supremacy. One was a copy of the past. The other was an inspiration for the future and a refusal to accept the dictates of the past.

"The storm center, of course, was the tiny hat decorated with ribbons or plumes, and called by the name of the Empress Eugenie, whose hats it really did not much resemble. The little tilted hats created a veritable furor for a time. They were a charming fantaisie, but a fantaisie, nevertheless, and they could not have any profound influence upon the mode, for they were not in accord with the sartorial demands of our epoch. The inner cause of their success was a revolt against a monotonous uniformity that would compress varied personalities into a standard mold. In the near future we will have forms that will have the charm of diversity, while remaining distinguished, wearable, and completely 1931.

"The mad hatters and the little hats have had to acknowledge the triumph of modernity. There was no basic style principle involved in the fad. It grew so fast that it is fading already, and the Empress Eugenie has returned to her peaceful eternal rest.

"The inspiration for the future is dominant, we may be sure, but in just what form it will be expressed I cannot yet say. It should be understood that neither the House of Lelong nor the whole of Paris can dictate fashions to the women of America. They consult their own taste in dress, and we must apply to them to learn their true desires, which it is then our duty to interpret.

"That is the explanation for my present trip to the United States. Paris is indeed the world's fashion capital, but that is not to say that every style is born there. I have felt the urgent need for meeting the American people once more on their own soil, after several years' absence, to breathe your atmosphere and to return to France with fresh inspiration.

"Even acquaintance with American women traveling or living in Paris is not enough. I do not mean to suggest that styles for the United States are different from styles for the rest of the world. Dress that is modish and in good taste here, will be stylish in Europe too.

"Need I repeat an observation of other European travelers in this country, that American women are among the most chic in the world? That is so often said that it has become trite, but it is true.

"Style in women's apparel is not a matter of accident. Nor is it something that is arbitrarily set by a dictator. The motives and the feelings of the individual woman are the underlying factors in determining style just as the literary style of a great writer is based on his own ideas and feelings, and springs naturally from them.

"Because our civilization brings almost the same influences—social, economic and spiritual—to bear on all people at once, we do have universal fashion and waves of fashion. Within the limits set by whatever fashion is current at the time, every woman expresses her own personal style.

"Today, a new choice of styles is presented to womankind. Will their dress reflect the realistic, dogged attitude with which the world is facing its problems of social and economic rehabilitation? Or will it be graceful, colorful, pleasing to the senses, and calculated to courageously defy the times?

"The new costumes, whatever their trend, will preserve, you may be sure, that simplicity and untortured outline that characterizes our modern conception of good taste. The mode is ever the mirror to life, and there has been evident for some time past a reaction against jazz and a renaissance of interest for the waltz; a fatigue of the too feverish, barbaric dances, styles and habits adopted from and suitable to more primitive races, and a return to leisurely, witty and light hearted divertisements. It is small wonder that such a social current should have an immediate effect upon our dress.

"Whatever may eventually appear, we may be sure of one thing. The experience of every past age teaches us that woman's choice in style is always timely, true to herself and to society."

TACTICS OF RICH TAX OBJECTORS CALLED UNFAIR

M'Donough Explains Delay in Collections.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

County Treasurer McDonough asserted yesterday that he was doing everything permitted by the law to collect taxes from the estimated 132,108 owners of real estate who owe $54,059,960.42 to the local governments.

J. B. McDONOUGH.

These are property owners who have sought the protection of the courts in tax assessments. The names of a few of the more prominent in two townships, have been published recently.

"Why can't you collect from these real estate owners who are generally recognized as having wealth?" Mr. McDonough was asked.

"Part of these objectors have obtained injunctions in which the courts specifically prohibit me from collecting," was the collector's answer.

Attempt to Dissolve Writs.

"Why not have those injunctions dissolved?"

"Hayden Bell, county attorney, and State's Attorney Swanson, who are in charge of the litigation for the county, have attempted to do just that. The principal case has been appealed and is pending in the higher courts."

"What about the other part of the objectors? Why don't you collect from them?" was next asked.

"They have filed objectors to their taxes," replied the collector.

"Let me explain what the collector is permitted to do," said Mr. McDonough. "If an owner of real estate does not pay his taxes in the time prescribed by statute, the collector applies to the County court for a judgment in the amount of the taxes plus cost of advertising the delinquent and certain other fees to cover the expense. When that judgment is obtained the collector can sell the property of the delinquent for the taxes.

Entitled to a Hearing.

"But he cannot sell the property before the judgment is obtained. When the property owner files objections he is entitled to a hearing on his complaint, and there is no way of getting a judgment, that I know of, until he does get a hearing."

Judgments were applied for last July, but for the most part these cases are still pending in court, so Mr. McDonough was asked what, if anything, he had done to speed up the hearings. To which he replied:

"I thought that the most effective way to get action hastened was to get every one concerned in one room, so a meeting was called about the middle of last August in the county board rooms. Every one concerned was represented.

The attorney for the county, the assistant state's attorneys assigned to these tax cases, Attorney Thomas D. Nash, County Judge Jareckl, and the county commissioners were there, and perhaps others whom I do not recall offhand.

"Mr. Bell and County Judge Jarecki asserted that they were doing everything possible to dispose of the tax objections. They had classified the cases into half a dozen groups, according to the nature of the complaints, and gave the impression that they were attempting to dispose of the complaints in wholesale fashion."

Wants Wealthy to Play Fair.

"Is there something you have done, or have failed to do, which contributes to the lack of speed?" Mr. McDonough was asked.

"Not that I know of. If there is, I would like to know what it is; and it will be remedied at once."

"Frankly, what is your position on the collection of these delinquent taxes?"

"That's no secret," replied Mr. McDonough. "I think that the wealthy real estate owners should play fair with the community in which they have made their money. I can find no fault with an owner who honestly believes that his taxes are too high; because I am firmly convinced that the real estate taxes on the small home owner are too heavy, and Gov. Emmerson's commission should recommend some specific relief.

"But I believe that the wealthy real estate owner who thinks his taxes are too high should pay promptly what he deems is a fair tax, and then contest the remainder in court. That is the only fair way for him to act toward Chicago and Cook county—and some of them have adopted that policy, while others have so far refused to pay any of their taxes. That, in my opinion, is unfair to the 702,000 property owners who have paid their taxes in full—about $138,000,000.

Another Side to Question.

"But that is only part of my position. Last July I appealed to the County court for tax judgments against approximately 398,000 pieces of property. Then came objections from 132,000 whose taxes totaled more than $54,000,000. My attitude on these I have explained.

"My position relative to the other 264,000, who owe $15,000,000 in taxes is entirely different. These small owners filed no objections to their taxes. They did not pay for the sole reason—I believe—that they did not have the money. I sympathize with that 264,000; and I have done everything in power to help them.

"Technically the sale of their property was required to begin, by statute, early in August. It started, but we sold only a few lots a day, and announced that it would start in earnest about Sept. 1. I was attempting to give these 264,000 poor people time in which to earn the money to pay their taxes. But they did not get the cash by Sept. 1, and again the sale was delayed until Sept. 15, and then again until Oct. 1.

"These property owners are in a different position from that occupied by others who have wealth and have refused to pay anything on account."

Would Shame Tax Dodgers.

"Isn't there anything more you can do to collect taxes from the wealthy of the 132,000 objectors," Mr. McDonough was asked.

"I will find out if there is," said McDonough. "Perhaps there is, if public sentiment can be created which will shame the rich into paying the share of governmental expense which they deem proper—that is, pay on account, and then carry out a court fight in the portion of the tax they deem unjust. I will ask my attorney early this week whether he thinks another conference would help."

"Can you force action?" he was asked.

"Hardly, and besides I doubt the expediency of force. Please remember that the county treasurer did not levy the taxes, fix the valuations of the property or determine the rates.

"If an owner's taxes are too high, his fight is either against the rate or the valuation on his property. The rate is fixed by statute at a certain maximum, so the owner's chief quarrel is on valuation."

"The county attorneys and state's attorney handle the legal end of the argument for the governments, and the county judge decides the issues, while the county board makes the appropriations.

"It is evident there must be cooperation if results are to be obtained in collecting from wealthy tax delinquents. A rough shod attempt might get publicity, but no results."

CITES $237,260 TAX LOSS FOR '28 THROUGH ASSESSMENT ERRORS

A loss of $237,260 taxes in the 1928 assessment was brought about by an underassessment of skyscrapers, totaling $10,681,888, according to a letter transmitted to the county board yesterday by Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser of the board of assessors.

CHARLES E. FOX.

In his letter Fox asserted that he had examined the valuations on 335 buildings of 10 or more stories and errors were found in 106 cases. The errors consisted of underappraisals totaling 20,221,826 cubic feet in the volumes of the buildings, on which assessments are based.

The survey showed that on eighty-two buildings appraisers had made errors of 300,000 cubic feet or less in figuring the volume; on sixteen buildings, errors of from 300,000 to 600,000 cubic feet on the volume of each building; on four buildings, errors of from 600,000 to 800,000 cubic feet; and on three buildings the original appraisers' figures were short 800,000 cubic feet or more on each building.

The buildings involved in the reappraisal were in the loop, Streeterville, and along the lake front as far north as Lawrence avenue.

The figures were presented in connection with a new appeal by the board of assessors for pay roll increases totaling $115,000.

The county board already has refused the same request for additional funds on several occasions.

U. S. Agents Question All Aliens at Police Showup

Immigration inspectors attended the showup of police suspects at the detective bureau yesterday and questioned 20 of the 200 men paraded before witnesses as part of a new campaign to rid the city of undesirable aliens. Chief Inspector John Keba and his assistants turned all of the men they questioned back to police. He said that members of his staff will be present at all showups hereafter.

LEAGUE IS URGED BY U. S. TO AVERT WAR IN FAR EAST

Stimson Offers Help with China and Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Stimson today disclosed that the United States has called upon the league of nations to exert all the pressure and authority within its competence to avert an outbreak of open warfare between Japan and China. The full cooperation of the United States, insofar as this country would give it, acting independently through diplomatic channels, was promised the league by the American government in a note delivered at Geneva Oct. 9.

Will Add U. S. Influence.

In his note, cabled last Saturday for communication to the league of nations, Secretary Stimson, in behalf of the United States, approved the course taken by the league in its endeavor to bring peace between the warring Japanese and Chinese armed forces in Manchuria and declared that this government, "acting independently through its diplomatic representatives," would endeavor to reinforce what the league does.

While not invoking the Briand-Kellogg anti-war pact or the nine power pact for the preservation of China's political and territorial integrity, concluded at the Washington conference for limitation of armaments in 1922, Secretary Stimson indicated that this government would do so "should a time arise when it would seem advisable to bring forward those obligations," meaning the obligations that China and Japan had assumed in the Washington treaty of 1922 to adjust disputes by pacific means.

Through its action Friday and today the state department not only called attention to the extreme gravity of the Manchurian situation but created a highly important precedent when it formally notified the league that this country would extend its full cooperation. The impression prevailing at the state department is that the Hoover administration henceforth will cooperate with the league in matters of disputes between nations when it is believed unity of action will be more likely to obtain results.

Will Work with Council.

While acting independently of the league of nations, the understanding is that the United States will be represented informally but nevertheless effectively at a special meeting of the league council to be held in Geneva on Tuesday to consider the Japanese-Chinese crisis. Prior to its adjournment last month the league council obtained pledges from the Japanese and Chinese governments to attempt to adjust their differences by pacific means, but the situation in Manchuria has grown more menacing to peace since then.

The state department note follows:

"I believe that our cooperation in the future handling of this difficult matter should proceed along the course which has been followed ever since the first outbreak of the trouble fortunately found the assembly and council of the league of nations in session. The council has deliberated long and earnestly on this matter and the covenant of the league of nations provides permanent and already tested machinery for handling such issues as between states members of the league.

Urges Continued Pressure.

"Both the Chinese and Japanese have presented and argued their cases before the council, and the world has been informed through published accounts with regard to the proceedings there. The council has formulated conclusions and outlined a course of action to be followed by the disputants; and as the said disputants have made commitments to the council, it is most desirable that the league in no way relax its vigilance and no way fail to assert all the pressure and authority within its competence towards regulating the action of China and Japan in the premises.

"On its part the American government acting independently through its diplomatic representatives will endeavor to reinforce what the league does and will make clear that it has a keen interest in the matter and is not oblivious to the obligations which the disputants have assumed to their fellow signatories in the pact of Paris as well as in the nine power pact should a time arise when it would seem advisable to bring forward those obligations. By this course we avoid any danger of embarrassing the league in the course to which it is now committed."

JAPAN TO SUPERVISE CHINESE BANKS TO BE REOPENED IN MUKDEN

BY JOHN FOWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 11.—Two large Chinese official banks which closed here Sept. 18, when Japanese military forces captured Mukden, will be permitted to reopen Oct. 15, according to an announcement from the Japanese military headquarters this morning.

The announcement stated that "in order to safeguard future operations of Chinese banks a number of Japanese counselors and advisers are being invited to join the staffs, with salaries to be paid by the banks."

The regulations also state that the control of the banks will be handed over "if a new government is established in Manchuria, in which event the present regulations will become inoperative." The new regulations for the banks are exceedingly strict in order to prevent withdrawal of funds from accounts of the former officials of Manchuria. They also compel the repayment of loans granted the old régime.

In order to prevent runs on the institutions the regulations limit the cashing of notes or the withdrawal of silver and place a severe penalty on any one attempting to remove more than $100 in silver from the walled city in a single day. The regulations were drafted by the so-called Chinese committee which has been administering the native city under the direction of the Japanese acting mayor, C. Kenji Doihara.

The closure of the official banks caused a hardship on American and European firms, as well as other banks, and was largely responsible for the commercial stagnation, which, in turn, was responsible for the strong protest lodged with the Japanese military authorities by American, British, and other foreign banks, business houses, and consulates.

ernment will be held responsible for the consequences," was delivered at the foreign office by the Japanese Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu.

Later a high government official indicated that China's reply, which was expected to be delivered tomorrow, would include the following terms:

"That the anti-Japanese movement in China, supported by patriotic motives, was caused by the invasion of Manchuria by Japan. Unless there are unlawful acts committed the Chinese government cannot undertake to stop the movement.

"That the Nationalist government is making every effort to protect Japanese and their property and the fact that there had not been any attack on Japanese lives or property in the territory controlled by Nanking, is silent proof of the Chinese government's desire and ability to protect the Japanese.

"That if Japan desires to end the anti-Japanese movement it is for her to abide by the resolution of the league of nations council, withdraw her troops and restore conditions as existed prior to her invasion last month of Chinese territory.

"That Japan should realise that dispatching of further warships to Chinese waters would aggravate the situation and intensify the anti-Japanese movement and the Japanese government must be held responsible for the consequences of its own ill advised policy."

Meanwhile the Nanking government has sent a protest to Tokio asking explanation and protesting against the bombing last Thursday of the city of Chinchow by Japanese airplanes.

League Meets Tomorrow.

GENEVA, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The secretariat of the league of nations hummed with activity today as preparations were made for consideration of the Sino-Japanese situation in Manchuria by the league council Tuesday.

Foreign ministers of the European powers were on their way here for the meeting. Prentiss Gilbert, United States consul general here, spent some time with Secretary Sir Eric Drummond this afternoon and it was understood they discussed a note from Secretary of State Stimson setting out in full the attitude of the American government in the present crisis.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, communicated to Sir Eric a request from the Nanking government today that the league take "urgent measures toward peace" in Manchuria.

The message described the situation following upon the bombing of Chinchow as exceedingly grave and urged the league to send a commission to investigate it.

"The Chinese government requests the council of the league," the message said, "to take urgent measures toward peace and invites the immediate arrival at Chinchow of a league commission to whom every facility will be given to investigate the report to the council upon the situation."

SUGGEST DEBTS TO U. S. BE PAID WITH WARSHIPS

Would Help to Settle Two World Problems.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The transfer of British warships to the United States in exchange for a proportionate paring down of English war debt payments to this country during the depression period is the latest suggestion advanced for clearing away obstacles to an early agreement for an international naval building holiday.

Sponsors of the plan assert a swap of warships for a slash in war debts would permit the United States to attai nearly tonnage parity with Great Britain without embarking on a big warship building program. They also point out that such a swap would enable Great Britain, a nation with a lean pocketbook, to meet her international obligations, during a period while her domestic financial structure is under severe strain, without an outlay of cash.

About $150,000,000 Deal.

A swapping agreement along the lines mentioned above would call for the transfer of approximately 100,000 tons of warships to the United States and the cutting down of British war debt payments by perhaps as much as $150,000,000. This would contemplate the completion of ships now building, the scrapping of over-age ships, and the transfer of the giant 42,000 ton British battle cruiser Hood for an American battleship. Each power, if the ships were transferred next year, would be considerably under the maximum tonnage limits of the London naval treaty.

Attention is called to the possibility that a move toward an American-British barter along the lines outlined above might have the effect of bringing France and Italy into a four power agreement whereby the American fleet would be built up to its proper "second to none" treaty position through the addition of French and Italian submarines and destroyers and British cruisers, aircraft carriers, and a battleship. In return the debt payments made by these powers to the United States treasury would be lowered by an amount corresponding to the value of the transferred warships.

Would Fit Hoover Policy.

It is felt here that such a move would fit in with the administration's apparent intention of taking up the question of revising the allied war debts on a basis of the current ability of the owing powers to pay. Aobording to the expressed opinion of close advisers to the President no downward revision of the debts can be accorded without reductions in armament expenditures by the interested powers.

Keen interest has been shown by congressmen and naval officers in the idea of applying warships to war debt payments, but whether the Hoover administration will give consideration to the suggestions has not been ascertained.

Would Equalize Navies.

A study of the comparative naval statistics for Great Britain and the United States discloses that by the end of 1932 Great Britain would have close to 200,000 tons of underage warships, built and building, in excess of what the United States would have on that date if no new warships are added to the naval building programs of either power. By transferring in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons of British warships including one battleship, four large gun cruisers, four small gun cruisers, one aircraft carrier and a number of destroyers to the United States during the next fourteen months virtual tonnage equality between the United States and Great Britain would be achieved by the end of next year. The United States would have 932,000 tons and Great Britain 927,000 tons of built and building warships, distributed as follows:

Ship.	United States.	Gt. Britain.
Battleships	463,700	463,850
Aircraft carriers	101,850	104,550
Cruisers (8 inch)	180,470	146,116
Cruisers (6 inch)	90,717	131,808
Destroyers	42,838	42,985
Submarines	53,000	48,000
Total tonnages	932,675	927,257

If no ships are transferred to the United States by Great Britain and no new ships are laid down by either power prior to the end of next year, the comparative tonnages would be, built and building:

Ships—	United States.	Gt. Britain.
Battleships	453,900	473,850
Aircraft carriers	91,000	115,400
Cruisers (8 inch)	142,000	183,886
Cruisers (6 inch)	70,550	142,020
Destroyers	226,540	50,336
Submarines	53,000	48,000
Totals	837,840	1,023,092

The equalization of tonnage between the United States and Great Britain could be effected in various ways. One suggestion would be that the 9,800 tons of battleship tonnage be transferred to the United States by a trade of the 15-inch gunned British battle cruiser Hood, a 42,100 ton vessel, for the 14-inch gunned American Tennessee. By trading these two ships 9,800 tons would be turned over to the United States and this country would have one big battle cruiser compared to two smaller ones for Great Britain. At present we have none.

Wide Spread in Cruisers.

As the United States is short of 8-inch gun cruisers, Great Britain, whose navy is over-treaty built in this size, could transfer four large gun cruisers to the United States, a total of 37,570 tons. Some suggest these ships should be the Effingham and Hawking, 9,800 ton 7.5-inch gun vessels, and the York and Cornwall, new 8-inch gunned Washington treaty types.

To obtain approximate tonnage parity in aircraft carriers Great Britain would transafer the Hermes, a 10,850 ton vessel, to the United States, bringing our tonnage to 101,850, counting one training carrier.

As for small type cruisers, the United States could take four from Great Britain, a total tonnage of 18,400. The Durban, Dispatch, Dragon and the Dauntless, 4,800 ton types, could be taken by the United States. This would give the United States London treaty ratio with Great Britain.

As all but 19,940 tons of American destroyers will go over the London treaty age limit next year and this country is building but 7,500 tons, a tonnage of 16,398 tons of new British destroyers would be turned over to the United States. This would leave each country with 42,938 tons, if the ship displacements worked out to that close a figure.

ILLEGAL SIGNS LITTER CHICAGO, SURVEY SHOWS

Put Up Without Permits; Cut Off Light.

The city of Chicago is littered with thousands of glaring billboards. These billboards have been erected without building department permits, as required by law. They have been erected in residence and apartment districts, contrary to the zoning ordinance. They have been erected without the consent of property owners, again in violation of the law.

These facts were revealed yesterday in a survey of the entire city. They expose a situation which is losing the city thousands of dollars in annual revenue. They reveal a monopoly of the billboard privilege in Chicago by one corporation, the General Outdoor Advertising company.

Vigorous action to compel the removal of billboards for which permits have not been granted, or to make their owners procure licenses, will be started by Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th], he announced last night. He said he would draft a resolution immediately, for presentation at the next council meeting, Oct. 21. Illegal billboards in his ward, he added, were erected without his knowledge and before his election as alderman. Ald. Hodes is a former attorney for the zoning board.

Cut Off Light and Air.

In addition to the survey's revelations of widespread disregard of the building code and zoning ordinance, even more serious conditions were disclosed. Huge billboards have been placed against homes in such a manner as to cut off light and air. Heaps of rubbish collect in the protecting shade of the tall structures. Hold-up men find the billboards convenient refuges in which to lurk while awaiting victims.

Thus, the survey revealed, the billboards are erected in disregard of the law in the first instance and then help to foster crime and menace the public after they have been erected. That the gaudy posters are also offensive to the eye and a blot upon the beauty of the city is another important consideration.

At the southwest corner of 82d street and South Shore drive, a string of billboards was noted in an empty lot. They had been erected not more than two feet from the side of a two story frame house at 8206 South Shore drive.

Signs Put Up Illegally.

These billboards, it was found, had been illegally erected on three counts. First, building department records showed no permit issued and no fee paid. Second, the district is zoned against billboards. Third, even if a permit had been obtained and the zoning ordinance allowed the billboards, frontage consents from a majority of the property owners on both sides of the street would have been necessary.

In a tour of the south shore district many similar cases were found. Not in one instance was a permit issued, according to the building department records. In all cases, the zoning ordinance had been violated. Other sections of the city also suffer, as will be shown in subsequent articles.

Six Windows Darkened.

A line of billboards, 175 feet long and about fifteen feet high, block off six windows of a home at 7806 South Shore drive. Three months ago, this sign was blown down. The neighbors immediately started court proceedings to enjoin the advertising company from again erecting the sign. The sign was put up again, however, and this time placed much closer to the house.

Six panel billboards, each panel 25 feet by 11 feet, block off light and air from 7850 South Shore drive. Two panels completely hide a brick bungalow at 8121 East 79th street, blocking four bedroom windows. Twenty panels, or a total length of 500 feet, of billboards afford as raucous a display of advertising as could mar a neighborhod from 7851 to 7500 South Shore drive.

Three hundred and seventy-five feet of billboards cut off light and air from 16 windows in a large apartment house at 7263 South Shore drive. These same billboards also cut off the sunshine from a group of small cottages on the lake.

No Permits Issued.

In all the above instances no permits have been issued, according to the records of the building department. The neighborhood is also strictly zoned against billboards. And in no instance, so far as could be discovered, were adjoining property owners consulted.

The location of other billboards noted in this district, and the length of each billboard for which no permits were issued (in violation of the zoning ordinance), are listed as follows:

Cheltenham place and South Shore drive, S. W. corner	175 ft.
Cheltenham place and South Shore drive, S. E. corner	200 ft.
79th street and South Shore drive, N. E. corner	100 ft.
79th street and South Shore drive, S. E. corner	50 ft.
8008 South Shore drive	50 ft.
8050 South Shore drive	25 ft.
81st street and South Shore drive, S. W. corner	25 ft.
81st street and South Shore drive, S. E. corner	25 ft.
North of 7853 South Shore drive	175 ft.
77th street and South Shore drive, S. E. corner	125 ft.
77th street and South Shore drive, N. W. corner	50 ft.
75th street and South Shore drive, S. W. corner	175 ft.
74th street and South Shore drive, N. E. corner	200 ft.
73d street and South Shore drive, N. W. corner	250 ft.
4854 to 4840 South Park way	100 ft.
4900 South Park way	150 ft.
4819 to 4800 South Park way	50 ft.

At 43d street and South Park way a glaring double infraction of another section of the building ordinance was noted. Here the billboards were double decked to a height of forty feet, cutting off light and air from a building at 4143 South Park way. The building code specifies that no billboard may be erected upon the roof of any building and also that billboards shall not exceed 15 feet in height.

In seeking an explanation of how illegal billboards had been erected in such a wholesale manner, the ingenious method used by the General Outdoor Advertising company in putting up many of its billboards was learned.

Just before any mayoralty election, the advertising company constructs one or two hundred or more billboards on empty lots. These billboards contain advertising matter for the administration in power. Naturally, the building department inspectors of that administration do not order the billboards torn down.

If the administration remains in power, the billboards are allowed to stand as a reward and they are rented out to firms who wish to advertise. If a new mayor comes in, the illegal billboards are usually overlooked in the confusion of installing new inspectors in the building department.

Carry Mayor's Messages.

In this connection it was noted that Mayor Cermak has accepted free advertising from the General Outdoor Advertising company, which had its greatest period of prosperity under the régime of the previous mayor and under former Building Commissioner Chris Paschen. A number of signboards about the city now carry messages of Mayor Cermak to the public with the notice: "Donated by the General Outdoor Advertising company."

The building ordinance of the city specifies that if a billboard is erected without permit, the building commissioner shall notify the owner of the land or the advertising company to tear it down. If at the expiration of a certain time limit the sign is still standing the commissioner is given authority to tear down the board and charge the owner for the cost of its destruction.

IOWA COW TESTERS START WORK TODAY IN ANOTHER COUNTY

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Oct. 11.—(AP)—State militia and veterinarians prepared today to begin testing cattle for tuberculosis in Henry county tomorrow morning.

Notices were served today on eighteen farmers in Baltimore township to have their cattle confined ready for testing Monday morning. No violence was experienced by veterinarians serving the notices, but Dr. G. C. Strong declared he was ordered from the farm of Henry Conner and saw the official notice thrown in the mud.

Refusal of farmers to help corral cattle for the test will constitute interference and subject offenders to arrest, Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley, who is commanding the state troops, declared.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MEASURES OF RELIEF.

The emergency program announced after the White House conference early Wednesday morning properly falls into two sections, of which the first is already being put into operation and the second is awaiting congressional authorization.

One immediate measure is the raising of a half billion dollar revolving fund by subscription from banks throughout the country. By this means it is expected that banks which are amply liquid can throw their reserve strength into others which are temporarily beleaguered. The revolving fund will provide a means for substituting liquid funds where needed for sound but frozen assets of banks. Needless to say, this measure of itself required no action by the President or any other branch of the government.

The bankers of the Chicago district have made their acceptance conditional upon an understanding that their contributions to the general fund will not be used outside the Chicago reserve bank district, including Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin. This is a measure of caution which can hardly be criticized if a fair view is taken of the situation as a whole. The Chicago district has taken its punishment. Many of its banks have gone under and others of the weaker institutions have been absorbed, at no small sacrifice, by the stronger. The frozen assets in this district either are in the vaults of institutions which have closed their doors or have been taken over by banks which are in a position to carry them without outside assistance. In some other districts the process of liquidation has not been pursued with anything like the same vigor or cost. It would be grossly unfair and disloyal to this region if its hard won soundness were to be jeopardized in a futile effort to save others from taking the same medicine which we have had to swallow.

The policy of the Chicago district may be attacked as parochial, but that is merely to call it names. The fact is that in each federal reserve district there is sufficient strength to handle its problems with very little outside aid, provided the stronger banks in any district are willing to extend reasonable help to those which can be aided even.

The plan as modified, we believe, offers the country much ground for optimism. The lunatic fears of recent weeks seem to have been dispelled.

A MORATORIUM THAT WOULD BE WELCOME.

The depression seems to have had no appreciable effect in reducing the number or even the activities of the national councils for this and that. Their propaganda continues to choke the waste baskets. Their executive secretaries and field workers continue to spend money in a large way. The solicitations for money continue to arrive and, no doubt, are meeting with about the usual response from the sucker list.

Of course, any one may spend his own money as he chooses, but we think it is a pity that this year, when money is urgently needed to carry the poor and unfortunate through the winter, any money is being wasted on elaborate organizations of special pleaders. Even if the causes which they advocated were uniformly worthy, which, of course, they are not, a moratorium on their activities for the benefit of the unemployed might well be invoked.

This, we should say, would be a splendid year in which to sidetrack the appeals of the racketeers of the uplift. If, in consequence, a couple of dozen executive secretaries are added to the roster of the unemployed, that may be regarded as so much additional net gain.

A RIBBON IN HIS COAT.

For promoting the teaching of Italian in the public schools and for founding charitable agencies to help Italian children, Mr. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools in Chicago, has been made a commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy.

We do not wonder that the Italian government proffered the decoration, but it is strange that Mr. Bogan should have seen fit to accept it. In Fascist theory an Italian remains an Italian wherever he may live, whether he has been naturalized or not. Mr. Bogan can hardly share that view. He did not promote the teaching of Italian in our schools because of any notion that it is the sacred heritage of the children of Italian blood in this city binding them to the motherland. Presumably, Italian is taught as French, German, Spanish, Greek, Latin, and Hebrew are taught: because they are presumed to be desirable in the education of American children who wish to study these languages. In accepting the decoration Mr. Bogan gave tacit approval to the assumption of the Italian government that the curriculum in the public schools of this country is dictated by other than purely educational considerations.

The case is even stronger with respect to the charitable activities in the schools. Mr. Bogan did nothing for Italian children, as such. Whatever he may have done was done for American children; and if the fact that some of them were of Italian blood made the slightest difference to him, which we feel sure it did not, he deserves a reprimand.

No doubt Mr. Bogan, like many other Americans of greater and less distinction, has accepted his foreign honors without realizing that acceptance of these decorations implies in some measure the acceptance of the reasoning which has prompted the gift. The Italian government thinks Mr. Bogan has done something for Italy and wishes to encourage others to do likewise. He hasn't, and no one knows that better than he does.

A BACK ROOM SCHOOL BOARD.

The practice of the holdover majority of the school board of holding secret meetings in advance of the regular sessions of the board and its committees was condemned the other day by Trustee Hefferan. Mrs. Hefferan says the public has a right to know how its money is being spent and to hear school board policies discussed.

"Before every meeting of this board," she said, "there is a secret session, from which the trustees dash into the open meeting and race through public business that, in the course of a year, entails the expenditure of nearly $100,000,000."

Mrs. Hefferan's complaint is no doubt merited, but in extenuation it must be admitted that the discredited majority of the board could hardly be expected to conduct its business otherwise. Even the limited opportunity which the public has been given to observe the board at work has provided a convincing demonstration of incompetence. Individual members do not hanker for occasions to display their motives and their powers of reasoning. The holding of open meetings, too, would tend to hamper the majority in any plans which it might entertain of using the schools and the school funds for political advantage. The holdover majority gravitates to the back room naturally and inevitably.

WAR NEWS ON PAGE 8.

The news from China is being printed these days on the inside pages. A day or so ago, when Japanese destroyers demonstrated their presence off Shanghai and Japanese tanks were rolling through the city, when 29 Japanese warships at home ports were under orders to prepare to move on China at a moment's notice, and the Chinese, fearing a naval attack on Nanking, were considering moving the capital far inland, the story was printed on page 8.

That fact can only mean that the world outside of China is accepting the Japanese control of southern Manchuria as pretty nearly an accomplished fact. The Chinese will protest, proclaim boycotts, and demonstrate, but they appear powerless to prevent what the world regards as inevitable, whatever the moral considerations may be. The league of nations, no doubt aware of the futility of interference, has folded its hands with truly oriental poise and the note of our government has had no discernible influence on the course of events. The Japanese are not changing their Manchurian policy, but they are preparing to protect their nationals who may be subjected to retaliatory mob action in Shanghai, Nanking, or anywhere else in China.

If this is a world in which war and aggression have been successfully outlawed it is curious that warlike measures taken by members of the league of nations and signatories of the Kellogg pact should be regarded as so little out of the ordinary that they can be relegated to page 8. The truth of the matter is that what is happening in the orient is anything but unexpected and improbable. The world still recognizes that force exists and is likely to be exerted when it is profitable or expedient to do so. If this country adopts policies of armament and of international relations based upon any other assumption we shall regret our folly.

CRIME AND CRIME NEWS.

[Peoria Transcript.]

For the well meaning critics of newspapers who contend that publication of what they call "crime news" makes crime, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE prints an article and chart, based on figures announced by the federal government, which shows that an aroused public opinion is the best antidote for murder.

The chart reveals that in the eighteen months beginning Jan. 1, 1930, murders in Chicago ranged between 25 and 35 a month. Then through May and June, 1930, the record mounted until, when Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter, was slain, the murder rate was 40 a month. Through July, August and September the rate turned sharply downward, so that by the beginning of October it was down to an average of 20 murders a month. It ranged between 20 and 25 until March of this year. Then it began to rise, until by June it was up again to more than 30 a month.

THE TRIBUNE points out that no slaying in Chicago ever produced more publicity than the Lingle killing. This was natural. The victim was a newspaper man and when he was killed gangland had struck at one institution which Americans cherish—a free press. If gangland was determined to terrorize the newspapers, they were rightfully and courageously aroused to protest.

But what is more important than this is the fact that gangland seemed to be frightened by the wide publicity given to its methods. The killings abated, and the lowest point in murder in Chicago was reached within two months of Lingle's death.

This episode provides statistical evidence in support of something every practical newspaper man knows. The best way to reduce crime is to print the news about what is going on. Full publicity on crimes, which is "crime news," does no injury to the law abiding and frightens criminals—all of whom know that no matter how "reasonable" the police department may be, an aroused public opinion can force police action.

The Wickersham commission might have profitably collected statistics on law enforcement in cities where the press openly and consistently supported the authorities in law enforcement.

CONVALESCENT INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

A CERTAIN small part of those who are infected with the microbe of infantile paralysis have involvement of the spinal cord. Physicians are now trying to find some sign by which they can tell which of the infected children are likely to have the disease affect the spinal cord. Could such signs be found they would show which children should be especially protected against catching the disease. The same signs would show which children should be given the serum now used in treatment, or some improvement of it.

Of the fairly small proportion who have involvement of the spinal cord only a part have wasting of the muscles. Nevertheless, it is this muscle wasting that makes the disease one of which so many are afraid. For those who develop muscle wasting there are some procedures that have proved helpful. If a person has been through all the preliminary stages, and has arrived at the period in which one or more muscles are sore and flabby, he should know that there is still a possibility of regaining some of the ground lost.

As soon as the muscle soreness has subsided treatment for muscle and nerve restoration should begin. Dr. J. C. Elsom says the time to begin is about six weeks after the onset of the attack. However, if the muscles are still sore at the end of six weeks, restorative treatment should be further delayed. When treatments are begun they should never be persisted in long enough to be fatiguing, nor should they be violent enough to cause injury to the flabby muscles.

Since the wasting leg or arm is always cold, heat is the first restorative agent to be used. The best heat is that of sunlight. That from large electric light bulbs ranks second. Hot water and steam are good. In fact, any form of heating is good. There should be massage, but it must be very light. Soft rubbing is all right. Hard rubbing does harm. Neither galvanic nor faradic electricity should be used unless there is some special reason for them.

When the time for it comes nothing equals hydrogymnastics, meaning purposeful movements and exercises executed in a pool of water. The purpose of the water is merely to buoy the body, overcome gravity, relax the muscles which are tense in maintaining the body upright, and make it possible for all effort to be concentrated on the muscles that need to be built up.

HEIGHT AND WEIGHT.

Miss B. M. D. writes: 1. I am 18 years old, 4 feet 11 inches tall. I haven't grown for the last three years and am wondering if I will ever grow any taller. 2. I weigh 105 pounds. Is this the right weight for my height?

REPLY.

1. Growth in height stops at age 17. You cannot expect to grow any taller.
2. Your weight is about right. Something depends on your build, the size of your bones, and your nationality.

CROSSEYES.

Mrs. T. writes: When I was two years old I had measles, bronchitis, pneumonia, and convulsions all at one time. My eyes crossed.

1. If I become a mother will my children be born crosseyed?
2. Can an operation cure crossed eyes?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Yes.

GOOD FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I received my first citizenship papers in 1919 for which I paid a dollar. Can I get the second papers now or do I have to take out new first papers again? How much do I have to pay for the first papers? J. C.

A declaration of intention [first paper] is good only for seven years, as is plainly printed on the face of the paper. If the writer declares to become a citizen, it will be necessary for him to file a new declaration of intention and two years thereafter he will again be in a position to apply for naturalization. The necessary application may be obtained at this office, Room 776, Postoffice building. The cost is ten dollars.

CO-SIGNERS OF NOTE.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago my husband signed as one of three co-makers on a note for $300 for a business friend. This note was to be paid at the rate of $31.50 per month, with interest at 3½ per cent. This would make the date of maturity just one year from date of loan. 1. In case this loan was not paid in full when due would the loan company have the right to extend the time on the loan without the consent of the co-makers? 2. If not, how soon after date of maturity should the co-makers be notified? 3. Can the loan company let this unpaid balance run as long as they wish and collect interest on same? E. H.

1. Yes.
2. The holder is not obliged to pay any attention to the relation between the co-makers.
3. Yes, subject to the ten year statute of limitations.

ALIEN PROPERTY RIGHTS.

DURHAM, Ont., Oct. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. May a Canadian citizen hold a legal title to property in the United States? 2. With a Canadian having a business in the United States and an income in Canada from other interests, will income tax be payable to each country on the total income received by the Canadian citizen residing in the United States? 3. Can a municipal council in a village, town or city fix the assessment of a manufacturing or milling plant in the United States? O. S. H.

1. The field is controlled by state law. In Illinois there is a prohibition against aliens holding land more than seven years, but it is not enforced.
2. He will have to pay tax on his total income. We do not have the Canadian tax law before us, but it probably would tax him only on his Canadian income.
3. In Illinois the tax assessors are separate officials.

SOME NEW FACTS ABOUT CHRIS.

Everybody's digging deep nowadays into all our accepted traditions about great men and turning them upside down and inside out. They're proving that Abe Lincoln, instead of being a poor barefoot boy with a stone-bruise on each foot, was rolled around the park every afternoon in a swell perambulator propelled by a French nurse, and that G. Washington, according to some letters just discovered, wanted his soldiers to have a tot of rum every morning before breakfast and two tots before battle, as he found they soaked the British harder on the snoot if they had a little likker under their belts than if they went in cold sober. So now's the time to have the lowdown on Christopher Columbus, being this is the anniversary of the day when he discovered this land of the more or less free and the home of the brave, except when they have cold feet after their stocks go down to a new low. From documents just discovered in Spain, or maybe they found 'em in Italy (Chris roamed around both countries), we now have the truth about what happened when the lookout on Christopher's ship sang out "Land ho!" as he got a flash at the future U. S. of A. Chris was walking the quarter deck and he looked up at the crow's nest and said sharply, "What's that?" And the sailor again called out, "Land ho!" "Lissen," said Chris, "I had a dream last night and it won't do any good." "What won't do any good?" asked the slant head up in the rigging. "It won't do any good," replied Chris. "They're going to find out in several hundred years that the more apples they raise the more they'll have to rot on the trees. In the far-off year of 1931, when they have the biggest cotton crop except one in the history of the country, they won't be able to trade a carload of it for enough to make the first down payment on a new radio. They'll raise wheat and corn and things like that by the millions of bushels, but the market will be so glutted that the farmers will make bonfires of their wheat and corn to get the fool stuff out of the way. They'll raise—" "Wottinell all that's got to do with what I said?" asked the sailor up in the crow's nest. He was a rough, illiterate man, and, as Chris owed him money, he talked right out. "You said 'Land ho!' continued Chris, "and it's no use." "I sure said 'Land ho!' replied the sailor. "That's my story and I'm going to stick to it." "And I said it's no use," said Chris, firmly; "you may say land hoe until you're black in the face, but the more they hoe that land and the bigger crops they raise the poorer they're going to be."

"You're nuts," said the sailor, "Land ho!"

"Oh, shuttup!" said Chris.

BIOGRAPHY II.

She had no claim to beauty till he came
Save that of hidden substance finely spun,
And a fierce eagerness for life, like one
Baring an avarice, a permanent flame.
He it was who first approved the sweet
Transparent gladness of her touch and voice;
He lifted her to beauty and his choice
Nourished her hunger as with drink and meat.

Then suddenly one mauve and silver dawn
Of petal fragrant April rain, she stirred,
Her thin hand fluttered like a drowsy bird,
And reached to touch—and found that he had gone!
The old familiar pain returned anew,

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 12, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson sounded the keynote of his campaign for reelection on a platform of "America First." In a speech at the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Memorial Continental hall, the President shouted defiance of a certain element of hyphenated Americans who threatened to sling the "foreign vote" of the country against Mr. Wilson next year because of his attitude toward European belligerents. He warned of traitors and bitterly assailed the hyphens that he said perilled the country.

LONDON.—The battle is in full swing along the northern frontier of Serbia, where the Austro-Germans are pounding at the Serbian positions in an endeavor to cut their way through the little kingdom with the object of relieving their Turkish ally. Although the main Serbian forces are declared to be waiting farther south for the crucial test, the Teutons are not gaining ground unopposed in the north.

LONDON.—Progress for the allied forces in Artois and the Champagne is reported in the French official communication issued in Paris. The statement says that 7,000 or 8,000 Germans fell in the kaiser's attempt to recapture lost positions at Loos and to the northward. All the German counter attacks were repulsed.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 12, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Capt. Luke P. Colleran, chief of detectives, testified in his own behalf at his trial before the civil service commission. He denied that important evidence against James Dunlap, convicted bank robber, was destroyed while in his possession. Colin C. H. Fyffe is conducting the case against Chief Colleran.

MADISON, Wis.—Dr. Charles Kendall Adams resigned the presidency of the University of Wisconsin, which position he has held since 1892. He announced that the condition of his and his wife's health compelled their retirement to a higher altitude. Previous to becoming president of the University of Wisconsin he was for seven years president of Cornell college.

BOSTON, Mass.—Another appeal was issued to raise $110,000 demanded as ransom for Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary held captive by brigands in the Balkan mountains. Nearly half of the sum is yet to be raised.

CHICAGO.—Chapin hall, the new dormitory for women erected and presented to Northwestern university by Dr. D. K. Pearsons, was dedicated and turned over to the institution. Acting President Bonbright accepted the hall in behalf of William Deering.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 12, 1881.

NEWMARKET, England.—Jim Keene's celebrated horse, Foxhall, won the Cesarewitch stakes on the Newmarket course today. Just before the start the betting was 9 to 2 against Foxhall, but the American horse won by almost ten lengths. Mr. Keene thinks the aggregate winnings of Americans who bet on the race were $250,000. Chippendale came in second and Fiddler third.

CARROLTON, Ill.—Martha Scales, familiarly known as Old Mother Scales, died here at the wonderfully advanced age of 110 years. She was, in all probability, the oldest person in the state at the time of her death. She was born in Virginia and remembered well when the war of the revolution ended.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Charles J. Guiteau probably will be arraigned tomorrow on the indictment charging him with the assassination of President Garfield. It is not certain yet that George M. Scoville will not succeed in securing some distinguished lawyer to assist him in the trial. Richard Merritt, it is said, may agree to argue the question of jurisdiction, but it is hardly probable that he will proceed further in the case, as he is reported to have said that Guiteau ought not to have any trial, but should be strung up without such formalities.

THE PROFITS OF FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—For the last two years I have taken the legal papers of the city for the purpose of ascertaining, among other things, the number of foreclosures on trust deeds, and I find that they average about fifty per day, not counting Saturday and Sunday, which would make a total of 32,300 foreclosures in two years. The large foreclosures, that is, those involving $500,000 to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000, occurred the first year; the second year they have been, comparatively speaking, smaller amounts, the largest one, I think, being the Orrington hotel in Evanston, where the amount involved was $1,879,000.

I think from now on that the number of foreclosures will lessen, because the people who have been so prominent in forcing this issue are learning, to their regret, that it is not as profitable for them as they expected. I refer particularly to attorneys. I doubt if one-tenth of the attorneys involved in these cases have received their fees, because after the allowed attorney fees, plus the masters' fees and court costs, the plaintiff is unable to pay: in fact, I talked to two prominent masters in chancery not long ago and they told me that each of them had two large boxes of masters' certificates which they were holding until the plaintiffs could pay the attorneys' fees, court costs, and masters' fees.

Most of the lawyers of Chicago have not profited by the prevailing depression, but it is they who think they have made a fortune out of it, which are represented by probably twenty-five firms, who continue to force the issue. One firm thinks it has made $2,500,000 in attorneys' fees, and another firm thinks it has made $1,500,000 in attorneys' fees.

The President's effort to move frozen assets of banks with his $500,000,000 fund should loosen up a great many pieces of property which would be subject to foreclosure. Although I think that the President has taken the wrong end of the dilemma; that is, this money should be furnished by the government instead of by the banks, as the banks hold most of the frozen assets, the President is to be admired for his efforts, and we all hope that he will succeed, but it is a matter of considerable doubt.

The lawyer who has his country's welfare at stake will not jump immediately into foreclosure suits, which will lose his client a great deal of money, as well as increase the lack of confidence now prevailing throughout the country.

WILLIAM B. AUSTIN.

WHERE THEY FAIL.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—It costs considerably more to educate a child in high school than one in the grades. How does the percentage of failures in high schools compare with the percentage in the grades?

Isn't it better to fail children in the grades than in high school?

ONE WHO THINKS.

HIGH SCHOOL ECONOMIES.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Kindly permit me to suggest ways of increasing the efficiency of Chicago high schools and for saving the taxpayers' money. I ought to know, because I have taught in high school for twenty years.

Eliminate lunchrooms from high schools, excepting a small one for teachers. Have all pupils take their meals at home. High schools are too commercialized. Lunchrooms create utter confusion, wasted efforts, interfere with orderly progress of serious study.

Most high schools begin at 8 a. m. and continue till 4 p. m. Investigate and you will find half the rooms vacant after 2 p. m., and after 3 o'clock two-thirds of them unoccupied. Why not have half of the pupils attend school from 8 to 12:30 and the other half from then on to 5:30 or 6 p. m.? Our school was built for 2,200 and now houses around 5,000 every day. Results, almost chaos. You are not getting full use of the school plant and equipment.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER.

FOOD FOR THE HUNGRY.

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 5.—Why not be forward looking and plan to use the hundreds of vacant lots in the outskirts of our city for vegetable gardens for the unemployed next spring and summer? Do not burn the dead leaves! Have them hauled by city trucks not in use to fertilize said lots.

Every truck gardener and farmer must have some vegetables he cannot use or sell. The same is true of private gardeners. Send the surplus to a distributing station, or permit the families of the unemployed to gather the vegetable themselves. I would suggest that they dig frostproof trenches in which to store such produce as they have no space for in their own homes.

SECOND BLOOMING.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—With lilacs in bloom in Norwood Park, raspberries in Pana, Ill., and violets in Pullman, we would like to add to this collection of Mother Nature's turned head a snow ball bush with large snow balls for the second time this season. MRS. B. L. NELSON.

ANOTHER.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—In my garden is a lovely tea rose blooming for the second time this year. MRS. M. KEYS.

THE PAY OF POLICEMEN.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—In today's article Oscar Hewitt, generally well informed, is in error when he states that Chicago police are paid top salary in this country. Two years ago New York by popular vote of the people raised wages of privates in police and fire departments to $3,000 per annum. Newark, N. J., pays the same. Detroit pays more than does Chicago, which pays police and firemen $2,500. HUDSON AVENUE COUPON.

100,000 MARCH IN LONDON; PROTEST SLASH IN WAGES

Civil Servants Stage a Great Demonstration.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(AP)—One hundred thousand civil servants, with their wives, children and sympathizers, staged one of the greatest and most moving demonstrations of London's long history today along the banks of the Thames, protesting cuts in their wages under the new economy régime.

They marched to the music of twenty bands and to the waving of hundreds of banners. The long parade formed near the temple and, taking an hour to pass a nearby corner, proceeded to Hyde Park, where a dozen orators made speeches.

Hundreds of mounted police and "bobbies" on foot kept the lines moving, but there was no disorder. A smaller group of several thousand communists which marched with the civil servants, however, taxed the best efforts of 200 policemen who sought to prevent disturbances. Members of this group several times broke out of the parade lines, dashed up to the windows of homes and hotels from which people were watching and shouted threats until they were pulled back into line by the police.

Reds Carry Pictures of Lenin.

The communists carried red flags with the sickle and hammer emblem and large banners on which were pictures of Lenin. Most of them were youths, and as they strode along they sang "The Red Flag" and shouted to pedestrians, "You'll be with us soon, too, brothers!"

The civil servants marched solemnly and impressively, and with few words, to such music as "When the Flag Goes Marching By." They carried banners on which were "Postmen See Red," "Stop Cutting Our Wages and Keep the Eighth Commandment in Force," "Ninety Per Cent of Us Receive Less than Forty-three Shillings a Week," "Serve, Yes; Serf, No!"

Police said it was the largest organized demonstration they ever handled here. They said only 20,000 had been expected to participate and 100,000 turned out.

Campaign Grows Heated.

The week-end increased the pitch of the political campaign throughout the country. The belief that the National government is facing a critical situation increased as Conservative candidates in some constituencies appeared unwilling to give way to Liberals or National Labor candidates who are seeking seats in opposition to Labor party representatives.

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal minister in the national cabinet, is faced with a strong Conservative opponent at Darwen in Capt. Allan Graham and there is a possibility that by splitting the National government vote both might lose and the Labor party candidate may win. Similar situations exist elsewhere, although there have been withdrawals in some constituencies by Liberals and Conservatives.

Prime Minister MacDonald is in the north preparing to wage a fight to retain his seat for the Seaham constituency, where the Labor party organization has disavowed him.

VIRGINIA WIFE KILLS HERSELF; JEALOUS OF ANOTHER WOMAN

Richmond, Va., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Eva Dick Davis, 43, prominent in local social circles and former women's city golf champion, committed suicide today at her apartment by shooting.

Police said that she left a note addressed "To Whom It May Concern," indicating that she had planned to kill a Georgetown woman who she believed had alienated the affections of her husband, William Dudley Davis, traveling salesman, and then kill herself, but she finally changed her plans. She stated in the note, according to the police, that the "woman had made another man out of daddy."

Mrs. Davis talked over the telephone with Mrs. William R. Farr, a friend, and became hysterical during the conversation. Mrs. Farr and her husband, a kinsman of Davis, became so uneasy about her that they hurried to the apartment. Just as they arrived they heard pistol shots inside. Police were summoned and found that Mrs. Davis had fired two shots through a window and then shot herself as she lay across a bed.

Located in Baltimore early this afternoon, Davis was summoned to Richmond. Last March he figured as the principal witness in another tragedy here. In this case, Mrs. Ruia Lowry Whiteside, prominent socially, was killed in her home early one morning by a bullet fired by her husband, William F. Whiteside.

Whiteside claimed that he was illustrating a war experience when the revolver was discharged accidentally. Investigation disclosed that there had been a drinking party in the house and that Davis was the only witness of the shooting. He corroborated the story told by Whiteside, who was charged with murder but was later freed.

City Experts Leave for East to Study Subways

A party of engineers, attorneys, and real estate experts employed by the city in the subway project left yesterday for Philadelphia for a study of the underground system there. B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, said that the principal purpose of the trip was to gather information regarding the effect of subway construction on adjoining property values.

U. S. TO TRACE CAPONE'S RISE IN TRIAL TODAY

Will Show Gang Chief's Increased Spending.

tions of law. They are expected to attack the evidence of huge expenditures, contending that it does not prove income. But Judge Wilkerson has indicated in overruling some of the objections that it goes a long way toward proving the government's point.

As the case now stands, lawyers consider that the outlook for Capone is not bright. There is evidence that Capone admitted to revenue agents that he paid no taxes, filed no returns, and had income of at least $266,000. There is evidence that he admitted to Florida authorities that gambling was his principal occupation, and that he told a raiding Berwyn pastor that he owned the gambling establishment which showed weekly profits of many thousands.

There is evidence that Capone received more than $30,000, wired to him by his gangster friends, while he was staying at his Florida winter home, which cost $40,000 and the grounds of which cost $100,000 to landscape. And there is evidence that Capone admitted to a Florida prosecutor that this money came from his gambling business.

$1,038,654 Income Charged.

The indictments against Capone allege an income of $1,038,654 for the years 1924 to 1929, inclusive, but it was pointed out in the opening statement by Prosecutor Dwight H. Green that it is necessary to prove only that the defendant had some income. Capone filed no returns, which in itself is a crime, if the gross income is more than $5,000. In the words of Defense Attorney Fink, spoken with reference to the "confession" letter written by a former lawyer for Capone, the prosecution has "nailed him to the cross."

If convicted, the gangster faces a possible maximum prison sentence of 32 years and a fine of $30,000.

Bodyguard in Court Today.

D'Andrea, the bodyguard, is being held on a charge of direct contempt of the court, for which the judge can impose whatever punishment he deems fit, there being no statutory limit. D'Andrea was arrested four times in 1924, once on a charge of assault with intent to kill. The case was dismissed for want of prosecution, after half a dozen continuances.

D'Andrea is to show cause at 10 o'clock this morning why he should not be punished for carrying a gun into the courtroom. The defense is expected to be a Municipal court bailiff's star, but it has been ascertained that he is no longer a bailiff.

United States Attorney George E. Johnson and his four assistant prosecutors, Mr. Green, William J. Froelich, Jacob I. Grossman, and Samuel G. Clawson, worked late at the federal building last night, preparing their evidence for today.

The jury in this case is quartered in a loop hotel under guard of deputy United States marshals. The jurors have been admonished by the court to permit no one to discuss the case with them. All references to the trial are deleted from newspapers before they are given to the jurors to read.

HERE'S WHY

THE REFRIGERATING MECHANISM BELONGS ON TOP . . .

¶ After 15 years of research and experimentation with electrical refrigerators, the General Electric Research Laboratories definitely determined that the only place for the refrigerating mechanism was on top of the cabinet—uncovered—air-cooled. In this way, the heat absorbed from the food in the cabinet is not in any way blanketed. As a result, the General Electric motor runs less frequently and for much shorter periods. It consumes less current and operates at greatly increased efficiency.

¶ General Electric engineers then went further. They hermetically sealed the entire mechanism in a lifetime supply of oil in the modern Monitor Top. General Electric's famous oil conditioner keeps the oil always at a running temperature—so a General Electric never needs oiling. There are no fans, belts, or other contrivances to get out of order—no exposed moving parts to collect dirt and moisture and cause trouble. And the Monitor Top itself has no oily or adhesive surfaces to catch dust. Because of its superior design and construction, General Electric refrigerator has won an amazing record for "No Service Expense."

LINDBERGH HOME READY FOR THEM ON THEIR RETURN

Workmen Now Putting On Finishing Touches.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 11.—(AP)—When the Lindberghs, Charles and Anne, return to New Jersey from their abandoned world flight they will find their New York home on Sourland mountain ready for occupancy.

With the exterior completed, workmen are now making their final touches to the interior and expect to have the ten room Tudor stone house in order within three weeks.

Whatever the contents of the large white building, which from some directions can be seen for miles, only the workmen and a few intimates can tell—and they won't. Outside the door stands a sign informing those who have driven over the steep, narrow and rocky road that leads to the Lindberghs' new estate that no visitors are allowed inside.

All day and night the new home is guarded by watchmen who are polite to visitors but rarely give direct answers to questions.

Named After the Soil.

One watchman, a native, asked where Sourland mountain got its name, replied: "Well, we've been asked not to tell you fellows much, but—"

And he reached down, grabbed a handful of soil and placed it under the visitor's nose. It had a sour smell.

The "front yard" of the 550 acre tract, in which is located the flying colonel's private landing field, is criss-crossed with vestiges of old stone fences, placed there by farmers over a period of two centuries.

Narrow, shady lanes walled in by rows of sapling maples and underbrush are found along the stone fences.

The outline of the building describes a rectangle about 70 feet long by 40 wide, with the longest sides at the front and back. The terrace, floored with large, flat-surfaced rocks, irregularly placed, extends the full length of the front. Five sets of French doors, evenly spaced, connect it with the interior. From that terrace Mrs. Lindbergh will be able to see her husband long before his arrival as he flies home from his New York office.

Road Access Difficult.

The back door, which suggests the entrance to such colonial taverns as adorn Christmas cards, opens into a paved parking space. From that leads the rocky "road to town" which discourages many would-be visitors from seeing the Lindbergh estate. At one end of the house is a small roofed porch, concealed from the roadside. Facing that is a pump house of the same materials as the house.

Workmen skillfully placed the thatched slate shingles on the roof to give the appearance of wooden shingles distorted by the rains and sleets of generations.

Geologists have shown interest in it because it provides an excellent example of how trap rock millions of years ago melted and forced its way up through layers of shale to form the "backbone" of a mountain ridge. On the slopes can be seen evidence of shale having split to make way for the molten trap rock.

Historic House Near.

Near the Lindbergh home is the "rock house" with a cleavage large enough to conceal a man. John Hart, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, is said to have hidden there to escape British soldiers dispatched from Trenton to capture him.

Close to this is the "balanced rock," a heavy bowlder left neatly poised on a natural pedestal by the erosion of ages.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife chose this home site from the sky soon after their marriage. It is situated too high for fogs and faces the busiest air lane in the world, between Newark and Camden. In the distance beacons of two airports flash at night.

PERU'S ELECTION QUIET; STREETS ARE DESERTED

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Peru's presidential and general assembly election passed today in orderly fashion in the capital, but because the votes will not be counted for some time it was impossible to surmise who the winners might be.

Because of poor communications, nothing was known of the progress of the vote in the provinces.

Police, followed their ordinary regulations for maintaining order, even though the streets were deserted as on any ordinary Sunday. It was estimated, however, that 70 per cent of the votes in Lima were polled by noon.

CHILL BREEZE OFF LAKE GIVES TASTE OF FALL

Chicagoans shivered yesterday as a stiff breeze whipped off Lake Michigan and the thermometer remained at autumnal levels through the day. C. A. Donnel, official weather forecaster, predicted frosts in Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, the Northwestern states and Missouri last night, but Chicago's proximity to the lake was expected to protect this area.

The Chicago forecast was for lower temperatures today, with fair skies and northerly winds. Tomorrow will be cloudy and warmer.

Chicago had an official rainfall of 1.3 inches over the week-end, Mr. Donnel said. Trains entering Chicago from Illinois valley points and the western part of the state were delayed several hours in some instances—by heavy rainfall which covered or washed out tracks in some localities. At Wyanett a lock in the Hennepin canal, connecting the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, was broken by the high water. A large government warehouse was swept away and a 300 yard stretch of Rock Island tracks was washed out. Rock Island trains were rerouted. Crews will start repairing the damage today.

GANDHI TO VISIT IRELAND; MAY COME TO AMERICA

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi announced today he intends to visit Ireland soon and after the round table conference is over he plans visits to France, Germany, Italy, Palestine, and possibly the United States, if the British government has no objection.

He wishes, he said, to do nothing to embarrass the prime minister or the government in their present plight.

"I have the deepest sympathy for Prime Minister MacDonald," he said. "He is worn out. He is carrying a load which would have crushed a man of less spirit and courage long ago. You can see the terrible fatigue and anxiety in his face. How he can bear up under his political troubles and the terrific national problem, along with the round table conference, is quite beyond me. England has not seen his like for many a year."

Ever since Ireland won its independence from Great Britain Gandhi has felt he could learn much from the people of the Irish Free State who, he believes, would value him and his fight for India's liberation.

RELIEF GROUP TELLS HOW FUND WILL BE SPENT

Seek Greatest Efficiency in Care of Needy.

Definite plans for administration of the $3,300,000 now being raised by the Joint Unemployment Emergency Relief fund, drawn up under the auspices of representatives of the main social service agencies of the city, were announced yesterday by Frank D. Loomis, secretary of the fund.

F. D. LOOMIS. [Mollett Photo.]

Twelve relief stations, to be located at strategic points in the city, will handle the emergency cases exclusively.

Three of these stations already are in operation—in the stockyards district, the Humboldt park district, and the Haymarket district. Others will be established soon to relieve the permanent burden carried by the various agencies. Each of the major social service institutions will carry on as usual with its ordinary activities, the dozen new stations being devoted exclusively to handling family relief caused by the depression.

List Types of Cases.

Types of cases to be coped with through these stations, as detailed by the officials of the fund, are:

1. All those in which unemployment is the main problem, and maternity, acute illness, malnutrition, minor behavior problems such as truancy, domestic difficulties, and problems of family relationship which are minor issues.

2. Childless couples with whom unemployment is the main problem.

3. Families of adults in which unemployment is the main problem.

4. Single women maintaining a domicile in which unemployment is the main problem.

Agencies Handle Other Problems.

All cases needing attention over a long period will as usual be delegated to the soical service agencies which handle such matters as a part of their routine. These include widows with minor children; serious behavior problems; and the unemployable, such as cripples, the blind, aged, physically and mentally handicapped, those suffering with chronic illnesses, and personality difficulties which prevent employment. The last group includes those in which family life is being threatened.

"So successful was our plan of supplementing city and county relief last year with private emergency funds," Mr. Loomis explained, "these being distributed through experienced and tested private agencies, that it drew high praise from those best qualified to judge. We have, heretofore, unhesitatingly adopted the plan again this year.

Make Some Changes.

"Based on the practical experience of last year, however, some changes have been made in the method which we believe will enable us to handle the situation even better than heretofore. The plan worked out has been carefully formulated by the family division of the Council of Social Agencies, and much credit must be given this group for the work they have done."

James Mullenbach, labor arbiter of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, is chairman of the committee in charge. Other members and their agencies are Edward L. Ryerson and Wilfred S. Reynolds, Council of Social Agencies; James B. Forgan Jr. and James T. Nicholson, Chicago chapter, Red Cross; Ferris Laune and Mrs. Clara Paul Paige, Cook county bureau of public service; Mrs. Alfred D. Kohen and Virginia Frank, Jewish social service bureau; R. K. Kauffman and Brig. Lewis Bennett, Salvation Army; Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen and Florence Nesbitt, United Charities.

A. of C. to Hear Plans.

The Chicago Association of Commerce will hear relief plans explained at the meeting Wednesday in the Hotel La Salle. Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the governor's joint emergency relief fund; Samuel Insull Jr., general chairman of the relief group, and Charles S. Dewey, former adviser to Poland and now chairman of the trade division, will speak. No solicitations are to be made at the gathering.

CHICAGO'S NEW COUNTESS AND HUSBAND ARRIVE

Count and Countess Augusto Cavicchia, married Friday in New York, arrived in Chicago yesterday, but efforts to learn anything further about the romance or the future plans of the city's latest lady of title were effectively discouraged by her brother, Joseph Mausby, manufacturer of cosmetics.

The bride, formerly Miss Sarah Victoria Mausby, was a successful business woman, operating a studio where the élite went for its conditioning massage. The count gave his occupation as a movie director.

As the smartly attired young couple stepped off the train, they were disconcerted to be faced by waiting cameramen, but consented to pose briefly. The bride, an attractive brunette, was chic in a beturred winter suit and tiny Eugenie hat. She darted away immediately for her former home at 3750 Sheridan road, where her brother assured inquirers later that the couple had departed for California, and he couldn't say when they would return. He said further he understood they intended to make their home in Paris.

TEACHERS INVITE GOV. EMMERSON TO MASSMEETING

Ask Him to Tell Plans for Pay Relief.

Gov. Emmerson has been invited to address a massmeeting of south side public school teachers next Wednesday at the Hyde Park High school on the subject of financial relief for school board employés. The daily increasing need among teachers, the letter of invitation says, makes it urgent that they be informed definitely if and when they may expect a special session of the legislature.

Attendance at the meeting is expected to reach 4,000, according to Robert P. Russell, 8005 Ridgeland avenue, secretary of the committee on arrangements, by whom the invitation to the governor was extended.

Letter of Teachers.

"If, however, you are unable to be present," the invitation read, "the teachers would greatly appreciate a communication from you, either by a representative or by letter, to be read to those assembled enlightening them on the following points:

"May the harassed teachers be confident that a special session of the legislature will be called to give them badly needed relief?

"If so, when will it convene?

"What was the text or substance of the opinion which made it impossible for you to cause the immediate distribution of Chicago's share of the state school funds by sale of tax anticipation warrants?

"It is needless to point out to you that the date of the anticipated special session of the legislature has been postponed so frequently that the teachers are impelled to come to you for a definite word.

Delay Relief Society Dues.

The 7,000 members of the Chicago Teachers' Relief society, a benefit organization, have voted to extend the due date on their annual dues from Oct. 15 to Nov. 30, with a provision for accepting promissory notes until Jan. 15, according to Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools and treasurer of the organization.

Along with 11,000 other school board employés, the 7,000 members of the relief society have not been paid in cash since last April.

RETIRED FIREMEN HONOR VETERANS OF '71 HOLOCAUST

Four hundred members of the Retired Firemen's Association of Chicago gathered yesterday in the Crystal room of the Great Northern hotel to commemorate the great fire of Oct. 8 and 9, 1871, which destroyed 17,450 buildings and killed 250 inhabitants.

Tribute was paid the seven surviving veterans of the fire department which fought the conflagration, of whom only three were not too enfeebled to attend the gathering. Those present were Isaac M. Adler, 90 years old, 7419 Paxton avenue; Charles Schroeder, 85 years old, 2106 Fremont street, and Nicholas Weinand, 85 years old, 1634 Larrabee street.

Mr. Weinand was invited to preside during the election of officers. By unanimous vote the present officers were reelected. They are John Dooley, president; William A. Christenson, vice president; Edward Pigeon, treasurer; John O'Neil, legislative executive; Delius Tennert, secretary; John Clancy, executive secretary, and William C. Freitag, assistant executive secretary.

City Treasurer James A. Kearns, who is ex-officio treasurer of the firemen's pension fund, was elected an honorary member of the association.

COOK SHOT BY BANDITS.

LOST! 20 Lbs. of Fat

Well Known Lansing, Michigan, Woman Jubilant—Regains Health and Vivaciousness. Feels, Oh, So Light and Full of Pep.

Suppose you were way over-weight for your height—165 lbs.—and every time you looked in a mirror it showed you with a double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, very nervous and irritable.

And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to give up in despair.

Such was the dilemma of Miss Iva Root, of Lansing, Mich. She read about Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, the one safe natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell the story:

"Talk all you please about fat people being good-natured. I wasn't when I weighed 165 pounds—20 pounds too much, and I'm only 26. Everybody thought me a grouch. Really, I was sick with acid, gassy, indigestion, and constipation. I bloated terribly after meals. But for a long time I could find no relief. Then I read a Bonkora ad. Three bottles took off 20 pounds surplus weight, and rid me of my indigestion, too."

You may not want to lose 20 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages" as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes showing you how to select the correct combination of foods you probably like best, furnished free.

BERLIN ACCUSED OF HUSHING TRUE FINANCIAL PLIGHT

Schacht Says Chancellor Falsifies Conditions.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARZBURG, Germany, Oct. 11.—While leaders of Germany's new fangled Fascism and old fashioned kaiserism were laying plans here to bring the republic they hate to an end on the thirteenth anniversary of its foundation—Nov. 9—Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, tonight struck a blow at the vitals of the German state which made even the audience of fanatical Hitlerites and the "Steel Helmets," as Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists are called, gasp.

HJALMER SCHACHT

Backed by all the weight of his prestige as a financial expert, Schacht accused Chancellor Bruening's government of falsifying statements of the country's financial position and made sensational revelations regarding the alleged insecurity of gold coverage for the mark.

Charges Debts Are Hidden.

"Our financial situation has been continually much more unfavorable than it was presented to the public and will remain so," the stormy petrel of the Young plan conferences said. "Our foreign indebtedness has never been truthfully recorded, and is substantially greater than represented in a recent report of experts of the world bank at Basel.

"But none dares to say this publicly. Likewise, for fear of creating a panic, the government has never revealed that the foreign currency reserve of the Reichsbank is only in part sound and liquid, and that in reckoning the gold coverage of the mark, the official figures actually include several hundred million marks in foreign credits on which repayment must be made shortly."

Without giving any figures, Schacht indicated the gold coverage of the mark is well below the legal rate of 30 per cent which the government has been striving so heroically to maintain.

Gets Great Ovation.

The former president of the Reichsbank uttered his condemnation of the government from the speaker's platform. His thrust at the government completely overshadowed the melodramatic observations of Adolf Hitler, Fascist chieftain, who slyly let it be known that he would be willing to become Germany's Mussolini, and Dr. Hugenberg.

The assembled Hitlerites and "Steel Helmets," realizing how they might plunge the nation into confusion if Schacht's charges were taken seriously abroad and thus hasten the day when the republic would no longer be able to withstand attacks from within or without, gave him the greatest ovation of the day.

To them "der tag" is not far off.

Following a conference with Dr. Hugenberg this morning, Hitler announced to his cheering "storm troops" that as soon as the reichstag convenes on Tuesday, the Nationalist opposition will introduce two motions, one expressing a lack of confidence in Chancellor Bruening and the other demanding a dissolution of the reichstag and general elections on Nov. 8.

A Formidable Onslaught.

Today's "united Nationalist opposition" convention in this little spa in the foothills of the Hartz mountains represents the most formidable onslaught on the government attempted in recent years and comes at a time when Chancellor Bruening's position is most shaky.

It was not a general convention of the two parties, but a joint session of their parliamentary leaders and representatives—the first one ever held. A complete collaboration of the two extremist parties was formally ratified and the forces of their powerful "armies"—the "Steel Helmets," and Hitler's "storm troops"—totaling about 150,000 men, were pooled.

After an open air religious service during which a Catholic priest and a Protestant pastor invoked divine aid on "this decisive day for the liberation of our fatherland," the convention got down to the serious business of the day which was oratory. Hitler, in his speech, too a violent dig at France, accusing her of greediness, and outside of Schacht's bombshell, the main fireworks came from Dr. Hugenberg, a Hosenzollern loyalist, who issued an ultimatum to the government in which he said: "Vacate of your own accord or we will storm the field!"

Demands Schacht's Arrest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The early edition of the newspaper, Welt am Montag, demanded tonight the arrest of Hjalmer Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, whom it accuses of having "committed high treason at Harzburg in the course of a speech on the German financial position in which he made allegations concerning the Reichsbank.

Chancellor Bruening conferred with Hans Luther, present head of the Reichsbank, and telephoned Schacht at Harzburg demanding an explanation.

The Telegraphen Union, which issued a full report of the speech this afternoon, deleted the most sensational passages tonight after the demand for Schacht's arrest became known.

France Sees Change in Berlin.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Just two weeks after the visit of Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand to Berlin has come today's demonstration by the German Nationalist factions at Harzburg and there is a feeling in France that it means the end of all immediate possibility of coöperation with Germany.

It is believed here that within a few weeks, or possibly days, power in Germany will be in the hands of those whose doctrine it has always been that there must be a new deal and that the treaty of Versailles must be challenged. Bruening, it is thought, cannot now hope to survive or to govern without the support of parliament.

He has served under four kings—Charles Albert, Victor Emanuel II., Umberto I., and Victor Emanuel III. He arranged the marriage and the funeral ceremonies for three of them, comforted three dowager queens and paid his respects to six popes.

U. S. WILL ASK WRITS TODAY TO DESTROY FOOD

Assistant United States District Attorney Alfred W. Bosworth said yesterday that he would request Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward today to issue 13 writs for the destruction of $35,000 worth of spoiled foodstuffs seized recently in Chicago by inspectors for the pure food and drugs department. The seizures include scores of crates of fish, a dozen cases of mushrooms and fruit juices, jellies, apples, celery, butter, and eggs, Bosworth said.

All of the shipments, Bosworth said, were seized on information from inspectors of the food and drugs department who watch production in this area. They inspect the processing and packing of the foodstuffs that are sent to the city for consumption. Samples of all suspected foods are sent to the department's laboratories.

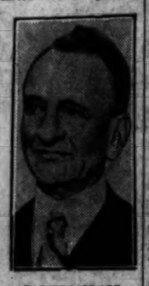
GLASS ASKS WHY CANNON'S BROKER RECEIVES PAROLE

Urges Mitchell to Say if U. S. Made a Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], long time foe of Bishop James Cannon Jr., today made public a communication sent to Attorney General William D. Mitchell denouncing "a persistently reported sinister agreement" whereby it is alleged that a parole was granted to Harry L. Goldhurst, former New York bucket shop operator and financial adviser to the bishop.



CARTER GLASS.

Thqugh saying that he had no proof of a compact to promise clemency "to this swindler in compensation for averting the appearance in court of his ecclesiastical client," Senator Glass contends that the fact of Goldhurst's parole "gives color" to this idea.

Given 5 Year Sentence.

Goldhurst, former head of Kable & Co., with whom Bishop Cannon dealt in securities, pleaded guilty to charges of using the mails to defraud and was sentenced to five years in Atlanta penitentiary.

Last July the department of justice announced that Goldhurst would be paroled on April 15, 1932. It developed that former United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had recommended the parole, and also that Goldhurst had been removed from Atlanta penitentiary to a prison camp between Washington and Baltimore.

In his letter to Attorney General Mitchell dated Aug. 29, 1931, Senator Glass disclosed that he had been given access to the department's files and he lists what he holds to be a significant history of delays and political intervention in the Goldhurst case. He recalls how Goldhurst changed his plea from not guilty to guilty, and how Bishop Cannon sailed immediately afterward for Brazil.

Bishop Escapes Being Witness.

"It was stated at the time," says Senator Glass' letter, "that Goldhurst, in order to avert the necessity of summoning Bishop Cannon as a witness in his case and thus revealing the prelate's gambling transactions, had consented to alter his plea and confess his crime upon the promise of a nominal sentence, to be afterwards reduced to parole or outright release."

The senator is unable to say whether there was a compact to promise clemency to Goldhurst, says Senator Glass, but he tells the attorney general that his interest in the case was prompted by a "desire to ascertain whether the pursuit of justice had been arrested by sanction of public officials to save from serious embarrassment a certain ecclesiastical politician."

On Oct. 5 Mr. Mitchell, returning from a vacation, wrote Senator Glass that, while originally suggesting that the Goldhurst file be kept "confidential" in accordance with department practices, he now doubted whether "there is anything about the fact of this particular case which makes it likely that any one who tendered information about the case thought anything" of the department rule. He said, "There is absolutely nothing about the case that you are not at entire liberty to know," and offered to send the file to Senator Glass.

Blameworthy Agreement.

Three days later Senator Glass wrote that "the matter has ceased to be of any more interest to me," but suggesting that the department ascertain whether the Goldhurst parole "was in pursuance of a blameworthy agreement" by department officials in New York and elsewhere.

"That such a thing actually occurred was suggested in my previous letter and facts were cited, since confirmed by investigators for the Nye senate committee, which indicate that bribery was used to defeat the ends of justice in the Goldhurst case," Senator Glass wrote. "All of the circumstances cited tend to confirm the suspicion that these illicit transactions were devised and asquiesced in for the purpose of shielding the reputation of a culprit of more importance than Goldhurst himself. You will pardon me for expressing regret that you do not seem to realize that the very integrity of the department of justice is involved in the allegations about the prosecution and the parole of this New York bucket shop swindler."

Slayers Avoid Jury Trials to Let Judges Decide Fate

Murderers are fighting shy of Criminal court juries, it was disclosed in statistics compiled and made public yesterday by the Chicago crime commission. Two methods are used by these criminals to prevent a jury deciding what penalty should be paid for the taking of human life, the commission statistics show.

Either the murderer waives a jury, under the recent Supreme court decision giving a defendant in the Criminal court this privilege, and allows the judge to hear the evidence in his case, or else a plea of guilty is entered, usually after some bargaining with the authorities for some consideration in return for saving the state the expense and time of a jury trial.

Heavy Penalties Imposed.

The commission compiled the statistics as a result of the heavy penalties in years meted out recently by some of the Criminal court judges to those charged with murder. It was then discovered that in most of these cases the state's attorney's office had started out in asking for the infliction of the death penalty.

The defendants, afraid to take a chance with juries in such cases, chose one or the other method to escape electrocution, it was pointed out.

"Few judges will sentence a man to death on a plea of guilty," said a veteran assistant state's attorney. "In fact, many of the judges have publicly made such statements from the bench. The same situation exists under the jury waiver plan. It puts the entire responsibility for a death sentence on the judge the same as a plea of guilty, and most judges react the same as they would if a plea of guilty was entered."

Three Given Death Penalty.

The commission figures show that out of 135 defendants convicted for murder since January, 1930, to Oct. 7, 1931, eighty-two of them chose to be sentenced either on pleas of guilty or on conviction by the judge without a jury. Three of the defendants, who hoped to escape the electric chair by pleading guilty, however, did not accomplish their aim, it was shown by the commission figures.

Judge Otto Kerner imposed one of the death sentences and Judge Phillip J. Finnegan sentenced two men to death, despite their pleas.

Few and Far Between.

"Death sentences imposed by a judge after pleas of guilty are few and far between," said the prosecutor. "If the records were searched for the last quarter of a century it would be found that not more than one-half dozen men have been executed after they plead guilty."

The figures of the crime commission bear out the statement from the prosecutor's office. Out of 51 defendants sentenced for manslaughter, 23 of them were on guilty pleas and 12 others on jury waivers.

Some of the more recent severe sentences imposed by judges in cases wherein the prosecution had originally announced an intention to ask for the death penalty are cited by the crime commission. The most recent is that of Everett Kappmeyer, slayer of a south side garage owner, who was given 33 years in the penitentiary after he had pleaded guilty.

Given Lengthy Sentences.

Nick Florida and Mike Trotta got sentences of 145 years each when they plead guilty to killing a policeman who tried to prevent them from committing a holdup. This, too, was announced by the prosecution as a death case.

Willie Doody, slayer of the chief of police of Berwyn, who was sentenced to death by a jury but granted a new trial by the Supreme court, escaped with a life sentence when he pleaded guilty on a retrial. Jake Tatelman and Harry Goldvarg, firebugs who killed two children, were given 40 year sentences; Henry Davis, David Allen, and Howard Hunter, colored bandits, drew 199 year sentences each, and C. Thompson 100 years, according to the crime commission list.

BOY BANDIT TO GO ON TRIAL AS SLAYER TODAY

PERRY SWANK JR.

Prosecutor Robert G. Estill said that two indictments stand against the boy, one of first degree murder, the other of murder during robbery with a gun, which carries a mandatory death sentence on conviction. Estill said that although he offered to recommend imprisonment for life if the boy would plead guilty, he is planning to seek conviction on the second charge.

Swank has confessed killing Eugene Duckworth, 70, in holding up a filling station in Lowell, Ind., three weeks ago. John Haller, East Chicago, Ind., his attorney, said that he will not deny the confession and will not plead insanity, and it is generally accepted that the defense will revolve around the testimony of Miss Alma Long, unwed mother who lived at the boy's home in Creston Crossroads, a hamlet near Lowell. She admitted at the inquest that the boy had told her he planned the holdup and that he gave her the $45 he took from Duckworth's body.

Swank was a sophomore in Lowell High school. He had a record as a juvenile offender in Hammond, Ind., where he formerly lived.

Mr. Chester M. Campbell
Classified Advertising Manager
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Campbell:

You will no doubt be interested in the results of a survey we have just completed among our most recent purchasers of used cars. Our purpose was two-fold; first, to learn the newspaper reading habits of our customers and second, to determine which newspaper's classified advertising section they would voluntarily turn to when buying a used car.

The final analysis brings out these two interesting facts;

82% of our used car purchasers are readers of the daily and Sunday Tribune.

66% of our customers said that when buying a used car they would consult the Chicago Tribune classified advertising section first.

As all the people who bought used cars from us during the first 9 months of this year were included in this survey, the analysis presents a very representative cross-section of their newspaper reading habits. The insight given us by the survey into the standing and acceptance of various classified advertising media will also prove of great value.

Incidentally, our recent classified advertising campaign in the Chicago Tribune on Gambill Motor Company "Blue Ribbon" used cars proved to be more than satisfactory. We were able to dispose of more than 80% of the automobiles advertised.

We are sending this information on to you in the belief that it will be of as great interest to you as it was to us.

Yours very truly,

"82% of our Used Car Purchasers Are Readers of the Tribune"

RECENTLY the Gambill Motor Co., Inc., Chicago distributors of Hupmobile, sent a questionnaire to every person who had bought a used car from them during the first seven months of this year.

The purpose of the inquiry was to find out the newspaper reading habits of the people who actually bought used cars from this company.

"66% of our customers said that when buying a used car they would consult the Chicago Tribune advertising section first."

The Tribune Want Ad Section reaches nearly twice as many actual used car prospects for the Gambill Motor Co. as all other Chicago papers combined.

Other surveys made among the customers of other automobile dealers all have shown this high preference for the Tribune. It was the same among the customers of a dealer who sold used cars averaging $175. It was the same among the customers of a dealer who sold cars in one of the highest price ranges.

The quickest, most economical way to reach used car buyers in Chicago and suburbs is through the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section. Whether you have a single car to sell or hundreds of cars, you'll find by far the greatest number of prospects among the readers of the Chicago Tribune. This is not only because of its dominance in circulation and volume of advertising carried. It is also because of the confidence with which used car prospects regard the offerings which the Tribune accepts for its used car columns.

CITY RESUMES SMOKE WAR AS WINTER NEARS

Chambers Promises Strict Enforcement of Law.

Strict enforcement of the city's anti-smoke ordinance during the coming winter was promised yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector. Chambers said there can be no excuse for smoke-belching chimneys because there has been opportunity since the heating plants were shut down in the spring to replace obsolete equipment and obtain smokeless coal.

Smoke, according to the inspector, is the result of incomplete combustion, due to improper equipment, improper fuel or careless operation. Every stack that throws out clouds of smoke and soot to besmirch the neighborhood indicates incompetence on the part of the fireman below, Chambers said.

Recites Evils of Smoke.

"Smoke has no defense," he asserted. "It represents a yearly tax of nearly $15 per capita through increased laundry and cleaning bills, waste of fuel, damage to buildings, and ruined decorations, to say nothing of its injurious effects on health and the loss of time and money resulting from the disease and sickness it causes.

"Intelligent, careful firing, selection of the proper fuel, and attention to the conditions of the heating equipment will go a long way to minimize the evil. Boilers should be cleaned and repaired, soot and dirt accumulations should be removed from the chimneys, and everything made clean and tight so that the proper draft will be obtained."

Tells How to Reduce Smoke.

Measures to be taken now to reduce smoke and soot and to increase the heating efficiency of furnaces, as outlined by Mr. Chambers, are:

1. See that the ashpit, grates, tubes and all gas passages, including the smoke pipe connecting the boiler and chimney, are clean. A clean boiler takes less coal and steams faster.

2. Clean out the chimney. This will improve the draft as well as prevent smoke from backing out of the boiler into the basement.

3. Examine the smoke pipe or breeching thoroughly for leaks, and if it is rusted badly or leaking, repair it or replace it with a new part. Defective flues often cause fire.

4. Examine the grates and see if any sections are burned out. See that the grates shake properly and return to a level position. Burned out grates cause holes in the fire, resulting in loss of heat and fuel.

Adjust Damper Properly.

5. Adjust the damper so that it opens full and closes properly.

6. Fill all cracks with fireproof or stove putty to prevent air leakage. Air leakage causes the fire to draw poorly and increases fuel consumption.

In many cases the selection of the proper kind of fuel will save money and will help to minimize smoke, Chambers said. Smokeless fuel for small furnaces can be had at reasonable cost, he said.

Chambers already has eight men out early in the mornings to detect janitors who build poor fires. These janitors are given lessons in stoking by the department's experts. Then if their fires fail to show improvement the janitors are taken to court.

The force of inspectors has been reduced by 21 since 1929, but an effort will be made, Chambers said, to cover the whole city.

SPIRIT GANG SLAYER SUSPECT AWAY.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Police officials of Houston, Tex., who late yesterday identified William Scrivenor as a man wanted in the Texas city for questioning in connection with a series of gang murders, made preparations today to leave the city secretly with their prisoner.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Safe Hideout

FRANK H. SCOTT, ATTORNEY FOR 53 YEARS, IS DEAD

Counsel in Many Noted Trials.

Frank Hamline Scott, a member of the Chicago bar for 53 years, active in civic affairs, died last night of pneumonia in Passavant hospital. He first became ill a week ago when he contracted a heavy cold.

FRANK H. SCOTT.

Mr. Scott was 74 years old and was born in Tipton, Ia. He was graduated from Northwestern university in 1876 and two years later, following his graduation from the Union College of Law, was admitted to the bar.

With his partner, the late John H. Hamline, he was active in the fight on the "grey wolves" of the city council in the early years of the century, and was one of the organizers of the Municipal Voters league and the City club, of which he was president in 1903-'04. He was also a past president of the Union League club.

Counsel in Famous Trials.

He appeared as counsel in many famous trials, including the International Harvester anti-trust cases and the Leiter case, in which he was chief counsel for Lady Margaret Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, in her attempt to oust Joseph Leiter as a trustee of the $30,000,000 estate of their father, the late Levi Z. Leiter.

Mr. Scott was a law partner of Edgar A. Bancroft, who died in 1925 while serving as American ambassador to Japan. In recent years he had been the senior partner of Scott, MacLeish & Falk.

Mr. Scott was a member of the Chicago, Illinois and American Bar associations, the Chicago Historical society, and the Chicago, Union League, Chicago Literary, University, Onwentsia, City, Law, and Wayfarers clubs.

POLICE PAIR FACE COURT TODAY FOR ASSAULT CHARGE

Police Chief Otto Miller and Patrolman Martin Wagner of Willow Springs will appear today before Police Magistrate Martin McGrath in Oak Park, charged with beating four prisoners whom they had arrested Sept. 27 following an automobile accident.

They are charged with assault and battery and assault to commit murder and an additional charge of extortion is pending against Wagner, who is alleged to have demanded $100 as the price of the release of the four prisoners.

The complainants are Otto Reinmuth, owner of a trucking service at 4915 South Campbell avenue; Frank McDougall, 2602 West 61st street; Walter Barnasek, 4922 South Campbell avenue; and Frank Sklenar, 5210 South Campbell avenue.

The policemen charge that they are victims of a frameup, engineered by persons whom they refused to name, to oust them from their police jobs. Assistant State's Attorney Edwin D. Markham said that their charges would be investigated, but that prosecution of the charges against the two policemen would go ahead.

ASA KEYES QUITS PRISON TODAY; OVERCOMES HATE

San Quentin Prison, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles county district attorney, after nineteen months incarceration, leaves state's prison here tomorrow morning on parole.

Keyes had a generous smile and a joyous word for every one he encountered today. The hours were few until he would hear the gate click behind him and, as he terms it, "Get back to home and family and start living as I want to."

Because of the many prisoners he had sent to San Quentin Keyes entered the prison nineteen months ago as the most hated prisoner.

He leaves tomorrow with the good will and respect of his fellow inmates, prison officials say. He has given generously of his legal knowledge to other prisoners and otherwise made himself liked.

Killed by "L" Train on His Way to Work in Loop

Thomas F. Maloney, 30 years old, 143 North Laramie avenue, an elevator operator at the Stevens hotel, was killed early this morning by an elevated train on the Oak Park line just west of the Laramie station. The line leaves the elevated structure at Laramie avenue and comes down to the ground. Maloney, who was on his way to work, was on the incline when he was struck, and police are mystified over his presence there.

School Engineer Ends Life by Gas in Evanston Home

John Hill, 35 years old, 1005 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston, ended his life by gas last night in the kitchen of his home. He was taken to St. Francis hospital and placed in the artificial respirator in an effort to revive him. He was pronounced dead shortly afterward, however. Police found two notes in his room addressed to Mrs. Luella Cullens. They were not opened. Hill was an engineer at the Evanston Township High school.

FOUND DEAD IN BARK.

The body of a man about 60 years old was found on a bench in Jackson park, near 63d street, yesterday morning. The death of the man, in whose pockets were found papers indicating he was Frank Marshall, apparently was caused by heart disease.

F. H. REVELL, 82, PUBLISHER, DIES IN NEW YORK

Begins Business in Chicago in 1869.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Fleming H. Revell, founder and chairman of the board of the publishing house that bears his name, died this afternoon in St. John's hospital, Yonkers, in his 82d year. Eight days ago he suffered injuries from a fall at his home in Fieldson, Riverdale-on-Hudson, which necessitated his removal to the hospital, where it was found that he had fractured his pelvis. Complications set in which, owing to his advanced age, ended fatally.

Born in Chicago in 1849.

Mr. Revell was born in Chicago on Dec. 11, 1849. He entered the publishing business on his own account in 1869 by renting a small office in Arcade court, Chicago, and issuing a religious monthly, Everybody's Paper. In 1871 came the great Chicago fire, in which everything associated with the youthful publisher's venture was destroyed. Mr. Revell started again, and to Everybody's Paper added Words of Life, Temperance Tales, and the Sunday School Lesson Illustrator.

After a year or so Mr. Revell determined to devote himself to book publication. The first volume to bear his imprint was "Grace and Truth," by W. P. Mackay. It still is listed in the Revell company's catalog, and after sixty years, still sells. As the years passed the Revell business grew into one of the largest and best known agencies for the publication and distribution of evangelical literature on the American continent.

Opens Branch Office.

In 1887 Mr. Revell opened a branch office in this city in the old building of the American Tract society on Nassau street. The next year he removed to Bible house, Astor place, then to Union square [112 5th avenue], and in 1899 to 158 5th avenue, the present location.

Early in this period Mr. Revell made New York the headquarters of the company, with branches in Chicago, Toronto, London, and Edinburgh. In 1929 he retired from the active presidency after a period covering more than 60 years, but retained the chairmanship of the board. His son now is president.

GASOLINE ALLEY—ON YOUR WAY, EMIL!

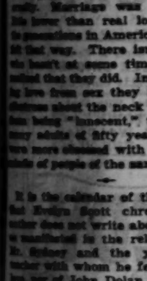
Sense of Sin Called Burden of Americans

Two Volume Novel Tells of Struggles.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A Calendar of Sin," by Evelyn Scott. [Cape-Smith.]

ONE of the most impressive novels ever published in America, if its length is any criterion, is Evelyn Scott's "A Calendar of Sin." It is almost a perpetual calendar. It is published in two volumes of almost seven hundred pages each. I feel at this moment—just as I have finished page 693 of the second volume—as if I had been reading "A Calendar of Sin" ever since I was a young girl bounding with youth and at the moment deafness and rheumatism in the joints seem practically settled in the people of my soul."



EVELYN SCOTT.

I have often heard young married women say they find it difficult to believe even over was a time when they weren't married. That's a little as I feel about "A Calendar of Sin." I find it difficult to remember a time when I wasn't reading that book.

But that Evelyn Scott has not done a good job of "The Calendar of Sin," no one who hasn't made an impression picture of the varied ramifications of an American family from 1914 to 1924. Not that her technique is not interesting—she sets down the happenings of each day, the story of that one day's events in their relation to what has gone before.

Naturally, she does not chronicle every day of these hundreds that elapse from the beginning to the end of the record. She chooses only significant ones in the lives of the characters whom she depicts. Sometimes they are significant in the history of the country, but the book is in no sense an historical novel. It is the record of the havoc of love in a time and place and among people to whom love was "sin."

Boredom in marriage was, to many of our puritanical forbears, the decoction of the carnal influence of the evil. Families grew, populations spread, however.

The bearing of children was a horror often cherished by the wife as a weapon to prove her husband's virility. Marriage was something a little lower than real love. Most of the generations in America before ours felt that way. There isn't one of us who hasn't at some time or another realized that they did. Instead of freeing love from sex they made sex an albatross about the neck of love. Far from being "innocent," the minds of many adults of fifty years or so ago were more obsessed with sex than the minds of people of the same age today.

It is the calendar of that obsession that Evelyn Scott chronicles. The author does not write about sex itself, but manifested in the relationships of Mr. Sydney and the young school teacher with whom he fell abjectly in love, nor of John Dolan who married the daughter of Mr. Sydney after her father had run away with the terrified school teacher, nor of James Dolan who killed the girl he had loved, nor of Irene Josephine whose brother-in-law couldn't keep his hands off of her and is the father of a large family, nor of the countless scandals of the people of a small southern town.

It is his physical manifestations, and no other mentions, except to record the fact that there has been a kiss or a murder or a madness. Sex, however, or an obsession of our forbears as described in detail, the effect of that obsession upon the human mind of this generation. The "Sin" of which she makes a calendar is more often found in marriage than outside it. When you finish the book you have an overpowering sense of the cruelties of one woman's inhumanity to man, no less than man's inhumanity to woman, not so long about, but that cruelty is not a physical one in the author's text. It is a mental agony caused more by mistaken idealists about love and sex than by anything else.

Love and marriage are inevitable. They always have been, just as love and mating without marriage always has been.

In some periods of history and in some countries there has been no concern of the issues of sex in or out of marriage.

Evelyn Scott has chosen a time when the confusion was most confused for her "calendar" and she has painstakingly written a powerful novel about that confusion.

Earnest readers will look in vain in "A Calendar of Sin" for anything to confirm their fancies. It is a solemn document of a period, nothing less. And it is a trifle too solemn, that it might have been just as serious an indictment if it had been relieved by a touch of humor or been condensed into smaller scope is this reader's just as solemn belief.

Laugh Best, First and Last, at "Pardon Us"

Quiet Humor Turns Critic to Admirer.

"PARDON US."

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Life is full of surprises!

Laurel and Hardy were anathema to me until I saw "Pardon Us." Now I like 'em. You see, you never can tell. [So keep right on reading this column, no matter how tired it makes you, for, who knows, tomorrow you may love it.] Optimist.

"Pardon Us" is this comedy team's first feature length effort and it bids fair to go over big, judging from the crowds and laughter yesterday at the Roosevelt.

The story starts with corpulent, good natured, hard thinking Hardy and small, timid, rabbit eyed Laurel planning to become beer barons in a small way. They make the small mistake of selling a bottle of their brew to a policeman.

Jail gates yawn, and a state institution swallows the byes up, but not for long. They escape to some cotton fields where they don blackface and Mr. Hardy sings—mellifluously. I never knew he could sing, did you? They make friends with the pursuing bloodhounds which remain with them on the old plantation and raise families.

Then, one fatal day, the warden's car gets stuck in the road near where Stan and Oliver are picking cotton. While assisting this gentleman to get started—they hope with haste, though he doesn't recognize them—Laurel's buzzing tooth loses its deadening wad of gum and sstzstts!

Fadeout. Then, lo, when we meet the pals again they're back doing time.

By accident they prevent a wholesale jail break and—but who am I to spill beans this Monday morning?

"Pardon Us" is clean as a whistle and quietly, rather than uproariously, funny.

You would care for a sample of the dialogue? Here, then:

Jail Teacher: "What is a comet?"

J. T.: "Name one!"

L. U. C.: "Rin Tin Tin."

The picture is excellently directed and surprises you with several songs beautifully sung. One, as mentioned, is rendered by Hardy, the others by a band of cotton pickers and a jail chorus.

The headliners both give humorously restrained performances. They, et al, were handing out laughs to Roosevelt audiences yesterday at the rate of a laugh a minute.

[I didn't laugh that often, though.]

Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Ernest Haller.
Presented at the Chicago theater.
THE CAST.

"If it could be filmed, RIGHT," everybody said of Louis Bromfield's novel, "'Twenty-four Hours' would make a wonderful picture!"

Two potent words, those "filmed right"! To my way of thinking, "Twenty-four Hours" hasn't been.

Salient parts of the original story have been omitted. Other portions—for no good reason at all that I could see—have been changed. And with the exception of Miriam Hopkins and one or two players in minor rôles, I think everybody has been miscast. Regis Toomey as an Italian gangster! The idea! And him with the map of Ireland written all over his face!

"Twenty-four Hours" as it stands is a fairly interesting melodrama of New York's upper and lower crusts. A wearisome dinner party is just about over when the picture opens. Shortly after you discover that the Towners are unhappily married, and each engaging in an illicit love affair on the side. The half-mad gangster husband of Towner's Rosie wreaks havoc. A couple of murders bring death and police in their train. After the smoke has cleared away—well, see the picture.

See you tomorrow.

Women's Athletic Club.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club announces its 5th anniversary dinner and dance on Saturday evening, Oct. 24.

THE STAGE

NIKITA BALIEFF, famous as master of ceremonies of the "Chauve-Souris" Russian entertainments, has arrived in New York with plans for a new show. Under the management of Morris Gest he will stage a triple bill consisting of Pushkin's "The Queen of Spades," a Mozart ballet, and "1880," an operetta by Offenbach and Lecocq.

"The Queen of Spades" cast will be headed by George Hayes, who was one of the leading men of the Stratford-upon-Avon Shakespeare company during its last two American tours. Hamlet and Brutus were among his rôles. The Mozart ballet will employ two Russian dancers of the new generation—M. Romanoff and Mlle. Ryaboushinskaya. Mr. Balieff predicts that the latter will become a "second Pavlowa."

Under the caption, "Is There No Pity?" Percy Hammond pens this picture of Mae West, now acting "The Constant Sinner," in the New York Herald Tribune:

"She is a large, soft, flabby, and billowing superblond who talks through her nostrils and whose laborious ambulations suggest that she has sore feet. She is so different from anything you have seen outside of a zoo that when her various heroes ply her with jewels and admiration you suspect that they should be feeding her peanuts."

Having launched the dramatization of "The Good Companions" as a New York success, Julian Wylie, the play's producer, has returned to London to make plans for the staging of J. B. Priestley's other novel, "Angel Pavement." Edward Knoblock will again advise the author in the technique of play making. The story has already been mapped out into a scenario of ten scenes, with 35 characters. Mr. Wylie thinks he can get "Angel Pavement" into rehearsal by Dec. 1.

"Brief Moment," the play by S. N. Behrman which Guthrie McClintic [Katharine Cornell's husband] is producing, has been added to the list of works to be offered to the subscription audiences on the Dramatic League's circuit. Francine Larrimore will be its star, and Robert Douglas, an English actor, will be her leading man.

Lee Shubert, head of the theatrical firm that bears his name, calls attention to the fact that box office prices are returning to the scale that was prevalent in 1915. For the musical show called "Everybody's Welcome," which will have a Broadway premiere tonight, the top price will be $3.

"During the last fifteen years," says Mr. Shubert, "box office scales rose constantly until musical comedy prices from $5 to $7 were not uncommon. But now we must face the change in economic conditions. However, it will not be possible to offer large musical productions at the $3 scale in theaters with capacities less than 1,000."

Whitford Kane, formerly of the Goodman repertory company and now associated with the Chicago Civic Shakespeare organization, has just published his memoirs in the form of a book called "Are We All Met?" The work, which covers twenty-five years of the repertory theater movement in England and the United States, bears a preface by St. John Ervine. Elkin, Mathews & Marrot of London are the publishers. Palos Shrinks Since the Day of Columbus

How It Looks Now; New Voyage.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Nearly four and a half centuries ago three small caravels, commanded by Christopher Columbus, spread their sails and glided slowly down the Rio Tinto, off Palos, Spain, to the unknown Atlantic. Seven months later two of the caravels returned to Palos with news of a great discovery that eventually carried the name of this tiny fishing port in southwestern Spain to every part of the civilized world.

Next February a duplicate of the Santa Maria, the flagship of Columbus which did not return, will sail for America from Palos under the command of a crew of adventurous Spanish youths, who plan to bring their fragile 220 ton ship across the Atlantic and then through the great lakes to Chicago for the 1933 exposition.

"Palos, the point of embarkation of Columbus and those who follow in his footsteps, is an insignificant little village today, with hardly anything to remind it of its illustrious past," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"If the modern Santa Maria wishes literally to reënact the famous sailing of Aug. 3, 1492, it will have to wait until the tide is at its height, because the old roadstead has long since silted up, and shipping which once piled between Palos and other ports of Europe now anchors off Huelva, on the nearby Odiel river.

"When the wealth of the new world was realized, Seville was given the monopoly of trade with America, and then San Lucar, its nearest port to the sea, came into its own. Columbus put off from San Lucar on his third voyage.

"Palos de Moguer, or Palos de la Frontera, to call it by its two imposing Spanish names, had another big moment when Cortes chose it as a landing place in 1528 after his conquest of Mexico. Wagons loaded with loot of the empire of the Aztecs rumbled through its narrow streets, and dashing caballeros on beplumed horses awed the loiterers of the waterfronts. But again other Spanish ports superseded it, and Palos continued a humdrum rôle as a fishing village.

"In 1929 Palos came momentarily into the day's news when a colossal stone statue of Columbus, designed by an American, was dedicated on the exact spot where Columbus is said to have set sail for America."

Knights of Columbus Start Celebration of America Discovery

Celebration of the 479th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus was started last night, when several thousand Knights of Columbus heard an address by Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight of the order, at the Southmoor hotel. The business session of the evening was devoted to consideration of relief plans for the coming winter.

Speaker David E. Shanahan of the state house of representatives will speak this evening before Lafayette council of the Knights of Columbus, at 4300 West North avenue, and the University council of the order also will observe the holiday tonight in the auditorium at 1554 Devon avenue. Several thousand members of various Italian societies will gather at the Palmer house tonight for a Columbus day celebration arranged by the Justinian Society of Advocates.

Public schools, banks, and public offices will be closed today throughout the Chicago area.

In connection with the celebration, Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology of the Field museum, who has recently made a study of Columbian traditions, said that the discoverer never realized the true import of his voyages. Columbus died, he said, still believing that he had found a new route to Asia.

Sunday Evening Club Holds Its Chicago Night Services

The Chicago Sunday Evening club celebrated "Chicago night" at Orchestra hall last night. United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis gave the principal address. Another feature of the evening was the singing of the Chicago hymn, "Hail, Chicago," by the audience led by Angus S. Hibbard, presida.

NEW SINGER

[As "Queen of the Night."]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Herbert Witherspoon, Chicago Civic opera's artistic director, recently obtained a Scottish girl who had been making a big hit in the current international season of opera at Covent Garden, London, in the season opening Nov. 2, Noël Eadie will make her debut in Chicago. She sang, as Queen of the Night, in the very first operatic broadcast from Europe to America, when Mozart's opera, "The Magic Flute" was relayed over the Columbia network last May.

She, a "brilliant coloratura," has appeared as Rosina in "The Barber of Seville," Liu in "Turnadot," and Mimi in "La Boheme."

Lapp, Catholic layman and sociologist, former head of the national Catholic welfare council, will tell "Why I Am a Catholic."

The Protestant faith will be represented by Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago chapel and Solomon Goldman, spiritual leader of Anshe Emet congregation, Pine Grove and Grace street, will speak on "Why I Am a Jew."

How Farmers Add to Profit Despite Slump

Dairymen Keep Record of Each Cow.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A group of dairy farmers in Boone county, Ill., who had been carrying a heavy investment in land, buildings, equipment, and live stock decided a few years ago that they ought to know more about their costs of doing business.

They hired a young man as bookkeeper for their herds, sharing the cost of his services. He became known as the cow tester of the Boone County Cow Testing association. The results obtained in reducing costs of production in eight years have been so striking that another association of similar character was started a year ago, and now a third group is taking on this form of joint bookkeeping.

Fred J. Miller, Marengo farmer, gave an example of efficiencies in his herd made possible through proper records. In September the average profit over feed costs of 20 cows showed an increase of $13.72, as compared with the average profit of 25 cows for September, 1930. This was accomplished in the face of a reduction of 59 cents per hundred pounds in prices he received for milk.

Miller's 25 cows produced an average of 665 pounds of milk and 21.6 pounds of butterfat for September, 1930. He sold eleven of the poorer producers, acting on the findings of the bookkeeper. He bought two cows during the summer and these, with four heifers he had raised, increased the herd to twenty. This September they averaged 1,059 pounds of milk and 37.3 pounds of fat.

Ernie Ellingson, Poplar Grove dairyman, was another of this group to produce figures as proof that dairymen can keep on the right side of the ledger even in these times by better management. His feed costs dropped one-fifth this year from those of 1930. His herd is producing more milk, and, what is most important, the butterfat content has been increased appreciably.

Last year his herd produced 10,879 pounds of milk per cow, testing 370.6 pounds of fat. This year they produced 12,054 pounds of milk per cow, with 436.1 pounds of butterfat. He sold the unprofitable cows and replaced them from calves his pure bred bull had sired to make possible this increase of 65.5 pounds of fat per cow.

These dairymen find that feed constitutes about half the total cost of producing milk. Last year feed cost $1 per hundred pounds of milk and this year but 80 cents. Even with lower milk and butter prices this year, the Ellingson herd increased its profit making power.

"The man who wants to make it easier to show a profit on his own dairy farm and harder for the thousands of farmers who competa against him for the demand for dairy products will find this type of cow testing association the answer," declares Ed Foley, farm adviser of Boone county. "As a small group we may not be able to boost prices, but we can make some big gains by reducing production costs."

Detailed records of incomes and expenses, including all overhead costs, show that a few farmers in Boone county have made 11 to 13 per cent on their investment for 1930. Indications are that this will not be much reduced for 1931.

Lorraine Jennings, 19 years old, of Elwood, Ill., farm girl, who is seeking the national milking championship, left the municipal airport yesterday afternoon for St. Louis, where she will compete. The contest to determine the cow milking champion will be held under the auspices of the National Dairy exposition there. The present titleholder is Dorothy Wilhelm of Connersville, Ind.

Ballington Booth Speaks at the Moody Church

Gen. Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, spoke last night at the Moody church at North Clark street and North avenue. It will be his only public appearance in Chicago during his present visit. The founder head of the Volunteers reached the city on Saturday for a four day stay, and is attending the annual council of directors of his organization at the Stevens hotel. Plans are being perfected there for the winter's campaign throughout the country on behalf of the needy.

Open National Safety Meet in Chicago Today

Seven Thousand Experts Will Attend.

Seven thousand safety experts are to attend the twentieth annual congress and exposition of the national safety council, which will begin in the Stevens hotel today and continue through Friday.

They are to discuss in dozens of groups and general sessions the possibilities of reducing the accident toll of 99,000 lives recorded in the United States last year. Mayor Cermak is to deliver an address of welcome this morning. Other speakers of the morning will include C. W. Bergquist, president of the council; Samuel Insull Jr., and H. B. Walker, president of the American Steamship Owners' association.

The mayor has issued a proclamation to Chicagoans urging that they prove to the safety experts of America that Chicago can, for the time they are in the city, at least, materially reduce the accident toll.

Attention will center on the risks of modern street and highway traffic. It is a comparatively new hazard, the outgrowth of the automobile, and the experts, with their many theories for reducing the toll, concede there is much still to be learned about the causes and the prevention of these fatal accidents. In 1930 there were 32,000 persons killed by motor cars in the United States, and in 1931, judging from quarterly reports, the total will reach 35,000.

Other accidents also will be analyzed, including the annual toll of 30,000 due to accidents in homes. This is over 40 per cent more than the combined total of fatalities in manufacturing plants, mines, airplanes, railroad trains, and in agriculture and public utilities.

On the program are 350 speakers and 127 specialized sessions.

Police Chief August Vollmer of Berkeley, Cal., who opened the Northwestern university police school, is chairman of the street and highway traffic section of the safety congress. Under his chairmanship there will be a discussion of the proposed drivers' license, which has twice been defeated by the Illinois legislature.

State Highway Engineer Sheets is on the program for a report on the use of accident records in the reduction of physical hazards on country roads.

Dr. Miller McClintock, head of the Erskine bureau of traffic research at Harvard university, is also to speak. He was retained a few months ago by the city council to survey Chicago's traffic needs. A few years ago he surveyed Chicago traffic on a commission from the Association of Commerce.

Music Critic Gives Piano Recital, and Other Sunday Events

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Three pianists, a soprano, and a benefit event calling for orchestra, male chorus, and two soloists put the 1931-'32 concert season officially on the map yesterday afternoon.

Of the pianists the name of Glenn Dillard Gunn stands first. It was perhaps only a byproduct of his appearance, but Mr. Gunn managed to remove quite a bit of the oldest joke on earth about music critics. He is a critic who is decidedly able to do other things in music than talk about it. He has listened much, studied much, and thought with care about what he has heard and studied. The result is that music comes from under his fingers with mellow, ripened, sympathetic understanding, the sort of playing wherein the personality of the performer is put at the service of the personality of the composer, but ever dominating the music.

A Busoni Choral preludes; the Franck-Bauer Prelude, Fugue, and Variation, and the Chopin Sonata in B Flat Minor were his principal numbers, followed by works of lesser length by Brahms, Szymanowski, Debussy, and Liszt. As a matter of technical playing it was undoubtedly the high spot of his Chicago career.

Next door at the Playhouse Jeannette Albert, said to be 12 years old, was beginning her pianistic career. Mozart, Chopin, Brahms, and Liszt made up her program. She has uncommon facility, even in an age when extraordinary children abound, and apparently her interpretative ideas have been led along the proper channel.

Marc D'Albert, Negro pianist, was the third of the keyboard recitalists, appearing at Kimball hall. In a program confined to Bach and Chopin he displayed an agreeable touch and fairly well developed technique, though hampered in his effects by a memory that occasionally played him false.

Berenice Taylor, soprano, gave a program at the Civic theater that included about the whole course of vocal music from Handel and Caccini to Ravel and Stravinsky. She has a first class voice, clear and easy, and would seem to have pursued her studies on her songs with painstaking care.

The charity concert was given by the Saengerbund Freiheit, Karl Recksch, conductor, at Orchestra hall, with the assistance of Lucia Altoonjian, soprano; Alfred Miltenberg, pianist, and thirty-five members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. It was for the benefit of the Recreation and Old Peoples' home at Genoa City, Wis.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item yesterday it was said that former Chief of Police Thomas Bartunek of Berwyn was demoted to patrolman by the fire and police committee of the Berwyn city council after being accused of beating a citizen he had arrested for a traffic violation. Ald. Joseph Blaha, chairman of the fire and police committee, said the demotion was by order of the civil service commission. "Our committee has not approved the evidence presented by the Chicago Motor club," he said.

Armor of Bone Hints Eskimos' 'Golden Age'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—An ancient piece of armor, worn by a northland warrior perhaps as much as a thousand years ago, is the latest clew to the mystery of the Eskimos' origin.

Discovery of a breastplate made of whalebone strong enough to ward off primitive arrows and spears has been reported by Moreau B. Chambers, representative of the Smithsonian Institution. He found the armor, with many other relics of the long vanished "golden age" of Eskimo history, while excavating prehistoric village sites on St. Lawrence island in the Bering sea this summer.

Beautifully carved ornaments, weapons and tools, found on the older village sites, provide additional evidence that the Eskimos originated in Asia, says Henry B. Collins Jr., Smithsonian archaeologist.

-o-

The Eskimos are known to have come to America long after the original ancestors of the Indians crossed from Asia, probably by way of Bering strait, Collins explained. Where they originated, why they stayed in the inhospitable north, why the beautiful art of their prehistoric "golden age" degenerated much as did that of the ancient Greeks, are mysteries scientists are seeking to solve.

Five village sites on St. Lawrence island, dating back to the oldest known Eskimo culture of from two to three thousand years ago, furnish a complete cross section of Eskimo history covering that period of time. They are considered as valuable to students of Eskimo history as Pompeii to students of ancient Rome. Eskimos lived there for centuries because walrus, seal, and whale were plentiful.

Cars Are Quite as Popular as a Ring with Modern Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Do you remember Brown Eyes' perplexity about whether she should accept an automobile instead of an engagement ring? I asked at the time what you readers would do? Which would you accept?

Your response shows that half of you are for the car, half for the ring, with some suggesting that the ideal arrangement would be to have both. But the practical sisters who'd like the car look into its upkeep and argue that a ring requires no garage rent, no accident insurance, no upkeep.

-o-

Other practical sisters see the ring as a panacea for a financial bad day. It could be hocked in an emergency. After two or three years all you can raise on a car is doubt about its worth.

One girl says: "A ring can always be kept—a tender, lasting remembrance. What can take its place with a girl in love with her man?"

Blanche says: "You'd be in rather an awkward position if you were to break your engagement. Think of your embarrassment returning a much used car. It's a lot more convenient to return a ring."

Against the car argues another sister: "Perhaps some day you'd like to take in the car friends that your fiance disliked. He'd probably say he gave you the car and doesn't want those people in it. The car wouldn't be mine. It would be 'ours.'"

-o-

Helen holds out for the car. In fact, she has hers, and the fun of it, she finds, is that she and the donor have the best of times in it. Without it there'd be no place to go. They wouldn't get out to the golf course the way they do now.

"One," she says, "can always have the ring later if one feels it is necessary. But there are things for the house I'd just as soon have as a ring. If a young man on his salary can't give you everything, then you have to use your head and get the thing that is going to give the most pleasure to both."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Living in Hopes.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love will not notice me, but I am hoping she will speak to me soon. JOHN."

It seems useless to hope she will change when she has treated you with so little consideration.

Ready to Make Up.

"Dear Miss Blake: I quarreled with my girl and never called her up. Should I? HARRY."

Call her up. You may as well get your differences patched up at once.

Brown Can Bring Out Your Best or Your Worst Points

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As they say in the fashion columns —brown comes off with flying colors this season. Brown in every conceivable shade for morning, afternoon, and evening wear.

Now brown can be the sprightliest sort of color or it can be the dowdiest that ever a woman put on. Black has been accused of the same thing. But brown on the wrong woman can do worse things than black on the wrong woman.

-o-

Take the colorless skinned or worse, whose hair is either negative or a streaked brown and gray, adopt a brown costume with the type, and you succeed in bringing out the worst points the woman has. Her eyes are duller, her hair more drab and her cheeks, unless they're well lighted with the usual lighting cosmetic, faded. There are fall and winter shades of green that aren't so flattering, either. There's always the right woman for the shade—but she isn't every woman. Greens, even the worst shades of them, aren't quite so deadening and ageing as the wrong brown.

I can't tell you just what shade of brown you can wear, but if you have doubts, let some good, smart eyed friend advise.

This business of color is too much a feature of our everyday lives to slip up on a dress shade that one doesn't have to buy. Consider the pots and pans and the way they are glorified into an art circle all their own. Consider the curtains you can put to work to rejuvenate a dim kitchen nook. Then consider the mistress and what a chance she has with a color chart today. No restrictions so long as the shade is becoming. So long as it brings out the best points.

There are four things to tie to color from the pictorial viewpoint. Silhouette—a color which enlarges or minimizes; hair color that brightens or dulls; eyes, ditto, and skin reaction to this shade and that. Of course, as cosmetic aids stand now, the skin can be worked into color harmony. But the eyes and hair have to travel on their own.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

R. N.: OUTSTANDING EARS may be corrected by an operation. Though it is not an expensive operation, you better consult your physician as to the exact cost.

-o-

R. M.: THE DAILY APPLICATION of cream used for the general care of the hands will counteract the tendency to brittle nails.

MARCONI ASSERTS SECRET OF WORLD IS NEARLY SOLVED

ROME, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The great problem of "what the world is made of" seems about to be solved, Guglielmo Marconi said today in opening a meeting here of 50 world scientists.

The scientists, including seven Nobel prize winners, one of them Mme. Curie, gathered here to try to solve the mysteries of nuclei and electrons. The Americans attending are Robert A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, and Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

"Twenty-five centuries have passed since Thales, first scientist of ancient Greece, thought of the answer to the question—what is the world made of?" Senator Marconi said, "and only now in our days it seems that the great problem is about to be solved."

The inventor of wireless communication referred to the theory of Democritus that all matter consisted of atoms. He said that researches of modern scientists had shown that the atom consisted of nuclei and electrons and had given surprising and encouraging results.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Corbin and Don Phillippe de Rodriguez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, come to Ithaca for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the city and the hotels are overflowing. Phillippe grabs the first vacancy, Tom and Irma finally find a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party at the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Irma shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Irma's personality is of a different nature. Irma marvels with Phillippe and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. A baby soon appears to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's lifelong ambition to a European voyage. A paid up insurance policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly agrees to leave the baby.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

A MOTHER'S FEARS.

It was a Saturday afternoon and Wallace had taken Mildred down to the stores. Irma remained at home because the baby was learning to walk and it was more interesting to watch him gain confidence than it was to help Mildred select a hat. She never listened to one's suggestions anyhow.

It was a surprise to Irma to see the car roll home with Mildred at the wheel and Wallace beaming proudly at her. Irma knew nothing about the car, but she could see that Mildred swung it into the driveway and garage in a perfectly accomplished manner.

When they came in then, Mildred flushed with triumph and Wallace no less pleased than she.

"Did you see Mildred driving?" he asked Irma. "Like a veteran chauffeur. You could have knocked me over with a feather when she began. I watched her to hit everything in town, but she's all right."

"I just watched and listened to everything the chauffeur told and showed me," Mildred explained, "and then one day Jane asked me if I wanted to try. Of course I made plenty of mistakes at first, but I got all right pretty soon and I've been driving the Malcolms' little car ever since about three times a week. Of course the chauffeur is always along to teach Jane. She won't drive yet."

"Well, you sure can," Wallace said.

Mildred smiled her acceptance of his praise and flew upstairs to try on her new hat before her own mirror.

"You know," Wallace said, "her being able to drive comes in handy. I was wondering how they'd get things in a hurry while we were in Europe."

"The same way I get things in a hurry while you're at the office all day," Irma said. "Phone for them and wait till they come."

"I'm going to have Mildred take out a license," he said.

"She's all right. If I sign the blank she can get it."

"Look here, Wallace, you can get her that license if you're fool enough, but I want you to tell Mildred firmly that she must never drive the baby. I don't trust young girls driving cars."

"How can you imagine any one choosing to take the baby for a ride? There's no pleasant about taking an infant riding that I've got to forbid Mildred to do it?"

"Never mind being sarcastic, Wallace. He's not such a bad companion at that. I know girls seventeen who are dumber."

"No, I know one twenty-one who isn't any too bright."

"I don't mean Mildred."

"I don't mean you. Why are you so sore because Mildred can drive the car?"

"I'm not sore. I don't care if she can fly an aeroplane. I just don't want her to take my baby riding, that's all."

"Well, she won't. Don't worry."

In fact, Wallace made sure that Mildred wouldn't be threatening her for she would never so much as see a steering wheel again if she ever got the baby anywhere.

"You know, daughter, Irma is very funny," he said apologetically.

He was surprised by her answer. "I don't blame her, daddy. After all she only knows how I'd act in an emergency."

Whereupon Wallace told himself, were incomprehensible even if you aired them yourself.

It was a mystery to him why Irma had flatly refused to go to Europe, and then without being plagued or coaxed had changed her mind. She had surely in some unaccountable manner acquired good sense, he told himself. It did not occur to him that she was making a sacrifice. He was too gentle to permit a person to permit one to be made for him. He had seen her original leaving of the trip as a sacrifice to the baby, for he could imagine no one being consciously indifferent to the charms of ocean travel. Now she was being sensible. She had made up her mind that she was going to have that trip. Well, there was no question about it, the baby would be all right and Irma was perfectly justified in having a good time while she was young.

He would have been surprised to know how bad a time she was having. Each day brought sailing time closer, and by the end of July Irma could think of nothing but how glad she would be when the cursed trip was over.

"You'll have such a good time," Mildred said, "that you won't have time to miss him."

"It's not a matter of missing him," Irma answered witheringly. "I can stand being without him for six weeks. It's the idea of what can happen to him while I'm gone."

Mildred bent over the crib and rubbed noses with the baby. "Poor little button," she said, "his mommy's going away and he's going to be left all by his lonesome with no one but his sister and his aunt and a nasty old girl who has only eight years' experience with babies."

And the awful day grew closer. Both Wallace and Irma had many things to buy for the trip. He shopped with eagerness and interest. Her buying was sketchy and without system. It amused her to find the black dress which Bill Fitzroy had bought for her for the tango contest still fresh and crumpled. It went in the trunk.

At last the hot, golden day arrived. Nothing could be done now. It was too late. She had to go. The baby was in God's keeping.

The baby was asleep when she left. She kissed him and dropped hot tears on his smooth, bright cheeks. Everybody kissed everybody else. Wallace spoke loudly and excitedly. The taxi waited while Irma told Rose that she'd never be sorry if she did right by the baby now.

"Come on, Irma, we'll miss the train. So long, everybody. Be a good girl, Mildred. So long."

Irma looked back at the house as the taxi lurched toward the station. She hadn't said anything about keeping the baby away from the upstairs window, she remembered gloomily. A long, black funeral procession cut across their path at the next corner and delayed them for a time.

The New York papers, Irma observed an hour after the ship had sailed, reported the escape of several maniacs from an institution a few miles from Thrace. What did maniacs do when they escaped? Did they make for the closest town and did they then enter houses in search of food and clothing? Foolish notion that the Graham house would be the one they'd enter. Still if they did force their way into a house, why shouldn't it be hers rather than another? It gave Irma something to think about anyway. Self-preservation was the first law of nature. Aunt Tessie and Mildred and Rose would run screeching from the house if a wild eyed man suddenly appeared in the doorway. Perhaps he would be a homicidal maniac, too. Irma's lively imagination added further details to the picture with such a freely obliging result that Irma went to her first luncheon aboard with very little appetite.

The ship sailing confidently along on calm, blue waters was a delight to Wallace. He made many friends and indulged in deck tennis and bridge cheerfully. Irma found that a ship was a lovely place to be. She decided that her baby and Rose were in the adjoining cabin, so that she could fully enjoy herself.

London was a disappointment to both Wallace and Irma. There were high points for her here and there. The exquisite little figure of Peter Pan in Kensington Gardens which she stood vowing that when she stood there again her baby would be with her. The Cheshire Cheese where great men of whom Irma had never heard had dined three centuries before. But on the whole London was a disappointment and after a week they unregretfully crossed the Channel.

Irma was glad to go to Paris. She expected to find a letter there from Rose. It was two weeks now since she had had word of the baby and Irma's nerves were haunted with terrifying fears and hunches. Awful to lie in the dark listening to Wallace's heavy breathing, the ticking of the clock, and to remember a score of times that the ocean was big and wide and took over a week to cross.

The cleanliness and beauty of Paris appealed to Irma at once. It was a friendly city. When she left it she would be going home. Wallace had had more of Europe than a glimpse of London and a visit to Paris. He was quite contented here because Paris had railways that would take her to the Southbound boat. Besides at 11 Rue Scribe was the American Express, where there would be a letter from home.

But there was no letter. Irma could hardly believe the affable young man who said that he was sorry but that there was no letter. She turned away to hide the quick tears of disappointment from him, but it was not necessary. He never looked into the faces of people to whom he gave no letters.

Library Could Use Books.

"I am collecting books to be given to a public library in a small town of about a thousand inhabitants. The people of this community have no library facilities of any kind, and I thought possibly some of your readers might have old books they would be willing to contribute. D. L."

If your library shelves are becoming overcrowded, this would be an excellent way to dispose of the surplus volumes. It's a good cause and one which should be supported.

Lake Forest Children Plan to Give Show

BY THALIA.

SOME of the teachers and parents of children learning their three R's at the Lake Forest Day school are planning to present "The Emperor's New Clothes," adapted from one of Hans Christian Anderson's stories.

The play, which is in rehearsal now under the direction of a professional coach, is to be given on Friday evening, Nov. 13, and there's also to be a Saturday matinée the next day.

Mrs. Corson Ellis and Gilbert Rayner are to play the leading parts, and the other Lake Foresters in the cast are Miss Marousea Russell, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Lawrence Williams, Mr. Ellis, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., and Mrs. Ernest Kilroe.

Can't you imagine what a delightful audience the youngsters will make at the spectacle of their papas and mammas and educational mentors play-acting? They'll probably clap their small hands red, gleefully aware that their enthusiasm can't be tempered by a parental reprimand from the rostrum unless the whole drama is to be upset.

North Shore Circuit Theater to Give Play by Milne.

Mrs. Ellis and some of the others are busy with other amateur dramatic matters just at present, too. She is the Lake Forest chairman for the North Shore Circuit theater, which is to open its season on Nov. 15 with an A. A. Milne play, "The Fourth Wall," a most exciting English mystery drama. Her committee, which has already begun selling its quota of subscriptions [each north shore town assumes the responsibility for securing a certain number of subscribers], includes Mrs. Clymer S. Bowen, Miss Marousea Russell, Mrs. Richard Bentley, Mrs. Snelling Robinson, Mrs. Harold Ambler, Mrs. Morrow Krum, and Mrs. Ernest Kilroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III. are back from a two months' trip abroad. There they found time to motor through Normandy and Germany and attend the Scottish games at Inverness as guests the Hon. Theodore Nell. Mr. Lindsay went directly to this parents' farm at Wayne, Ill., after their arrival in New York last Monday, while Mrs. Lindsay stopped at Littleton, N. H., to pick up her small daughter, Dorothea, who spent the summer there with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Frederick Walsh.

Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr., who was in town from Wayne on Friday to meet her daughter-in-law, reported that most of the residents in that vicinity have been working for the recently restored Little Church by the Wayside. One of the benefit affairs for the cause was a unique Russian tea and a program given by Ruth Page and members of the Ravinia ballet last Thursday afternoon at Seven Roofs, Mme. Nicholi Remisoff's residence.

Junior League Officials Ask Friends to See Offices.

The officers and directors of the Junior league have issued invitations for a housewarming at their new offices at 619 Torth Michigan avenue tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Everybody who has seen the new quarters says they're perfectly darling, and everybody who hasn't is anxious to. The rooms are small and are done quite simply in informal modern drapes and furnishings.

The junior board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women will hold a meeting tomorrow morning at the residence of Mrs. William D. McIlvaine at 1100 Lake Shore drive.

Unless the committee member who sells you your ticket for the Kenwood Social Service club's benefit theater party for "The Third Little Show" next Monday swears that you can't hear or see very well, you have to take potluck as to where your seats will be. It's the best method the committee could think of for an impartial distribution of the choice seating locations. Seats, except in the "deaf, dumb, and blind" rows [which is what the specially reserved section has been dubbed by the board, each member of which is entitled to two seats in it], are drawn out of a box.

Some Random News About Some Chicagoans.

The fact is—the Daniel E. McCarthys Jr. came up from Evansville, Ind., for the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game at Soldiers' field Saturday . . . the Owen Barton Joneses are about to have an addition built on their Lake Forest house. . . . Mrs. James D. Cunningham and her sister, Miss Althea Brooks, are up at their summer place at Leland, Mich., for several weeks longer, and will only be back in Chicago for a week or so before they sail for Europe to spend the winter abroad. . . . Mrs. Lawrence Meeker has been laid up with arthritis, and there's a possibility that the Meekers may move to New York. . . . Mrs. Elizabeth O'Connor isn't going to return to Chicago as she planned to when she went east in June, and when last heard from she intended to stay in New York. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed returned on Friday from their European trip. Mr. Goodspeed's mother, Mrs. Wilbur F. Goodspeed, has joined them for a few days in Paris, and is remaining in Europe for several weeks more.

Miss Helen Drake has been making a visit in the Berkshires, and Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs gave a luncheon for her at the Pittsfield Country club on Tuesday afternoon, the guests afterward going to a meeting of the Richmond Garden club at the residence of Mrs. Charles H. Wright in Pittsfield.

Miss Dorothy Dewes, Mrs. Bruce Thorne, Miss Margaret Emily Lynde of Winnetka, Miss Martha Fitts, Miss Elinor Durbin, and Miss Jeanette Peterkin are to usher at the first of the Town hall series of programs at the Palmer house on Saturday morning, at which time Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale is to speak on "Some Contemporary Books."

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL J. POTTER

PROPAGATING WATER LILIES.

Water lilies have become of increasing importance in the last two seasons as gardeners of Chicagoland have continued to construct pools in their yards. As a result, information has been compiled on a system of propagating other than the natural division of the tubers.

Varieties known as Nymphaea August Koch, Woodrow Wilson, and Panama Pacific can be started at this time of the year by taking a portion of the vegetative growth that appears in the center of the leaves at the top of the petioles. The leaves should be removed, the small plantlike growth taken, and this potted in 3½ inch pots. The potted plants should then be submerged in tanks, so that their tops are about an inch below the water.

This practice has been used successfully in increasing the large number of lilies displayed annually at Garfield park. When the new plantings become well rooted the plants may be shifted to 4½ inch pots, from which they are transplanted to the pool next May or early June.

Another method is to remove the small tubers that are found at the base of the central root, potting these small divisions in sand. After potting they are placed on a table in a light cellar and kept there until March or early February, when they are repotted in good soil and plunged just below the surface of water in a tank. Shifting later into larger pots will permit stronger growth to be made for spring planting.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S DRESS.

Woolen frocks are worn by small girls as well as by their elders, and this one is unusually pretty. It is made of green, plaided in a darker shade. The collar and cuffs are of piqué and are detachable. The bow is of grosgrain ribbon and the patent leather belt in green, matching the dress. There are a two piece circular skirt and a two piece bodice—the latter closed at the sides and shoulders. The bodice is cut from the neckline at the center front and finished for closing.

The pattern, 2807, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 32 inch contrasting and 1 yard of ribbon.

Mrs. B. Eichler writes: "Will you kindly inform me as to how I may preserve plums, and how can ripe tomatoes be saved for winter time?"

One of the easiest ways to can plums is to clean them, pack in a jar, and pour a hot sugar sirup over them. Place the jars in a water bath and process the plums fifteen minutes. Remove promptly at the end of the processing, and seal the jars immediately air-tight.

Make the sugar sirup with a ratio of three cups of sugar for every four cups of water. Dissolve the sugar in the water over a low flame, stirring constantly. Prick each plum with a pin or needle before packing in the jars. It will prevent the skins from bursting in the canning.

Tomatoes may be canned whole, cut in pieces, or in a more concentrated form to which onion and peppers have been added. The last makes an excellent puree. Use either the method of processing in a boiling water bath [which takes 45 minutes for glass jars] or the method of oven canning [which takes one hour for quart jars and forty minutes for pint jars].

Prepare the tomatoes as follows: Scald and peel medium sized ripe tomatoes. Pack whole or cut in pieces. Cover with a h tomato sauce which has been made from cooked broken tomatoes. Season with half a teaspoon of salt and half a teaspoon of sugar [this last may be omitted, if you prefer to do so] for each pint jar.

If you decide to use the oven canning method, the oven temperature should be 250 degrees Fahrenheit throughout the canning period.

These rolls are the recipe of a famous Wisconsin caterer, and they are perfect for party luncheons.

PECAN ROLLS.

¼ cup of liquid fat
1-3 cup of sugar
4 cups of flour
2 cakes of compressed yeast [broken into small pieces]
3 level teaspoons of salt
1 cup of water or milk
3 eggs

Put the above ingredients [with the exception of the flour] into a large bowl and beat with an egg beater until frothy. To this mixture gradually add most of the flour and beat briskly. Use the remainder of the flour on the board and to pat into the dough with your hands after it has risen to twice its bulk. Do not knead. Pat only enough to flatten the dough into a large pancake shape, about one and one-half inches thick. Cut off with a teaspoon or spatula just enough to fill a gem pan three-quarters full.

Keep the dough as soft as possible. Put in a warm place to rise. Bake while taking up the rest of the meal. These rolls can be served in about four hours from the starting time. Before placing the dough in the gem pans, put one teaspoon of melted butter, one pecan nut, and one-half teaspoon of brown sugar into each pan.

FRUIT SOUFFLÉ.

1 cup of milk
4 tablespoons of flour
4 tablespoons of butter
¼ teaspoon of salt
2 egg yolks
3 egg whites
1 tablespoon of lemon juice
3 tablespoons of orange juice
Grated rind of half an orange
1-3 cup of sugar
1 teaspoon of vanilla
1 cup of chopped fruit

Make a white sauce of the milk, butter, and flour. Cool and add the beaten egg yolks, salt, sugar, fruit, juice, rind, and vanilla. Fold in the well beaten egg whites. Pour into a well greased pudding dish and bake one hour in moderately slow oven (325 degrees Fahrenheit).

Rule for Elegance Is Velvet Added to Fur

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Whether you have only one dress-up ensemble or fifty, this winter the Paris formula for the most elegant is: Velvet with fur. The new velvets that have just made their debut in France are making velvet suits and ensembles, laden with fur, something that every woman can hope to have. These velvets are not perishable, for they do not wrinkle. They have no sheen, nor do they acquire any nap matter how much they are worn. They can be worn twice as often as a lustrous velvet, and they are quite as elegant.

To make, then, a formal ensemble that can be worn both in the afternoon and out to dinner and the theater, Paris chooses dull velvet. This velvet is usually made into a jacket and a one piece dress, or a velvet suit with a separate blouse. The jacket is trimmed with fur, and a bit of fur may be added to the dress, too, if you like. The smartest furs are either long haired furs, velvety furs like seal or ermine, or curly furs like astrakhan or caracul. Very flat fabric furs are out, so far as Paris is concerned.

The cut of the velvet ensemble is always simple, for the fabric and fur make it quite elegant enough without elaboration of line. The Heim ensemble, sketched today, is the type that Paris indorses for formal wear. The jacket and dress of this ensemble are made of dark red dull velvet, Romany red. The jacket is a wrist length, fitted wrap with long, straight sleeves. It has a large shawl collar of beige fox, and bands of beige fox outline the cutaway closing below the hipline.

The dress is a simple one piece, fitted in at the waistline under a velvet belt with a rhinestone buckle. The skirt is flared by four bias bands that descend from the hips to the center front, become gores that are circular, and give width to the hem.

Screaming Is One Way Small Child Expresses Emotion

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Mothers of young children write: "Screaming is our latest bugbear. What can you do about screaming?"

"Have you any helpful advice on screaming? I've tried ignoring it and sitting my little girl on a chair in a room alone until she stops. As she is just two I feel that I should reason with her to make her see that is not the way to get what she wants. What do you think?"

There are quite a few things we have to realize about little children before we can deal with them wisely. One of them is that babies and very small children haven't many ways of expressing their feelings. They can cry. They can scream. They can have a tantrum.

Their great need is to do what nature impels them to do and to get what they want. When they can't they feel disappointment, or anger, or frustration. They show this by screaming, crying, or having a tantrum—that is, unless they're very wisely managed.

Another thing we have to understand is that the feeling of babies and little children don't seem to be graded as do those of older children. A small thing will often provoke as much of a storm as a big one. Part of this is probably because their feelings are less complex, and so the expression of them is less complex—in any case, it is the accepted psychology of babyhood and early childhood.

It is well then in dealing with screaming to try to give them plenty of time to get their ideas over to you. It is maddening to them not to be able to make grown people understand or to be taken from play at a crucial moment.

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 11.—The Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Professional Football league, beat the Chicago Cardinals here today, 26 to 7. The victory, achieved by a hot half attack that netted four touchdowns, three by Johnny Blood, was their fifth straight of the season.

Blood's first touchdown, coming in the third quarter, was the result of a long pass from Red Dunn and, when Dunn's kick from placement went straight over the uprights, the Packers led the score at 7 all. The net gain in that threw and Blood's short run was 38 yards.

Blood's second score, also the result of a pass, came in the start of the fourth period after Nash had recovered Dunn's fumble on the Cardinals' 35 yard line. His third touchdown occurred six plays later. He did it by intercepting Nevers' pass and running 15 yards to the goal line.

Lewellen Also Scores.

The Packers' other touchdown went to Verne Lewellen just after Blood had crossed the goal line the first time. This scoring opportunity came when Nevers' kick was blocked and recovered by Molenda on the Cardinals' 13 yard line.

An effective pass defense prevented the Cardinals from scoring more than they did. They tried 22 passes, but completed only four. A break much like the two that figured in the Packers' scoring led to their only touchdown. It came in the second quarter.

Lewellen tried to punt, but a swarm of Cardinal players broke through and blocked the kick. It was recovered on the Packers' 44 yard line. Nevers then passed to Belden for ten yards, and three plays later tried another. McCrary deflected it into the hands of George Rogge, who ran 20 yards for the score. Nevers' kick added the extra point.

The Chicagoans had another chance to score in the same period. After the Cardinals had worked the ball into the Packers' territory Nevers attempted a field goal from the 35 yard line which went wide.

Cards Make Most First Downs.

The Packers also had other opportunities. They threatened twice in the first quarter as a result of 40 and 35 yard end runs by Englemann.

The Cardinals made 15 first downs to 12 for the Packers. But from scrimmage and yardage on passes, Green Bay had the edge, 314 yards to 238.

BROOKLYN, 18; STAPLETON, 6.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers opened their home season in the National Professional Football league today by defeating Stapleton, 18 to 6, before a crowd of 15,000. The victory avenged last week's 9-7 defeat at Stapleton. Brooklyn did all its scoring in the first half.

65,000 Fans Pay $270,000 to See Irish Tie Purple

Gross receipts from the Northwestern-Notre Dame charity football game at Soldiers' field on Saturday amounted to approximately $270,000, according to figures made public last night by E. L. Wilson, athletic director of Northwestern university. The attendance was in the neighborhood of 65,000, about 62,000 seats being sold at $5 each and about 2,300 box seats at $7.

Although exact figures were not available, Wilson said Notre Dame's share was estimated at $105,000, representing the amount that Notre Dame would have realized had the game been played at its stadium, as originally scheduled. Expenses were approximately $12,000. Northwestern was reimbursed for the $100,000 which it advanced to the governor's unemployment fund when the game was agreed upon last winter and the interest of approximately $5,000 paid on the money borrowed to make the advance to charity.

The balance of $47,000 will go into Northwestern's athletic fund.

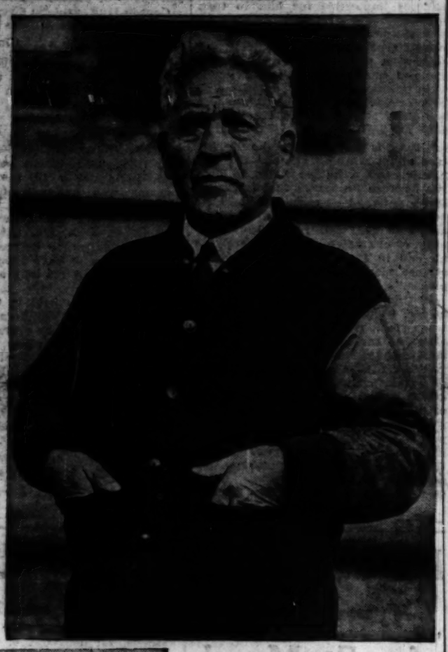
Forty Years on the Midway

The Life Story of Amos Alonzo Stagg



A. A. Stagg and Mrs. Stagg, nee Stella Robertson, 40 years ago, when the veteran coach was beginning his work on the Midway and his wife was a co-ed.

Mr. Stagg, as he appears today. The Old Man always has some surprises for his football opponents, even though his material of recent years does not measure up to the good old days.

BY ARCH WARD.

When character stands so high that it illumines everything about it, then you have a picture of greatness. It doesn't matter whether a man of such character is a leader in sport, a merchant prince, a noted lawyer, or statesman. Whatever he is engaged in as a life work is great, too.

That is why the University of Chicago is proud of Amos Alonzo Stagg, its athletic director and football coach for the last 40 years.

Mr. Stagg came to the Midway when it was only a field of goldenrod. His period of service is unmatched in any branch of sport. In recognition of his contributions to the game he esteems so genuinely, Yale, his alma mater, this week is sending its football team to Chicago for the first time in history. Yale alumni plan to honor him at a dinner Friday night. President Angell of Yale and President Hutchins of Chicago will attend.

When Stagg arrived at the University of Chicago Knute Rockne, who came to be accepted as football's greatest strategist, was only three years old. He was living in Norway. Robert Zuppke, one of Stagg's oldest conference rivals, was just getting a good start in grammar school. Noble Kizer of Purdue, Harry Kipke of Michigan, Burt Ingwersen of Iowa, and Fritz Crisler of Minnesota had not been born.

Stagg Is Colleges' Leading Crusader.

Jim Corbett had just won the world's heavyweight boxing championship from John L. Sullivan when the Maroons played their first football game under Stagg. The founding of the American league was eight years away. None of the colleges in this part of the country had taken up basketball.

Stagg has been the colleges' leading crusader for clean sport, decent environment, and courteous appeal. Most of the fundamental refinements have been attributable to his vision.

Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago and the school's faculty representative in the Western conference, has this to say about Mr. Stagg:

"As the representative of the University of Chicago in the Intercollegiate conference, I have had an exceptional opportunity to become familiar with Mr. Stagg's qualities as a man and as an athletic director. The better I have come to know him the greater has become my admiration and regard.

He Just Goes Along Doing His Best.

"Every one knows that, like the man who brought him to Chicago, William Rainey Harper, he has been a pioneer in his field. Every one knows that he has had a remarkable career as a football coach, and that he has always stood manfully, sometimes at great cost to himself, for the highest standards of sportsmanship, both on and off the field of play. Every athletic director in the conference will testify to the splendid service Stagg has rendered to intercollegiate athletics. They have looked

MACK HAS HIS HANDS FULL OF ANTIQUES NOW

He Can Be Smart—or Keep Present Team.

39 Cards Profit

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Following a vote by the Cardinals to split their world's series pool into 39 shares, "Pepper" Martin, sensational outfielder, found himself $4,484.24, a full share, richer. But he also discovered that this is just $15.36 less than his entire year's salary as a Cardinal. The Macks split the loser's pool into 30 equal shares of $3,989.50 each.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Connie Mack's machine which dominated the American league for three seasons and the world series for two, has seen its best days. It has furnished proof to the old argument, which many insist on questioning, that a ball team, no matter how good it might still look on paper, burns itself out. It goes so far and no farther.

That's why the A's relinquished their world title claim Saturday in the seventh and deciding game of the world series against the Cardinals. But even if they had gone on into their third consecutive world title, a height never previously reached, it wouldn't have concealed the fact that as a team the American league kings have gone over the hill. The Cardinals showed them how to play the game properly. The Cards have been shaken up year by year with new blood. The Macks haven't.

Mack Has Two Choices.

The 68 yer old Connie, if he doesn't resign in favor of Eddie Collins, now has two roads ahead of him. If he wishes he can go on with his present combination and trust to luck that the opposition doesn't get strong enough to meet him coming downhill. Or he can pick off a few of his present members, peddle them, replace them with new men and then try to carry on. The expectation is that he will follow the latter course, not alone because he realizes the machine is wearing down in spots but because the city of Philadelphia, which is sleepy to start with, is weary watching the same faces.

Mack, if he possibly can do it, probably will attempt his rebuilding around four or five stars. When you get past Grove, Earnshaw, Simmons and Cochrane, what does Connie possess? Just a collection of ball players. They never were anything more than that, but because of the unusual power and consistency of the big four the frailties of the others were kept under cover. Possibly Jim Foxx deserves exemption from the latter class, but Jim, even though he hits one a long way occasionally, is nothing more than a infielder half the teams in the league couldn't use.

Farm System Here to Stay.

Looking at the series from the standpoint of a Cardinal fan, you will have to admit it was a victory for the so-called "farm system." That's a system whereby the Cards, owning a string of eight or nine clubs in different classes of minor leagues, can pick up their prospect before he has whiskers and work him up through the grades until he proves he either is or isn't a major leaguer.

The Cards under Rogers Hornsby won their first pennant in 1926 and followed with a victory over the Yankees in the world series that fall. Since then the Cards have been in the heat of every pennant fight even when they didn't win themselves. They have stayed right in the thick of things over a five year stretch because they made replacements fast enough to keep the team from burning out!

The farm system is the thing that made these replacements available. The club owners who think that even with lavish expenditures they can keep pace with such an opponent, are on the wrong track. Some of them know it can't be done and that's why they are crying to have the Card's elaborate system broken up. It will be broken up when the Card bosses say so, and not before.

Nobody Wins, but N. U. Game Rates as Upset

Northwestern and Notre Dame, struggling through the mud and rain at Soldiers' field to a scoreless tie, provided the biggest surprise on Saturday's football schedule. If the two teams actually had played the kind of football ordinarily indicated by a scoreless game, the 65,000 who sat in the pouring rain might have been satisfied.

It is no reflection on Notre Dame and Northwestern that the game fell below expectation. But it is unfortunate that two teams, which had pointed for this battle since a year ago, should find themselves powerless except for a few yards gained in line plays. On a dry field one or the other undoubtedly would have scored. The game might have been canceled as far as settling the rivalry was concerned.

Watch Michigan, Ohio State.

Michigan and Ohio State took second honors Saturday for surprise performances. The results of these games were watched closely because the teams meet next week-end at Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines won their first Big Ten game in defense of their title from Chicago, 13 to 7, while Vanderbilt defeated the Buckeyes, 26 to 21, in one of the most thrilling games played in any section of the country. Whether Chicago's fighting spirit and pass attack accounted for the narrow margin of victory for the Wolverines or whether Michigan underestimated Chicago's ability is immaterial. But it is evident Michigan must improve this week if it expects to win from Ohio State.

Vanderbilt won from Ohio State more by Buckeye mental errors than its own power. Coach Sam Willaman probably isn't worried about the loss of this practice game, especially since his team demonstrated a great running attack in the second half which piled up tremendous yardage through the line and around the ends. Inability to do this was Ohio's weakness in 1930.

Illini Almost Stops Purdue.

Purdue, one of the three teams favored to share in the 1931 Big Ten championship, got by Illinois success-

Seven Records Broken, 5 Equaled in World Series

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Twelve record performances marked the 1931 world series, including the displacement of seven former records and the equaling of five others.

PEPPER MARTIN.

The world champion Cardinals, led by Pepper Martin, came close to running wild through the record books. Martin had a half dozen records all but wrapped up until he went hitless in his final two games. His early exploits were none the less heroic and he tied two long-standing records with his total of 12 hits for the series and four runs batted in for one game. He stole five bases, within one of the record.

Frisch Boosts Record.

Frank Frisch, Cardinal captain and second baseman, set three new records. He increased two of his own by boosting his all-series total of hits to 52 and increasing his times at bat to 164. He also enjoys the distinction now of having participated in the most world series games, 41, six more than Babe Ruth.

The Athletics established a new defensive record by playing errorless ball in the first five games, but their defense was distinctly wobbly in the final contest.

Al Simmons came within one of equaling Lou Gehrig's cleanup record by accounting for eight runs batted in. Al hit safely in all but one game, the second, and was the only player on either team to do so.

The records broken or tied this year follow:

INDIVIDUAL.

1—Most hits, one series, 13, Martin, equaling mark held jointly by Buck Herzog, Joe Jackson and Sam Rice.

2—Most runs batted in, one game, 4, Martin, equaling record shared by Elmer Smith, Goose Goslin, Babe Ruth, Lester Bell and Al Simmons.

6—Most series umpired, 15, by William J. Klem, National league, breaking own former record.

7—Most two hit pitching performances, in succession, one series, 3, by Grimes of Cardinals and George Earnshaw of Athletics in third and fourth games. Equals feat of Ed Walsh of White Sox and Mordecai Brown of Cubs in 1908.

CLUB RECORDS.

9—Most successive errorless games, one club, one series, 5, by Athletics, breaking mark of 4 by Red Sox in 1918.

10—Most errorless games, both clubs, one series, 9, five by A's and four by Cardinals, breaking former mark of eight by Yankees and Cardinals.

11—Most strikeouts, both clubs, one series, 86, including 45 A's and 40 Cardinals, beating former record of 82 by Giants and Yankees in 1921, eight games

12—Fewest stolen bases, one club, one series, none, by Athletics, for third straight year.

Cochrane Unfit, Played on Nerve, Mack Discloses

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics returned home today to be welcomed by several hundred persons who jammed the North Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Official welcome from city fathers was lacking, but the fans, faithful in defeat, formed the reception committee. They formed a lane through which Manager Connie Mack and his players passed to waiting automobiles.

"The Athletics played good baseball," Mack said, "but the Cardinals were the better team. And they played clean baseball. We have no complaint in that quarter.

"People wonder what was wrong with Mickey Cochrane. They said he didn't look like himself. Mickey wasn't himself. He was playing on his nerve. His legs were bad, his hand was swollen, and his general physical condition was below par. Not one player in ten would have been out there in Mickey's shape."

Crowd, Angry at Decision, Breaks Up Soccer Game

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—An unruly crowd broke up an exhibition soccer game today between the touring Spanish team, representing the Racing Club of Madrid, and a picked team from New York State Football association clubs ten minutes before the end of the second half. The New York team was leading, 3 to 1, when the crowd, angered at a decision, rushed out on the field and attacked the referee. The Spanish players escorted the official from the field.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears smashed through the New York Giants' line in the third period yesterday afternoon for a touchdown which gave them a 6 to 0 victory, in celebration of the opening game of the season at Wrigley field. Until that drive, opportunity for which was presented by Doug Wycoff's poor kick, the Bears apparently were headed for a scoreless tie, although they had outgained and outplayed the eastern eleven.

Three times, once just prior to the touchdown attack, the Bears failed to find the punch to push the ball over the New York goal line. Within the 20 yard line the Giants had held for downs, stopping the Bears' ball carriers who, until then, had found holes in the line or had turned the enemy tackles.

But when Wycoff's kick from behind his own goal line went almost straight up in the air and landed on New York's 31 yard line, the Bears seized the opportunity.

Nagurski Supplies Punch.

Bronko Nagurski, who had hammered through the line all afternoon, smacked once more for two yards. Joe Lintzenich, right half, followed with seven yards at tackle. Big Bronko came again and landed on New York's eight yard line for a first down. On the next play Nagurski shot through tackle and was stopped a half yard from the touchdown by four enemy tacklers who pushed him sidewards and within 10 yards of the east side line.

The Bears' chance nearly was snatched away on the next play when Walquist fumbled Pearson's pass from center, but Laurie covered the ball on the Giants' one yard line. Third down and goal to go. Lintzenich went in motion wide to the left. Walquist faked a pass to Nagurski and then handed the ball to Red Grange, who slipped over the goal line untouched.

Luke Johnson's place kick for the extra point was high, but missed the uprights. Grange's touchdown was enough to win the game, but the 9,000 fans watched the Giants, who had not shown a concerted offense of any kind in the first three periods, rally under the urge of the Bears' score and drive down the field in the final four minutes. The Giants were stopped, however, with a minute and a half to play, when Lintzenich intercepted Wycoff's forward pass and brought it back to midfield.

Wind Aids Bears at Start.

Despite Saturday's rain the gridiron was in good shape. Occasionally the ball carriers slipped as they attempted to change direction sharply; but in the main the field was no handicap. The strong northern wind was an advantage to the Bears in the opening period for Capt. Grange won the toss and chose to defend the north goal.

Twice in the first period the Bears brought the ball within scoring distance. A march of 37 yards ended on New York's 10 yard line, when the Giants held for four trials. Wycoff's punt against the wind gave the ball to the Bears on New York's 35 yard line. This time the Bears got as far as the 13 yard line, but Walquist's pass to Luke Johnson on the fourth down failed of making the required distance by a foot.

Starting the second half, the Bears battled through the Giant line until Grange got his touchdown. Their first attack, however, failed seven yards short of success.

Forward Pass Fails.

On this drive, which started on the Bears' 49 yard strip, Walquist passed to Johnson for 20 yards. Lintzenich hit the line for 10 yards and another first down. Nagurski followed with a gain of six yards and then Lintz-

OLD JIM DANDY PRAYS FOR MUD AND HE GETS IT

Heavy Track Certain for I. W. A. C. Purse Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jim Dandy, the horse which horsemen say offers up a prayer for rain and mud every morning before breakfast, has discovered that his prayers are answered now and then.

Jim, the giant killer, which once beat Gallant Fox and Whichone in the mud, goes to the post this afternoon in the Illinois Women's Athletic club purse at Hawthorne. It is a dash at a mile and a sixteenth and, with the track deep in heavy mud yesterday, there was every indication that Jim will find the going to his liking.

He has no easy job in front of him, for Mowris, which won impressively at Hawthorne the other day, is one of his rivals. Ulumiu, Prince Atheling, and Islam are others that will endeavor to show Jim their heels.

The Handicap features one of the best Monday programs of the year at Hawthorne. The Columbus day purse engages a field of smack 2 year olds with Newgro, owned by Mrs. A. Fendergast of Chicago, likely to rule as the favorite.

The running of the Johnson stakes at Laurel indicates that two of this year's best 2 year olds hail from Chicago. They are Burning Blaze, owned by Dick and Pat Nash, and Fairbypair, which races for Mrs. John Hertz.

Burning Blaze and Fairbypair are products of Arlington's big meeting of last July. Fairbypair came into prominence when he won the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington and Burning Blaze captured the rich Post and Paddock stakes.

There isn't a chance that Burning Blaze will meet C. V. Whitney's Top Flight, Belmont Futurity winner, this season, so the 2 year old championship probably is to remain in dispute. Burning Blaze will go after the Kentucky Jockey club stakes at Latonia but Top Flight is not eligible for that race. Top Flight will try for the Pimlico Futurity in Maryland and Burning Blaze is not eligible for that event.

Few more brilliant apprentice riders have been developed on Chicago race tracks than Melvin Lewis, the Colorado lad, who is the toast of every Chicago racegoer.

This kid—rather long legged and skinny—has been outriding all the older jockeys at Hawthorne since the fall racing began. And he seems to have plenty of nerve. He took a bad spill last week when the filly Weideleen fell with him, but he came right back a couple of days later and won four of the seven races on the program.

He is the most likely looking apprentice to ride anywhere in the country this year. He has a good seat, powerful hands and arms, and knows how to rate a horse. This gives him a big advantage over the other apprentice lads riding in Chicago.

Old Sun Beau hopped aboard his private express car at Hawthorne yesterday and started east toward Willis Sharpe Kilmer's breeding place at Binghamton, N. Y. He will make a brief stop at the Laurel track in Maryland before he journeys on to his life of retirement at the Kilmer farm.

It isn't likely that Sun Beau will ever start again, but an effort is being made to bring him into action at Belmont Park for a charity day of racing on Nov. 4 in a three horse battle with Twenty Grand and Mate. If Twenty Grand and Mate accept the issue, Sun Beau will be kept in training for the race, but it is understood there is little probability of the three being brought together.

FAIR GROUNDS TO HAVE 11 STAKE RACES THIS YEAR

New Orleans, La., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Fair grounds winter racing season under a change of racing dates this year will include eleven fixed purses with a combined distribution of $33,500, featuring the $10,000 Louisiana Derby.

The usual New Year's handicap has been discontinued because of a shift of the racing season. The Louisiana Derby, formerly sponsored by the Jefferson Park track, will take its place as the main attraction. The Louisiana Derby will be raced on March 19, the last day of the 48-day meeting, and is expected to have good starters from the annual Derby trails and other races for three-year olds.

Instead of a racing season extending from Jan. 1 to Mardi Gras, the season will be held from Jan. 25 to March 19, inclusive, with the exception of Sundays. The list of stakes and dates follows:

Jan. 30, Pontchartrain handicap, $3,000 added; Feb. 6, Rex handicap, $2,000 added; Feb. 9, Mardi Gras handicap, $3,000 added; Feb. 13, Edgewater Gulf claiming stakes, $2,500 added.

BRONOWICZ AND STEELE MEET IN COLISEUM SHOW

Promoter Doc Krone will hold his first indoor wrestling show of the season Wednesday night at the Coliseum. Frank Bronowicz and Ray Steele will meet in the main event at two out of three falls.

George Zaharias of Pueblo takes on Rudy Dusek of Omaha.

Hans Kampfer goes against Charley Fox in another match. Earl McCready, the Oklahoma collegian, is paired with Jean La Deaux.

Mills Football Team Beats Cicero, 12 to 7

The Chicago Mills semi-pro football team defeated the Cicero Boosters, 12 to 7, yesterday on the Morton High school field. Marvin Adams and Bill Stuckey scored for the Mills. Mal Brosseau, Mills half back, suffered a fractured vertebra after returning a punt for 65 yards.

SIX DAY BIKE RACE OPENS AT STADIUM NOV. 8

Chicago's twenty-sixth international six-day bicycle race will get under way in the Stadium, Nov. 8, Manager John M. Chapman announced last night. Fifteen teams made up of an equal number of American and foreign riders are expected to complete.

Nobody Wins, but N. U. Game Rates as Upset

fully, although only by a touchdown, 7 to 0. The Boilermakers' attack made a number of drives down the field which were tossed away on errors. Fred Hecker, a sophomore halt back, led the way to the triumph.

Illinois' sophomore eleven gave evidence that it will be dangerous to all rivals this year and there is reason to believe Illinois will figure in at least one upset before the season is concluded.

Wisconsin, which faces Purdue Saturday, tied Alabama Poly, 7 to 7. The game apparently was a standoff on attack, although the Badgers had an advantage in running plays. Wisconsin had difficulty in stopping the southerners' forward passes. Joe Linfor's 95 yard run from a kickoff for a Badger touchdown was the high point in the game.

Crippled Hawkeyes Beaten.

Other results in the middle west were more or less anticipated. The crippled Iowa eleven was badly beaten by the Texas Aggies, 29 to 0. A week ago Pitt whipped Iowa, 20 to 0. The Hawkeyes will open the conference season this week with Indiana university. The Hoosiers did not play Saturday and will have the advantage of two weeks' rest since their game with Notre Dame.

Nebraska's 13 to 0 win over Oklahoma was further proof of the Huskers' strength which had been demonstrated for Chicago fans in the last three periods of the Nebraska-Northwestern game a week ago. Missouri's defeat by Kansas Aggies, 20 to 7, may be construed as the Aggies' declaration that they must be counted in the Big Six race.

Georgia's third consecutive victory over Yale, 26 to 7, not only is argument for superiority of southern football over the east (at least as demonstrated by Yale) but it holds forth promise of a great game at Stagg field Saturday, when Yale meets Chicago. Yale previously was conceded victory over Chicago, but Georgia's triumph over the Bulldogs and Chicago's battle with Michigan tends to prove the teams will be evenly matched. The Maroons also will have the inspiration of playing against Coach Stagg's alma mater in celebration of Stagg's fortieth year on the Midway.

Pitt Worries Notre Dame.

Pittsburgh's 34 to 0 victory over West Virginia must worry Notre Dame. The Irish meet Drake Saturday, while Pitt plays Western Reserve. Then Jock Sutherland brings his Panthers to Notre Dame for the annual scrap. Last year the Irish won, 35 to 19, but if this year's scores mean anything Pitt will not be subdued again as easily, if at all.

Dartmouth won from Holy Cross, 14 to 7, in one of the major eastern encounters. Brown rang up a third victory in a row over Princeton by the convincing tally of 19 to 7. Last year the score was 7 to 0.

A year ago New York university defeated Georgetown, 2 to 0, when the Georgetown punter stepped on his own end line as he was about to kick. The ensuing arguments were quieted Saturday when New York ran over its rival, 34 to 0.

Army Beats Michigan State.

Army's team strength was too much for Michigan State. Coach Jimmy Crowley made only one substitution in the game at West Point, while two Army elevens finally scored a 20 to 7 victory. Bob Monnett was the ball carrying threat for the westerners.

Rice and Texas staged the best battle in the south with Rice winning, 7 to 0. Other leading southern teams had no difficulty with Saturday's opposition.

On the Pacific coast it was another story. Stanford shoved over two touchdowns to beat Minnesota in the intersectional game, 13 to 0. Last year the teams played a scoreless tie at Minneapolis. The Gophers, as a year ago, evidently have a rugged defense, but so far have not found a workable offense. Minnesota does not play this week, but rests until its Big Ten opening game on Oct. 24 against Iowa.

Trojans Win Easily.

Southern California defeated the Pacific coast champions, Washington State, 33 to 6, avenging last year's loss to the Cougars by a 7 to 6 count. The Trojans consequently are leading contenders for the 1931 title.

Oregon defeated Washington for the second year since Jimmy Phelan left Purdue for Washington and Doc Spears quit Minnesota for Oregon. Last year the score was 7 to 0. Saturday Oregon won, 13 to 0. The second touchdown came from an intercepted pass when, in the fourth period, Washington vainly took to the air in an endeavor to equalize the score.

La Bourrasque Triumphs in French Juvenile Derby

LONGCHAMP, France, Oct. 11.—(AP)—La Bourrasque, Gustave Beauvois' two year old, scored an easy victory today in the Prix Criterium, France's two year old Derby. La Bourrasque finished 2½ lengths ahead of La Becassine in the mile race with Lord Derby Disguise third. The race was valued at $6,000 and the winner paid 7 to 1. Lord Derby's Sweet Briar captured the $1,200 Prix Dela Fourriere, beating Martinez Dehor' Argentine entry, Veneration.

Forty Years on the Midway

to him for leadership and they have absolute confidence in his integrity.

"There are some things about Stagg that are not so well known. One of the most significant is the extraordinary regard in which he is held by the faculty of the university. Football coaches are not always highly esteemed by faculties, and friction is not unusual between them. But Stagg's clear appreciation of the right relationship of athletic sports to the main business of a university and his consistent and uncomplaining acceptance of faculty rules have won the respect of all his associates. He is a member of the university senate and participates modestly but effectively in the discussion of educational problems and policies.

"The experience of the last few years has brought out the strength and stability of the man. An insufficiency of first class material has made it impossible for him to turn out winning teams, and his prestige with the unthinking public has doubtless suffered seriously. But Stagg has not lost a night's sleep over it. He has not complained, either in public or in private; he has not blamed anybody or apologized for anything. He has cheerfully stayed on the job and done his best.

"That is not because he doesn't care about winning games. He is a fighter, and a fighter hates to lose. It's because he places the university above personal success. It's because he looks upon football as a means to an end—the well rounded development of character—and not merely as an end in itself. It's because conscience means more to him than applause."

In this biography we shall go back to Mr. Stagg's forbears to see from what stock he sprang. We shall review his exploits at Yale, where he established a reputation as one of the greatest baseball and football players of all time, and then sketch his successes and reverses at the University of Chicago.

The story of Mr. Stagg's life must necessarily be a story about football. You can't separate the two. As the great leaders of the game go, his name is linked with Rockne, Yost, Camp, Haughton, Warner, and Zuppke.

Even in college sport where fame is extravagantly bestowed and often inexactly computed the singular gifts of Stagg will endure. He took football in its infancy and helped fashion it into a highly dramatic spectacle. He took power plays and made them more powerful. He took the open game and opened it wider. He took the tricks and made them trickier.

But to the thousands of young men who have passed under his supervision in the two score years he has been directing athletics at the Midway, Stagg has been essentially a character builder. By the force of his active and accurate brain he has commanded unswerving respect. Always he has been the leader, always the players have been the players and always the game has been the game.

In his own way he has handled men and has handled them in a way to make them appreciate both their strength and their weaknesses. Had he gone into the ministry, as he had planned in his youth, it is doubtful if he could have done more, spiritually or materially.

George Huff, athletic director at the University of Illinois, says he realizes that it has become a joke in the newspapers about the coach being a builder of men, but he points out that in the case of Stagg he has been just that.

Written Contracts Are Unnecessary.

"It goes without saying," writes Mr. Huff, "that there has been no man in athletics in the last half century who has contributed more toward honesty in sports than A. A. Stagg. Equally well known by those acquainted with Mr. Stagg is the wonderful influence he has had upon the players who have been under his direction during his long stay at Chicago.

"Mr. Stagg is held in the highest esteem by all the directors in the Big Ten and I am sure by every coach and athletic man from other institutions who have been in contact with him. Since Mr. Stagg started his work at the University of Chicago there never has been a written contract for any game between Illinois and Chicago and there never has been the slightest misunderstanding or difficulty."

De Paul Plans Offense Drill for St. Mary's

De Paul university today will direct its attention to rejuvenating its offensive for the game Friday night at Mills stadium against St. Mary's of Winona, Minn. De Paul's attack was ineffective against Illinois Wesleyan last Friday night, despite the fact that it won, 6 to 2, because of poor blocking.

Young Mat Steffen, a wiry, fleet ball carrier, was rushed into the game in the second half and despite his crippled condition succeeded in whipping Wesleyan almost single handed.

The line, with Hal Cherne, Pete Barskis, Ray Schuster, Emmett Cowhey, and Capt. Everett McClane, bearing the brunt of the burden, showed unusual power from tackle to tackle. But the ends again revealed weakness.

Three casualties resulted from the Wesleyan battle and may seriously handicap De Paul's chances against St. Mary's. Cowhey, guard, Heine Coan, and Ernie Butcher, half back, were carried from the field with injuries.

WAUKEGAN PILOT SETS RECORD IN OUTBOARD RACE

Eslick won both heats of five miles each from a field of five competitors. He won the first race at a speed of 46.334 miles an hour and made his best speed on the second heat.

Hilda Mueller, Bay City, Mich., woman professional driver, won both heats of the class A division 2 races. Her best elapsed time for a heat was 16 minutes 39.1 seconds for the five mile jaunt. Her speed of 36.39 miles an hour was faster than the existing world's record for the class, but could not be considered as only four boats were in the race instead of the required five.

Berwyn Parrots and Svabek Play 0 to 0 Tie

The Berwyn Parrots and the Svabek Recreations, formerly the Matt Franz Boosters, Midwest Football league runnersup for the last two years, battled to a scoreless tie at Berwyn stadium yesterday. Puggy Sluka, Berwyn half back, featured on the offense.

MAROONS SHOW THEIR METTLE; CHEER STAGG

Coach Sees Chance to Beat Yale Saturday.

Greatly pleased but not surprised by his team's good showing against Michigan, Coach A. A. Stagg conceded yesterday that the Maroons "have a look in" for a victory over Yale Saturday.

ALBIE BOOTH.

"Yale probably has the edge on us in general team strength," Stagg said in discussing his plans for the game with his alma mater. "We have a nonscouting agreement with them and I know nothing of their tactics, but they are certainly not as hard up for material as we are. We were not in the best possible shape for Michigan. I think we shall be stronger Saturday."

The performance of the Maroon line in holding Michigan to two touchdowns, both of them resulting from passes by the green Chicago back field, was especially gratifying to Stagg.

Chicago's added strength against Yale and Albie Booth will be in the back field. Stagg will rebuild his attack this week without considering Pat Page Jr. and Lou Kanne, who were lost to the squad through ineligibility last week. The return to quarter back of his son, Paul, who missed his first game in three years Saturday, and a week's practice at half for Joe Temple, newly eligible, will give Stagg a more dependable if not a more brilliant back field than he had Saturday.

YALE WORKS OUT TODAY

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Yale tomorrow will hold the first active football practice ordered in years on the Monday following a scheduled game. The coaches pointed out that only three days' practice are possible this week, because the eleven must leave the campus Thursday noon on its trip to Chicago and that all those days must be utilized to develop the formations planned as strategy against Coach A. A. Stagg's eleven.

It is likely that the only scrimmage of the week will be set down for Tuesday. Coach Mal Stevens said tonight that the coaches expect steady improvements from the Yale team, that the playing combinations tried by Yale were new and not as smoothly meshed as he believes they will be later in the season.

35TH MICHIGAN-OHIO GAME

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Ohio State and Michigan will renew their rivalry on the gridiron next Saturday when the Buckeyes come to Ann Arbor to play the 35th game since athletic relations were begun in 1897.

Until 1913, when Ohio State entered the Western conference, Michigan downed the Buckeyes with regularity. The best the Ohioans could get was two tie games during the period, the first a scoreless affair in 1900 and a 6 to 6 game in 1910.

From 1913 through 1917 no games were scheduled, but starting with 1918 the record shows five games going to the Buckeyes and eight to Michigan.

PENALTY FOR MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Michigan regulars and near-regulars will be given an intensive scrimmage when they report for practice tomorrow afternoon as a penalty for the unsatisfactory showing against Chicago. This program also is designed to prepare the Wolverines for the Ohio State game here Saturday.

Coach Harry Kipke gave full credit to Chicago. He said the Maroons were much stronger than a year ago, particularly the center trio of Capt. Horwitz, Parsons and Hamberg, but he feels that his own men experienced an off day.

WILDCATS TO REST

A well earned rest will be granted Northwestern's football team today by Coach Dick Hanley. Players who participated in last Saturday's game against Notre Dame will not show up at all while the remainder of the squad will take part in a light drill.

The showing of a quartet of sophomores in the Notre Dame game elicited praise from Coach Hanley yesterday. These men, Potter, Olson and Monnan, backs, and Manske, end, all turned in performances which would have done credit to tried veterans, according to Hanley. As a result all four have practically clinched a regular berth on the eleven.

With the Notre Dame game a completed episode the Wildcats now will turn their attention to the games coming up. Next Saturday the Purple will face the invasion of the University of California at Los Angeles, marking the first time a Northwestern football team has ever met an eleven from the Pacific coast.

ILLINI COACH PLEASED

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Encouraged by their performance against Purdue yesterday, Illinois' sophomores believe they can repulse Michigan here Oct. 24. They have two weeks in which to prepare for the Wolverine game, for Bradley, Saturday's opponent, is not expected to make them hustle.

Considering they were matched against a veteran personnel at Purdue, the Illini did well, Coach Bob Zuppke believes. Illinois' faults were those of inexperience and it is hoped that they can be corrected in the two weeks available.

Zuppke's next step will be to move Lud Murray from center to full back, Bates taking the pivot job.

GRANGE IN THE GRASP OF GIANTS

Two stalwart backs in the New York Giant secondary prevented Red Grange from giving the Bears a lead in the first quarter of yesterday's professional football game at Wrigley field. Grange was off through tackle on an eight yard gain when Moran, formerly of Carnegie, Giant quarter back, and Burnett, erstwhile Emporia Teachers half back star, grabbed him. Moran had Red by one foot and Burnett (No. 18) by the head. The Bears won, 6 to 0.

Bears Defeat Giants, 6 to 0; Grange Scores

nich made first down on New York's nine yard line. Three line plays gained two yards. On fourth down, a forward pass was incomplete, but the ball did not go over the Giants' goal line, so New York took possession at the point of the previous play.

This forced Wycoff to kick from behind his own goal and a moment later the Bears had the ball and had started what proved to be a winning march.

In addition to Wycoff and Moran, who led the Giants' attack, such as it was, Red Cagle demonstrated his ability in the opening minutes of the second half, until an injury forced him from the game. He returned two kickoffs in that time, one at the start of the half and the other after the Bears' touchdown. On each Cagle nearly got away and was stopped just short of midfield after he had eluded most of the Bear players.

Fumble Gives N. Y. Chance.

New York's fourth quarter attack started in the center of the field and was made possible when Lintzenich fumbled and lost the ball. Two successive first downs on running plays brought the ball into Bear territory, but with time shortening, New York turned to passes and Lintzenich's interception ended the rally.

In the last minute, Walquist stalled with the ball and the game ended after three quarter back plunges.

Georgia, Brown Remove the 'Big' from Big Three

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—A tradition of the old "big three" went tumbling Saturday when Yale lost to Georgia, 26 to 7, and Princeton was beaten, 19 to 7, by Brown. For each winning team it was the third victory in as many years. Up to last week Yale had never lost three years in a row except to Harvard. Princeton, although suffering longer series of setbacks from Yale and Harvard, never had lost three years straight on its home field to any opponent.

Georgia completely outclassed Yale, smashing through the Eli defense for long runs and holding the goal safe on all except one of the few occasions when Yale got within scoring range.

Georgia's triumph started the south off to a great day against eastern colleges. Carnegie Tech invaded Atlanta to take a hard fought 13 to 0 decision from Georgia Tech; Maryland scored a 6 to 0 victory over Navy on a 50 yard pass from Chalmers to Pease in the third period and Wallace Wade's Duke eleven repulsed a strong invader, Villanova, 13 to 0. Cornell downed Richmond, 27 to 0.

RICE LOOMS AS TITLE CONTENDER AFTER TEXAS WIN

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A package of football explosives blew up Saturday in the Southwest conference when Rice institute started its conference championship race with a 7 to 0 victory over Texas. Critics had picked Texas to win by at least two touchdowns.

Southern Methodist got away to an imposing start by defeating Arkansas, 42 to 6. Texas A. and M. revealed a brilliant passing attack to whip the University of Iowa, 39 to 0. The Big Ten eleven revealed a fine defensive player in Kriz, but his playing alone could not stop A. and M.

FAKE TICKETS TO MICHIGAN GAME; HOLD TEN BOYS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Ten Detroit boys, ranging from 17 to 22 years of age, are held at the county jail in connection with the sale of counterfeit tickets to yesterday's Chicago-Michigan football game. Harry Tillotson, business manager of the Michigan Athletic association, estimated that between 100 and 150 tickets were sold by the group.

Purchasers of the spurious tickets have identified some of the boys, Mr. Tillotson said. The source of the tickets is being investigated.

Anglers Try Skill in City Fishing Meet

BY BOB BECKER.

A fishing tournament that will be held in the heart of Chicago is scheduled for next Saturday morning, according to an announcement made by the south park commissioners. The Washington park lagoon will be the scene of this Izaak Walton meet, and the commissioners state that the large mouth black bass in the lagoon are numerous and bold biting, and that prizes will be offered for the best catch. A large crowd of rod and line enthusiasts are expected to compete.

The details of this fishing contest are as follows: There will be fifty rowboats provided for the contestants. Two fishermen to a boat. Fishing will start at 10 o'clock next Saturday morning, and continue until 3 p. m.

Contestants Register at 9:30 o'Clock.

Officials will be on hand at the Washington park boat landing at 9:30 o'clock to register contestants. The entrance fee will be 25 cents. No age limit. Prizes will be given for the largest fish caught, the largest number caught [consistent with state fish code], and the best story of the fish that got away. Each contestant will be allowed to fish just two hours. Starting and finishing time to be announced by whistle. Any kind of fishing goes.

Contestants can bring tackle for still fishing or they can fly or bait cast. Angleworms, night crawlers, minnows, artificial lures—anything in the way of fish foolers will be permitted by the judges. South side chapters of the Izaak Walton league are coöperating with the south park commissioners in this event and will assist in judging the contest.

As plans go ahead for this contest in the city, reports from northern fishing grounds tell of some excellent catches made during the delightful autumn weather which has made the north country attractive this fall.

Fishing Good in North Lakes.

Raymond S. Pruitt, Chicago attorney, tried his luck in the French river, north of Toronto, and found the pike, bass and muskies were extremely active following the days of hot weather. He registered several four pound black bass and then climaxed the river fishing with a 38 pound muskellunge.

Edward F. George, 1315 Elmdale avenue, and Jacob B. Schoniger, 1716 Estes avenue, recently tried Mason lake, near Fifield, Wis., and landed three good sized muskellunge.

GRAIN MARKET RALLIES AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Bearish Sentiment Gives Way.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An upturn was brought about in the grain markets during the closing days of the week, following a liquidating period that carried prices down to the lowest in years, and on wheat to the lowest level known.

Trade was dormant with extremely bearish sentiment at the start, and active and confident at the highest prices in three weeks at the finish, with a belief that the worst of the depression is over and that a gradual improvement is under way.

Net gains on wheat at the close were 4¼@4¾c, with other grain markets following the appreciation. Corn made a net advance of 2@2¾c, oats ¾c, and barley 2@2½c compared with the previous week and cotton was up $1.00@1.50 per bale.

Leaders Reënter Market.

It was one of the most remarkable market weeks in the history of the grain trade. Speculative leaders who have been out of the market for months, being unable to see any good on the buying side, reëntered and were credited with large purchases in the last few days. They express the belief that liquidation in cotton and securities has about run its limit, and with a better banking outlook and a gradual change to the normal in domestic and foreign markets, recent appreciations in prices are more likely to hold. With good leaders on the bull side and a stronger stock market, there are brighter prospects for grain trade throughout the country, they say, barring government influences.

The scare in the decline in sterling and foreign exchange is working off, although discounts are still most unusual. Selling pressure has declined, and constructive news is given more attention and carries greater weight throughout the trade.

Bull News Effective.

Bullish factors are appearing, as being the dry weather in the winter wheat sections, particularly in the southwest, where seeding and germination has been delayed. There is 15 per cent or more of the intended acreage to be seeded in western Kansas that has not been planted because of the droughty conditions. Other sections of the winter wheat country also complain of drought.

Consumption of wheat is believed to be increasing, owing to low prices. However, consumption has been too small in late years, which has assisted in creating the big surplus of wheat in the United States. Statistics are regarded as having lost their bearish influence, and that in the future there will be liberal reductions in supplies, following the long period of accumulation. Supplies, however, remain the heaviest known at this season.

Russian news is most uncertain, but the trade is giving it more bullish consideration, especially reports of possible reduction in shipments from that country.

Cash Wheat Well Held.

Cash wheat is firmly held and farmers' offerings are light, but may increase on any further material advance. Movement of wheat from farms and country elevators to consuming centers is the most irregular known to the trade. Colorado and Nebraska wheat is going to Montana and the Pacific coast. Minneapolis mills continue to buy high protein wheat in the Texas panhandle. Receipts of winter wheat at Minneapolis from June 15 to date aggregate 9,89[illegible] bu, compared with 11,998,000 bu of spring wheat. Usually the percentage of spring wheat is in excess of that of winter. Portland, Ore., is shipping wheat and foodstuffs to territory south along the Pacific coast because of partial crop failure.

December wheat closed Saturday at 69[illegible]c; March, 52⅞@52⅝c; May,

Find Time Is Working on Side of Steel Producers

Time is increasingly on the side of steel producers, and as the late fall approaches such important outlets for steel as the railroads and the automobile industry apparently cannot much longer defer covering certain minimum requirements, the magazine Steel says in its summary of the industry.

Last week a 29 per cent production rate was maintained with difficulty. The most sanguine do not look for any appreciable bulge—yet the outlook for the long pull is brighter.

Inexorably the time during which the automobile industry can produce new models for dealers' stocks and display at the January shows is narrowing, and Detroit counts upon four good production weeks this quarter. Ford has bought 10,000 tons of steel, chiefly sheets and strip. Chevrolet is about to specify for its 1932 line, other General Motors units are figuring.

Hear Erie to Buy.

Particularly in the Mahoning valley are substantial hopes being built upon an improved automobile situation, affecting the mills late this month.

Whatever the interstate commerce commission rules concerning freight rates, some needs that have been restrained because of this proceeding and certain requirements for maintenance must develop shortly. In addition, the next month will mature rail inquiries from the principal carriers. The Erie, it is reported, will buy 35,000 tons for 1932, compared with 41,000 tons for 1931.

Last week structural steel awards totaled 23,900 tons, bringing 1931 bookings to date to 1,559,636 tons, compared with 1,504,587 tons in the comparable period of 1930.

Implement and tractor manufacturers in the Chicago district may benefit soon from further Russian orders. If the Continental Construction company extends its 20 inch gas line northward from Chicago and the Sun Oil company lengthens its 10 inch line in northern New York, pipe mills will book orders for 40,480 and 4,000 tons, respectively.

Finished Prices Firm.

Viewing the steel markets by products, little variation is evident from week to week. In plates and bars, bookings are off slightly. Whatever change has developed in sheets and strip has been on the side of improvement, and in the case of wire one maker has registered a 45 per cent gain this month. A characteristic of all finished steel prices is their firmness.

In the last week steel production averaged 43 per cent at Buffalo, 35 at Cleveland, 30 at Birmingham and in eastern Pennsylvania, 28 at Chicago and Youngstown, and 25 at Pittsburgh. Because open hearth operations are staggered at Buffalo, the rate there will drop to 35 per cent this week; otherwise no changes are indicated. In September, when the daily ingot output was 59,523 tons, lowest in exactly a decade, the rate was 28.02 per cent.

In pig iron the trend is toward improved shipments, but it is barely perceptible. The price situation is easier both at Chicago and eastern Pennsylvania, where some grades are lower.

SHIPPING PARLEY CONTINUES; NO AGREEMENT YET

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Complete agreement was still lacking today on farreaching proposals under discussion here by leaders in America's shipping industry, Capt. Robert Dollar announced from his home in San Rafael.

Capt. Dollar declined to expand that statement or say what plans are being discussed in the conferences which have been going on here for nearly a week.

"The proposition is much bigger than it would appear from the guesswork that has come out," he said, and refused to discuss in any manner rumors of a huge merger of the east and west lines.

The shipping magnate made his announcements after a lengthy conference with his son, R. Stanley Dollar, who has represented the Dollar interests at the conference.

Other representatives are Herbert Fleishhacker, Pacific coast financier; John M. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine lines; Kermit Roosevelt of the Roosevelt Steamship group, and K. D. Dawson of Portland, Ore., who operates trans-Pacific ships.

Fleishhacker entertained the easterners at his home in Atherton over the week-end. He asserted they had not discussed business. Conferences will be resumed tomorrow morning. One of the aims is joint operation and control of the United States lines by the eastern and western companies.

Shipments of Lumber in Excess of Production

With production continuing on curtailed levels, lumber shipments for the week ended Oct. 3 exceeded the cut by 21 per cent and orders were 9 per cent above production, telegraphic reports from 806 leading hardwood and softwood mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers association indicate. Production of these mills for the week amounted to 167,785,000 feet. This marks the eighth consecutive week in which orders have been above production.

Tricontinental Corp. Acts to Protect Pfd. Dividend

A meeting of preferred and common stock holders of Tri-Continental corporation has been called for Oct. 29 to act on proposed charter amendments, which are designed to safeguard the continuance of regular dividends on the preferred stock and to assure the corporation of continuity in its management.

HOOVER POLICY ON RAILS HINGES ON RATE DECREE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—The decision of the interstate commerce commission on the railroads' plea for a 15 per cent freight rate increase, which is looked for this week, is expected to govern in large measure the plan of the administration to help the railroads.

As part of his program to rehabilitate the country's credit structure, President Hoover is seeking to do something to enhance the value of railroad securities and so help out not only the roads, but the securities holders—particularly the smaller banks. Should the commerce commission grant the full 15 per cent increase any administration plan for relief would probably be set aside or held in abeyance.

Because of the continued activity on the part of administration officials, several of whom were busy today consulting with railroad officials by long distance telephone, it is inferred that the administration does not believe the full rate increase will be forthcoming.

It is considered likely that if any increase is granted it will be only a partial one, and it is also thought probable that there will be exemptions, such as on agricultural products.

Yield on 301 Active Stocks at 50 Year High on Oct. 5

An average yield of 12.09 per cent a record high for fifty years, was established Oct. 5 by the 301 active cash dividend paying common stocks listed on the New York stock exchange, the monthly compilation of Moody's shows. This compares with the previous peak of 9.92 per cent, recorded in 1921.

CHICAGO TRADE FIRM ON NEWS OF HOOVER PLAN

A clearing of the clouded financial skies following announcement of President Hoover's bank credit plan, and a resultant rise in stock market values, brought an improved tone and a more optimistic outlook to Chicago wholesale and retail markets during the last week, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Favorable developments locally also played a part in the improvement, it was found. Steel orders and inquiries continued good, with merchandise buying maintaining fair volume. Wholesale firms found business steady, although orders were for comparatively small quantities of goods. Merchants still are buying on a day to day basis.

An outstanding bit of favorable news during the week was the announcement by one of the city's larger department stores that it had added 600 employés to its pay roll. The added number will be employed until after Christmas, at least, and possibly permanently, it was stated.

Announcement also was made of plans for a new $75,000 hangar at the Municipal airport, work on which will start within a short time. Plans to employ nearly 2,000 men for work on water main improvements were made known by the city, the work to start at once.

Schedule $12,111,881 in Municipal Bonds for Week

New state and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week represent the needs of 47 communities and total $12,111,881, the Daily Bond Buyer reports. The weekly average of offerings for the year to date is $36,211,186. The largest item booked for this week is an offering of $6,000,000 state of California 4 per cent veterans' welfare bonds, scheduled for award at public auction Thursday.

September Steel Output Put at 1,547,602 Tons

The output of Bessemer and open hearth steel of all American companies during September is calculated at 1,547,602 gross tons by the American Iron and Steel institute, compared with 1,719,462 gross tons for August and 2,840,379 gross tons in September last year. Each of these months had twenty-six working days. The September total is the smallest monthly output since April, 1921. Production for the first nine months of this year aggregated 20,411,736 gross tons compared with 32,401,981 gross tons in 1930.

Demand for Bonds Shows Late Upturn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—New financing done publicly last week consisted of a single issue of debentures in the amount of $12,000,000 for the Federal Intermediate Credit bank offered by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent. A year ago last week new securities in the amount of $125,295,000 were marketed, headed by $100,000,000 of Canadian government 4s due in 1960.

Unsettled conditions in virtually all departments of the bond market this week precluded any new financing of a long term character. Virtually all the important municipal issues which had been scheduled for award were postponed because of the inability of dealers to sell the bonds at this time.

Signs of Improvement.

Early in the week the demand for bonds on dealers' shelves was almost at standstill, but following the announcement of the huge credit pool proposed by President Hoover the bond market began to show signs of definite improvement.

The hearing planned for next week by the joint legislative committee on banks of the state legislature is expected to crystallize sentiment for a possible change in the state laws covering investments legal for savings banks and trust funds in this state, especially as they relate to railroad securities.

Offerings of bonds, by groups for this and last week follow:

	This week.	Last week.
Fed. Int. Credit bank	$12,000,000
Public utility		$20,000,000
State and municipal		2,742,000
Total	$12,000,000	$22,742,000

In the absence of new financing for corporations their pressing requirements are being taken care of by bank loans, which will be refunded later by public offerings of securities.

FARM EXPORTS DECLINE AGAIN DURING AUGUST

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—American agriculture exports lost further ground in August, the index of 44 commodities touching 53 for a new low level.

The July figure was 61, while in August, 1930, it was 87. The agriculture department's chart covers a period from 1914 to the present.

Total exports for July and August were $96,054,000, against $106,762,000 for the same months a year ago. Imports were $159,443,000 and $196,086,000.

All groups except fruits contributed to the decline in August.

BOND MARKET RALLIES VIGOROUSLY ON NEWS OF HOOVER PROGRAM

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Bonds responded promptly to news of President Hoover's various plans for reviving confidence.

Organization of a company to assist banks being pressed for funds logically would help the bond market, since the operation of such an organization would tend to relieve the pressure to sell bonds in order to obtain cash to meet withdrawals. Instead, banks will be able to rediscount holdings which would not be possible otherwise.

Word that administration was considering some method of stabilizing railroad bonds as a means of assisting savings banks and insurance companies was an important bullish influence. These securities were aided also by Wall street reports that the interstate commerce commission probably would grant part of the freight rate increase.

Sixty corporate bonds reached the lowest average price in several years at 90.0 on Monday, but the rally was so vigorous that the composite climbed to 93.9 on Friday and to 94.2 on Saturday.

Higher discount rates of the federal reserve banks of New York, Boston, and Cleveland, probably forecasting moderately firmer money levels, depressed Liberty and United States treasury bonds. These rates did not react similarly on high grade corporate obligations because of the wide spread in yields between the two groups.

ARRANGE LOAN TO HELP DESTROY SURPLUS COFFEE

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Advices received in New York coffee circles from Rio de Janeiro today said the National Coffee council has been given authority by the Brazilian minister of finance to arrange an internal loan of 200,000 contos, with a view to hastening coffee destruction at the interior of Sao Paulo.

The loan will be secured by bonds guaranteed by the $2.43 export tax payments on all coffee shipped out of Brazil on 8 per cent interest, redeemable within a year, in proportion to export tax payments. It was said this will enable Brazil to hasten the destruction of its surplus and clear warehouses of their present old stocks, which are running up large carrying charges.

Argentina Acts to End Speculation in Exchange

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The Argentine government will take over control of foreign exchange operations, beginning next Tuesday, under a decree issued by the cabinet council. A commission has been empowered to fix the rate of exchange daily and supervise transactions. The decree is intended to check speculation and orders that all exchange negotiations shall be made only through local banks that are specially authorized.

National Dairy Products 5½s.

I would appreciate your opinion of National Dairy Products company 5½ per cent bonds, their rating, etc. Thank you for your trouble.—A. B. J.

National Dairy Products corporation, through 51 direct subsidiaries and 89 sub-subsidiaries, is strong in the large cities east of the Mississippi river. The three major divisions of its business are the production and selling of fluid milk, which constitutes about 44 per cent of gross; ice cream, about 24 per cent of gross, and cheese, about 20 per cent of gross. The other 12 per cent is taken up by butter and other products. Ice cream is the most profitable product, contributing over half of net income. Milk is responsible for about 30 per cent of net.

The company's expansion during its eight years of existence has been rapid. Sales for 1930 were $375,000,000, against $300,000,000 in 1929 and $213,000,000 in 1928, the increases resulting mainly from acquisitions. These acquisitions have been financed by the issue of preferred and common stocks and debenture bonds.

Amounts available for interest charges have increased steadily since organization, as have fixed charges. The latter were earned 7.05 times in 1930, 10.40 times in 1929, 6.99 times in 1928 and 6.45 times in 1927. The company's balance sheet at the close of 1930 indicated a strong current position. Current assets were $68,152,625 and current liabilities were $21,144,799. Cash and marketable securities were about $20,600,000. Balance available for interest, federal taxes and preferred dividends in the first half of 1931 was $14,497,118, against $17,127,443 in the corresponding period of 1930. Interest, federal taxes and preferred dividends totaled $3,944,292 and $4,180,232, respectively.

The $79,280,500 5½ per cent debentures due 1948 are the direct obligation of the company, but are not secured by mortgage. They are a business man's investment.

Mead, Johnson & Co.

Please give me your opinion of Mead, Johnson & Co. common.—F. A. H.

Mead, Johnson & Co. manufactures infant diet foods. Net income has increased each year since 1922, reaching record net earnings of $1,687,624 or $9.51 per common share in 1930. For 1929 net income was $1,278,473 or $7.03 per share. Net for 1928 was $1,082,306 and for 1927 $1,068,541. In the first half of 1931 net income was $673,531 or $3.72 per common share, against $904,658 or $5.12 per common share for the first half of 1930.

On June 30, 1931, current assets were $3,769,491 and current liabilities were $603,760.

The common is on an annual $3 dividend basis. Extras in 1931 to Oct. 1 totaled $2 per share. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

HOOVER ACTION CHECKS GLOOM IN WALL STREET

Emphatic Response to Proposals.

The New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and other security and commodity markets will be closed today in observance of Columbus day. Banks will also be closed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—For last week's emphatic and enthusiastic response of the markets to the President's proposals there were three good reasons.

It was the first assertion of constructive leadership, basing its program of dealing with the existing crisis on mobilization of the whole country's banking resources. Wall street had pointed, during many weeks, to the lack of aggressive leadership or of practicable action as a circumstance which had profoundly aggravated the dejection in the public mind. The White House announcement at least provided both.

Furthermore, it intimated plainly that other complicating influences than the situation at the country banks and in the investment markets would in due course be attacked, with similar united action. Perhaps of even more immediate significance, the first action definitely outlined went to the heart of a specially difficult problem of the moment.

Action of Stock Markets.

The action of financial markets can seldom be rightly classed as in itself a paramount influence on an economic situation. Usually it reflects, even though it may exaggerate, the good or bad elements in that situation. But there are occasions when the course of the stock exchange may itself become a primary cause in throwing the whole economic structure out of joint. It certainly did "so" in the first eight months of 1929, when the wild illusions of a nation-wide speculation for the rise plunged the credit position into disorder, distorted news and policies even of industrial conditions, and reacted in the most demoralizing way on the foreign situation. It has manifestly become such an influence in the present situation.

The outpour of every kind of securities, from institutions which were selling only to protect themselves from panicky conduct on the part of their own depositors, but which sold in utter disregard of prices or intrinsic values, had driven down investment markets to quotations such as would ordinarily mean insolvency of American enterprise.

Brings About Hoarding.

The sight of such movements on the market had caused similar action by frightened private investors who were perfectly able and under ordinary circumstances perfectly willing to stand by their investments, and, in the case of the more excitable, it had led to the primitive and barbaric practice of locking up the cash proceeds in deposit boxes.

It is to meet this abnormal and mainly psychological situation at the strategic point, through protecting and keeping off the demoralized market the securities and other assets of such banks as are under pressure, that the $50,000,000 "banking pool" is organized.

This is not to say that the new program of the administration, even when applied to its later stages, will bring about economic equilibrium. We still have the long continued and still continuing shrinkage in the amount of merchandise going to consumers through our distributing channels, and we still have the downward movement in the general level of staple prices. That these perplexing phenomena are among the causes for the present disordered mentality of the financial public, no one denies, but less is being said regarding the effect of this very attitude of hopelessness on consumption of goods and the course of prices.

Paralyzes Efforts.

It is not merely that the average consumer is buying less, but that the atmosphere of outright pessimism paralyzes legitimate efforts to enlarge the market. If it is urged that the abnormally low values on the stock exchange and the flood of liquidation have only measured the inner view of farseeing financiers regarding what lies ahead of us, the answer is that markets always have reflected financial delusion as readily as financial knowledge.

The week's events have indicated unmistakably that other measures for restoring confidence, applied to other weak points, must now inevitably follow. It is reasonable to expect that this resolute policy at Washington, if it will be, should in due course end the financial reign of terror.

We invite inquiry regarding facilities, service, rates and securities of the Associated Gas and Electric System, a major utility serving 1 in 27 electric customers in the United States and its possessions.

Corn Crop Reduced.

A corn crop of 2,703,000,000 bu is indicated by the government report received after the close of the exchanges on Saturday. This is 12,000,000 bu less than last month, and compares with 2,851,000,000 bu as the average of private reports. The reduction in the crop was not sufficient to be a bullish factor, although the trade, after being bearish most of the year, has become mainly friendly to the buying side, and is disposed to take hold on all breaks.

The corn crop is being harvested earlier than usual, owing to the dry, warm weather, and a little of the new grain is moving marketward. Farmers in Illinois and Iowa sold old corn more freely, despite the low prices. Cash premiums held fairly, although they eased toward the last on increased receipts.

Heart traders who have for months confined their operations to corn, have returned to the wheat pit, which may affect the volume of speculation in corn.

At the close December was 35⅝@35¾c; March, 37¾c; May, 39¾@39¾c, and July, 40¾c. Prices for the week follow:

Oat Crop Figures Raised.

Contrary to expectations the government report on oats of 1,174,000,000 bu for October was 13,000,000 bu more than in the previous month, and 144,000,000 bu less than last year's final. The barley crop which is considered a factor by the oat trade, increased 14,000,000 bu. Oat prices are so low that speculators are buying them on all breaks, and cash and elevator interests are constantly in the market. Closing trades on December oats were 22¼@22c, May 24⅝@24⅝c, and July 24¼c. Prices follow:

Lard Has Late Rally.

Lard futures declined to the lowest price level in years in sympathy with hogs, which were the lowest since 1896, and closed with a top of $5.50, the lowest extreme top since March, 1904. Liquidation by holders of lard is said to have been completed, and their offerings have been absorbed by packers and distributors. The situation in the entire provision line is regarded as more healthy with a liberal consumption. At the close, lard futures were 20@20c higher for the week, while dry salted bellies were 20c lower at $7.90, after a range of $6.97½ @ $7.70. A year ago they closed at $12.65@$.... Prices follow:

Spring Wheat Is Short in Northwest States

Not in years has the spring wheat crop been as near a practical failure as this season, particularly in the four northwestern states, where the bread wheat crop, as given by the government report, is only 55,901,000 bu, compared with 57,792,000 bu in September and 134,679,000 bu harvested last year. Durum wheat in the four states is 19,539,000 bu, the smallest crop ever raised, compared with 57,-105,000 bu last year. The total spring wheat crop for the country is 109,-000,000 bu, a shortage of 42,000,000 bu from last year. This shortage has necessitated northwestern mills drawing on the hard winter wheat crop of the southwest. Detailed comparisons, with the last three ciphers omitted, follow:

FOREIGN LIGHT SHOWS $494,674 TOTAL INCOME

Foreign Light and Power company for the year ended June 30, 1931, reports total income of $494,674, of which all but $4,369 represented income received from interest and dividends. After expenses of $29,702, the company reported net profit of $466,971, from which $200,000 was paid in the form of dividends on its $6 first preferred shares.

The net income of $466,971 compares with $546,947 in the previous fiscal year and $466,780 two years ago. The total income of $494,674 represents dividends and interest on bonds, loans, and miscellaneous accounts, exceeding last year's income from the same sources by more than $13,000. This comparatively favorable result is due to the fact that all the companies in which the corporation has important participations maintained their regular dividends and interest payments and no losses were suffered as a result of foreign exchange operations.

Electrical Equipment Business Below Normal

Demand for electrical equipment and apparatus in the country's markets continues well below normal, Electrical World reports. Activity last week was centered chiefly in the east, where electric railway account and government call for heavy machinery and prime movers furnish the most constructive item of news. Both awards and impending commitments for railway and subway materials are developing large totals in the eastern district.

Hear Plans Are Completed for Acceptance Concern

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Definite plans to launch the American Bankers' Acceptance corporation, with an authorized capital of $50,000,000, early in 1932, have been completed, according to reports in the financial district today. The new corporation has the sponsorship of August Belmont & Co. and associates. It will be a permanent institution to rediscount bankers' assets not now eligible for rediscount at the federal reserve banks.

SOVIET BUYS LESS GOODS IN UNITED STATES

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Purchases in the United States by the Amtorg Trading corporation for the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics were only half as large during the first nine months of 1931 as in the same period last year, says a company report.

Orders to Oct. 1 this year totaled $49,100,000, compared with $99,600,000 up to that date in 1930. The September total of $600,000 was the lowest figure recorded in several years.

The figures differ from those given by the department of commerce for American exports, it was explained, in that the latter refer to shipments of American products, much of which had been purchased several months earlier.

$2.95 is the Average Monthly Cost of $100 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300, to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1930, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off; it does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:
